AMERICAN TAXPAYERS will be interested in a Voltaire story told by Andrew D. White in his Life of Turgot:

"A party of Parisians were amusing each other by telling robber stories. Presently Voltaire, who had been listening quietly, said, 'I can tell a robber story better than any of yours.' The whole room immediately became silent and listened to the greatest personage in the French literature of the 18th century. Voltaire, after clearing his throat, began as follows: 'Once upon a time there was a farmer general,' (a tax collector).

"Then he was silent. Presently all began to cry out: 'Why do you stop? Go on. Tell us the story.' 'I have told the story,' said Voltaire. 'Do you not see that my statement implies the greatest robber story in history?'"

White's Life of Turgot, included in his book, "Seven Great Statesmen."

RAYMOND HAMILTON, young desperado and braggart, said, "No prison can hold me; I shall not sit in the hot seat." He lost his bragging spirit when he walked slowly to the electric chair just after midnight Friday.

His face was white, as he walked through the door of the death cell, "accompanied by three Catholic priests," as told in the Associated Press dispatch. His young associate in crime, Joe Palmer, sat in the "hot seat" on the same night. It is too late for them to realize what others of their kind should realize, that "crime does not pay," and the electric chair is in reality a "hot" seat.

MR. ECCLES, governor of the federal reserve board, says issuing two billions in new currency to pay the veterans' bonus, would create "a fear psychology."

What about the fear psychology on the part of taxpayers that would be caused by issuing two more billions of inflation-bonds, calling for two billions in interest in addition to principal?

Those suffering a pawnbroker complex say new money paying no interest, would mean reckless inflation by the administration. Will not reckless inflation, with interest-bearing bonds be twice as bad?

BARRINGER TRIAL JURY COMPLETED

Selection of a jury to hear the trial of Fred Barringer, of Ruston, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Keith Toombs, state highway officer, in a traffic accident in West Monroe, was completed in the district court here yesterday morning about 11:30 o'clock. The court was then adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock, when the hearing of testimony in the case will begin.

The selection of the jury began about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and eight jurors had been selected when the court adjourned late in the day.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON BIGAMY COUNT

A woman charged with bigamy in a warrant sworn out by her husband, to whom she had been married since 1922, was arrested at Dodson by the Winn parish sheriff's department for authorities here, and was returned here from Winnfield yesterday afternoon by deputies of the Ouachita parish sheriff's department. The woman is Mrs. Lula Barlow, wife of Roy D. Barlow, a painter, of West Monroe.

She had left here recently to reside at Dodson, it was reported. Her husband did not accompany her.

The warrant for her arrest charged that she "did unlawfully marry R. D. Barlow on August 5, 1922, her former husband, John Sam Brown, being at that time alive and undivorced."

Sudden Shift In Job-Giving Program Announced By Walker

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Sweeping authority for a newly created "rural electrification administration" to go into the electric power business today was granted by President Roosevelt in an executive order under the $4,000,000,000 work-relief program.

Coincidentally a sudden shift in work project plans was announced by Frank C. Walker, head of the applications division.

The new rule states flatly that "all allotment applications will come through existing agencies of the federal government" instead of being filed directly—as was first expected—with Walker.

The new arrangement emphasized the important place Henry L. Hopkins will have in the work program. Except for pending applications befort the public works administration, all others will be referred to Hopkins' powerful works progress division be-

ADMINISTRATION LEADERS REFUSE TO CUT PROGRAM

Republicans Demand That Plans Be Reduced By Two-Thirds

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—A sharp Republican demand that the Roosevelt five-point legislative program be reduced by two-thirds in order to allow congress to adjourn by July 1 today met an uncompromising negative by administration leaders.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority chief, predicting abundant controversy over the quintet of measures laid down by President Roosevelt for action before adjournment, said the legislature should act on NRA extension, social security and appropriations bills and go home.

This would mean the scrapping of the public utility holding company abolition bill, the omnibus banking measure and expansion of transportation regulation. The Republican leader contends all three might well go over until next winter's session.

Democrats at yesterday's party conference took no action to shave the program. McNary expressed keen disappointment at this today.

"There must be a diminution in the program if we are to quit June 15 or July 1 at the latest. But if we are compelled to go through with the entire program I fear we will be here until far into August."

President Roosevelt is letting congress fuss and fume.

Although conferring with his political and legislative chiefs during a week-end fishing trip, Mr. Roosevelt's next direct contact with the capitol is expected next week when the senate releases the Patman bonus

ARMED MEN GUARD 50-ACRE OIL POOL

GLADEWATER, Texas, May 11.—Armed guards warned against use of open fier in the oil field here today as more than 250,000 barrels of fuel oil rolled out of flood-damaged earthen pits, spread over a 50-acre area and swelled the backwaters of the Sabine river.

Operators said an expected rise in the river tonight or tomorrow would endanger nearly a million barrels of fuel gasoline and oil valued at more than half million dollars.

Sounding a warning that the floods of oil presented one of the most serious fire threats known in the East Texas field, game wardens ordered the area around refineries patrolled with armed guards.

Crews of laborers in boats and skiffs worked overtime building floating board dams in an attempt to hold the oil from the river.

Senator's Plea Sets Off Week-End Of Oratory On Bonus Bill

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—A cry from Senator Borah for "cheap and abundant money" today set off a week-end bararge of oratory and argument by which friends of the Patman currency-bonus bill hope to force it through the senate over a presidential veto.

Borah stepped into the controversy as Huey Long and Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit took to the microphone to rally public support for the bill which would pay the veterans with newly issued currency.

Each side gained a vote today, but the net result was to make the chance for the bill to pass over a veto even slimmer—it takes two votes for to every one against to set aside a presidential veto.

Urging his listeners to wire or write their senators to vote to override a veto, Senator Long, in his radio talk, said that "it is a shame to have a few votes help the president to sustain a

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—Oklahoma's cowboy congressman, Percy L. Gassaway, "dares" Huey Long to come to Oklahoma to oppose him in the next campaign.

Taking cognizance of reports the Louisiana senator would seek revenge for Gassaway's ridicule by waging a personal word battle against him, Gassaway today issued the following statement:

"My only hope is that the Louisiana 'tom-tit' will do me the great service of coming to my congressional district and talking against me. There are some people in my district who have not found out just what a fraud Huey P. Long really is. I know of no better way for them to find out than to have him presented to them in person.

"If the self-appointed dictator of Louisiana can kid himself into believing that the people of Oklahoma will fall for his antics, I want him to find out by the quickest and best method—coming to my district and attacking me. Nothing would suit me better, I dare him to do it."

Man Pleads With Patrolman To 'Shoot Me Between The Eyes'

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 11.—(AP)—A police patrolman's deadly aim halted an 80-mile an hour flight of two bandits today four minutes after they escaped with $4,000 in a spectacular payroll holdup.

Officer J. J. Jeffries' blazing sawed-off shotgun shattered the left arm of the driver of the bandit car, described by police as Felix C. Cutcher, 42, former Missouri and Arkansas train robber, and paroled federal convict.

As Cutcher's arm was shot from the steering wheel of the car, he lost control and the machine leaped a curb. Aided by officers in a second police car which joined the chase, Jeffries and Patrolman John Lucchesi leaped out, and the two bandits surrendered. A third man who had aided them in the robbery of the Anderson-Tully company, lumber manufacturers, just four minutes before, had disappeared.

Cutcher was sent to a hospital where his arm was amputated. His condition was critical. His companion, who gave the name of Lawrence Barnes, Memphis, was taken to jail.

Four-Three Decision Gives Control Of Water Board To Huey

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Holding that it was within the police or reserve power of the state, the Louisiana supreme court today upheld constitutionality of the legislative act which reorganizes the New Orleans sewerage and water board to give control of the board to the state administration of Governor O. K. Allen, political ally of Senator Huey P. Long.

The court split four to three on the decision and the majority opinion asserted that the operation of the sewerage and water board was not an ordinary function of the municipal government, but was "the performance of a governmental function delegated to that board and the city of New Orleans by the sovereign state of Louisiana."

The city government, headed by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, whom Long is seeking to oust, contended that the legislature was without authority to reorganize the board on constitutional grounds and that the act was passed contrary to provisions of the "home rule clauses" of the constitution.

The city also alleged that the legislature was illegally exercising po-

TEXAS DESPERADO NABBED IN SMALL MISSISSIPPI TOWN

T. E. Kelly, Member Of Hamilton-Barrow Gang, Easily Caught

PHILADELPHIA, Miss., May 11.—(AP)—T. E. Kelly, alias J. C. Downing, Texas desperado member of the Hamilton-Barrow gang of the southwest, was captured here Friday night by small town peace officers without resistance, it became known today.

The gangster was surrounded in a road house 12 miles east of here, and when faced with a machine gun, riot gun and two .38 pistols, surrendered in the same meek manner in which his reputed chief, Ray Hamilton, did in a Texas railroad yard several weeks ago.

Kelly had been at large since his break from the Texas prison on May 22, 1934. He was serving a 49-year sentence for robbery with firearms, a crime committed after he had been paroled by Governor "Ma" Ferguson from a 99-year term for the murder of a postmaster.

Kelly denied that he had been a member of the Texas gang, but officers said they had been informed by a woman at the road house that the "bad man" had written her telling of his connection with the gang.

Sheriff R. F. Hayes, Neshoba county, Deputy Elton McKay and B. M. White, city marshal of Philadelphia, arrested Kelly after having suspect-

U. S. AGENTS MAY GET NEW WEAPON

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Justice department agents soon may have a new weapon—a secret radio system—to aid them in their efforts against kidnapers, bank robbers, jewel thieves and other criminals.

An informed source said today that radio engineers have been experimenting for some time along this line. Plans call for putting the central broadcasting system atop the new justice building here, with the country divided into reception zones.

The radio plans has been mentioned as a possibility by both Attorney General Cummings and J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation.

Hoover's idea, he said today, would be for a continuous hookup with key points in 32 cities and with mobile radio units in fast automobiles and possibly airplanes.

The system would be capable of instant expansion to link state and metropolitan police and even sheriffs and constables whenever a wide search was needed over a large area, Hoover said.

Anti-Long Solons Present; Supporters Conspicuously Absent

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 11—(AP)—The gage of combat thrown down by Senator Huey P. Long to the New Deal agricultural administration was hurled back at the senator today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in his invasion of Louisiana where Long's political word is law.

Speaking before thousands of farmers and other citizenry massed from over the state under a blistering sun, Wallace restrainedly, but nonetheless vehemently, praised President Roosevelt, like himself a target of Long's attacks, and vigorously defended the agricultural adjustment administration's farmer betterment program.

The man Long recently called the "ignoramus from Iowa," came down to the central city of Long's dominated state of Louisiana, spoke in the same public square where the king-fish dictator was once "egged," and endeavored to refute the senator's attacks upon the New Deal farm crop limitation and other agricultural projects by statistic citation and eloquence.

Repaying a recent visit by Long to his own home city of Des Moines, Iowa, the secretary of agriculture refrained from mentioning Long by name, but closed his address with what was accepted by an enthusiastically pro-Roosevelt crowd as a sharp rap at the senator.

Finishing delivery of and laying aside his carefully prepared address text, Wallace launched into denunciation of "some who profess to speak in the name of the common people," and persons "who can stir up trouble."

"There are plenty of persons who can stir up trouble," the secretary asserted, as he completed presentation of claims that the American and the Louisiana farmer income had been greatly increased in the past two years and that an unfair economic disparity between agriculture and industry had been to great extent smoothed out.

"There are some who profess to speak in the name of the common people and seek to draw a red herring across the trail," Wallace asserted.

"There are plenty of persons who can stir up trouble. It's easy to go

Frank Wallace Asks Jurist For Judgment Saying He's Hubby

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer today signed an order serving notice upon Mae West, film star, that Frank Wallace, vaudeville actor, had asked the court for a declaratory judgment announcing he is her husband.

Ever since a 1911 marriage license for Mae West and Frank Wallace was turned up in Milwaukee April 20, Miss West has steadfastly denied that she was the party mentioned. The parents mentioned by the applicant of the Milwaukee license were identical with those of the screen actress.

Miss West admitted, however, that she knew a Frank Wallace whom she gave a job in her stage production of "Diamond Lil" in 1928. He died two years ago, according to other members of that company.

Justice Hammer ordered the notice of publication printed in the New York Law Journal and another publication.

Wallace, in an affidavit, describes the defendant as "Mae Wallace," and declares he married her on April 11, 1911, in Milwaukee. They were partners in a vaudeville act at the time, he said, employed in a show owned by Jacob and Germon. Their marriage was secret, he continued, and she continued to live with her parents in Brooklyn, while he lived in Maspeth, Queens.

Wallace insists he remained married to Miss West until 1915, when James Timoney, an attorney now frequently described as the star's business manager, notified him he had been divorced. The divorce, he said he was advised, had been obtained in "Nassau county or some other county on Long Island," but the records there, he added, failed to show entry of a decree.

He met Miss West in 1909, he said.

Recent publicity of the marriage reports, and Miss West's denials, Wallace said, have humiliated him and made him appear an imposter. He gives the screen star's age as 42.

HAS TO SEE LAWYER SOMETIME, AVERS MAE

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(AP)—Frank Wallace, vaudeville actor, will have to "come up sometime" and see Mae West's lawyers in connection about his claim of being her husband, Mae said. Miss West was not immediately available today for comment on a New York court order serving notice on her that Wallace has asked a declaratory judgment that he is her husband. Last night, however, on hearing the court action probably would be taken, Miss West said:

"Goodness gracious, that man's loose again. Well, I've been sued for everything else, but let's see those divorce papers. This suit doesn't mean a thing."

The actress said in most matters she is able to take care of herself, but when it comes to an "alleged Mr. West," she needs a lawyer.

"He'll just have to come up sometime and see my lawyer," Miss West said announcing she would confer with attorneys about the court move of Wallace.

Miss West previously declared she never was married to Wallace or to anyone else.

A third man who had aided them in the robbery of the Anderson-Tully company, lumber manufacturers, just four minutes before, had disappeared.

Cutcher was sent to a hospital where his arm was amputated. His condition was critical. His companion, who gave the name of Lawrence Barnes, Memphis, was taken to jail.

TRIBUNAL BACKS LONG FORCES IN ORLEANS FIGHT

Four-Three Decision Gives Control Of Water Board To Huey

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Holding that it was within the police or reserve power of the state, the Louisiana supreme court today upheld constitutionality of the legislative act which reorganizes the New Orleans sewerage and water board to give control of the board to the state administration of Governor O. K. Allen, political ally of Senator Huey P. Long.

The court split four to three on the decision and the majority opinion asserted that the operation of the sewerage and water board was not an ordinary function of the municipal government, but was "the performance of a governmental function delegated to that board and the city of New Orleans by the sovereign state of Louisiana."

The city government, headed by Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, whom Long is seeking to oust, contended that the legislature was without authority to reorganize the board on constitutional grounds and that the act was passed contrary to provisions of the "home rule clauses" of the constitution.

The city also alleged that the legislature was illegally exercising po-

Anti-Long Solons Present; Supporters Conspicuously Absent

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 11—(AP)—The gage of combat thrown down by Senator Huey P. Long to the New Deal agricultural administration was hurled back at the senator today by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace in his invasion of Louisiana where Long's political word is law.

Speaking before thousands of farmers and other citizenry massed from over the state under a blistering sun, Wallace restrainedly, but nonetheless vehemently, praised President Roosevelt, like himself a target of Long's attacks, and vigorously defended the agricultural adjustment administration's farmer betterment program.

The man Long recently called the "ignoramus from Iowa," came down to the central city of Long's dominated state of Louisiana, spoke in the same public square where the kingfish dictator was once "egged," and endeavored to refute the senator's attacks upon the New Deal farm crop limitation and other agricultural projects by statistic citation and eloquence.

Repaying a recent visit by Long to his own home city of Des Moines, Iowa, the secretary of agriculture refrained from mentioning Long by name, but closed his address with what was accepted by an enthusiastically pro-Roosevelt crowd as a sharp rap at the senator.

Finishing delivery of and laying aside his carefully prepared address text, Wallace launched into denunciation of "some who profess to speak in the name of the common people," and persons "who can stir up trouble."

"There are plenty of persons who can stir up trouble," the secretary asserted, as he completed presentation of claims that the American and the Louisiana farmer income had been greatly increased in the past two years and that an unfair economic disparity between agriculture and industry had been to great extent smoothed out.

"There are some who profess to speak in the name of the common people and seek to draw a red herring across the trail," Wallace asserted.

TEXAS DESPERADO NABBED IN SMALL MISSISSIPPI TOWN

T. E. Kelly, Member Of Hamilton-Barrow Gang, Easily Caught

PHILADELPHIA, Miss., May 11.—(AP)—T. E. Kelly, alias J. C. Downing, Texas desperado member of the Hamilton-Barrow gang of the southwest, was captured here Friday night by small town peace officers without resistance, it became known today.

The gangster was surrounded in a road house 12 miles east of here, and when faced with a machine gun, riot gun and two .38 pistols, surrendered in the same meek manner in which his reputed chief, Ray Hamilton, did in a Texas railroad yard several weeks ago.

Kelly had been at large since his break from the Texas prison on May 22, 1934. He was serving a 49-year sentence for robbery with firearms, a crime committted after he had been paroled by Governor "Ma" Ferguson from a 99-year term for the murder of a postmaster.

Kelly denied that he had been a member of the Texas gang, but officers said they had been informed by a woman at the road house that the "bad man" had written her telling of his connection with the gang.

Sheriff R. F. Hayes, Neshoba county, Deputy Elton McKay and B. M. White, city marshal of Philadelphia, arrested Kelly after having suspect-

U. S. AGENTS MAY GET NEW WEAPON

WASHINGTON, May 11.—(AP)—Justice department agents soon may have a new weapon—a secret radio system—to aid them in their efforts against kidnapers, bank robbers, jewel thieves and other criminals.

An informed source said today that radio engineers have been experimenting for some time along this line. Plans call for putting the central broadcasting system atop the new justice building here, with the country divided into reception zones.

The radio plans has been mentioned as a possibility by both Attorney General Cummings and J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation.

Hoover's idea, he said today, would be for a continuous hookup with key points in 32 cities and with mobile radio units in fast automobiles and possibly airplanes.

The system would be capable of instant expansion to link state and metropolitan police and even sheriffs and constables whenever a wide search was needed over a large area, Hoover said.

VAUDEVILLE ACTOR TAKES COURT ACTION TO PROVE HE MARRIED MAE WEST AT MILWAUKEE 'WAY BACK IN 1911

Frank Wallace Asks Jurist For Judgment Saying He's Hubby

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer today signed an order serving notice upon Mae West, film star, that Frank Wallace, vaudeville actor, had asked the court for a declaratory judgment announcing he is her husband.

Ever since a 1911 marriage license for Mae West and Frank Wallace was turned up in Milwaukee April 20, Miss West has steadfastly denied that she was the party mentioned. The parents mentioned by the applicant of the Milwaukee license were identical with those of the screen actress.

Miss West admitted, however, that she knew a Frank Wallace whom she gave a job in her stage production of "Diamond Lil" in 1928. He died two years ago, according to other members of that company.

Justice Hammer ordered the notice of publication printed in the New York Law Journal and another publication.

Wallace, in an affidavit, describes the defendant as "Mae Wallace," and declares he married her on April 11, 1911, in Milwaukee. They were partners in a vaudeville act at the time, he said, employed in a show owned by Jacob and Germon. Their marriage was secret, he continued, and she continued to live with her parents in Brooklyn, while he lived in Maspeth, Queens.

Wallace insists he remained married to Miss West until 1915, when James Timoney, an attorney now frequently described as the star's business manager, notified him he had been divorced. The divorce, he said he was advised, had been obtained in "Nassau county or some other county on Long Island," but the records there, he added, failed to show entry of a decree.

He met Miss West in 1909, he said.

Recent publicity of the marriage reports, and Miss West's denials, Wallace said, have humiliated him and made him appear an imposter. He gives the screen star's age as 42.

HAS TO SEE LAWYER SOMETIME, AVERS MAE

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—(AP)—Frank Wallace, vaudeville actor, will have to "come up sometime" and see Mae West's lawyers in connection about his claim of being her husband, Mae said. Miss West was not immediately available today for comment on a New York court order serving notice on her that Wallace has asked

Has 'To Come Up Sometime And See My Lawyer,' Asserts Star

a declaratory judgment that he is her husband. Last night, however, on hearing the court action probably would be taken, Miss West said:

"Goodness gracious, that man's loose again. Well, I've been sued for everything else, but let's see those divorce papers. This suit doesn't mean a thing."

The actress said in most matters she is able to take care of herself, but when it comes to an "alleged Mr. West," she needs a lawyer.

"He'll just have to come up sometime and see my lawyer," Miss West said announcing she would confer with attorneys about the court move of Wallace.

Miss West previously declared she never was married to Wallace or to anyone else.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 11.—(Special)—Friday as I went to press we couldn't find the Midway Islands. Today as I go to print we can't find the islands or the 46 airplanes either. Maybe the Japanese hid the island on 'em.

Correction note, Frank Hawkes says I beat him out of nine hours; his flight from Buenos Aires to Los Angeles was 39 hours and not 48. He says Brazil has the best air force in South America, says England and France have peddled a lot of old planes to a lot of these countries, that the U. S. is the only one sells 'em the latest model ones. Their own army and navy takes all their factories can make.

MONROE TO OBSERVE AIR TRANSPORT DAY

In conformity with a nation-wide observance, marking the 17th anniversary of the establishment of air mail in the United States, Monroe has been asked to observe "Air Transport Day" on May 15.

Travis Oliver, chairman of the north Louisiana committee of the National Aeronautical association, asks that all private and business interests join in this practical recognition of the founding of the air transport industry. All letters and packages that are sent out on May 15 from Monroe should be sent if possible by air mail, Mr. Oliver urged.

A special celebration of "Air Transport Day" has been arranged at Newark, N. J., in which the leading American air lines and other aviation interests will participate. Mayor Arnold Bernstein has been asked to send an official greeting to the mayor of Newark which will be read at the ceremonies held in that city.

AS WHEELER DAM PASSED THE HALFWAY MARK

A giant barrier 6,000 feet long and 68 feet high, the $38,000,000 Wheeler dam, more than half completed, here stretches across the Tennessee river, one of the most important links in the TVA power program. Reared at the head of the lake formed by Wilson dam, it is being built to relieve that structure at the time of peak loads. In the foreground are the foundation sections for the powerhouse. On the opposite side—the slab of white in the picture—is the navigation lock which army engineers built before TVA took over construction. Wheeler dam, midway between Florence and Decatur, Ala., will create a reservoir of about 100 square miles.

COMMITTEES FOR RED CROSS GIVEN

Executive Secretary Authorized To Attend Spring Conference

A well-attended meeting of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross was held Friday at the rooms of the organization on South Grand street. The most important work of the session was the naming of chairmen of various committees.

These were as follows: Chairman of civilian home service, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf; chairman of home service, Paul Fink; chairman of first aid life saving, Parker McComb; chairman of finance committee, C. R. Tidwell; chairman of volunteer service, Mrs. Albert Horuff; chairman of committee on nursing service, Miss Sibyl Renaud; chairman of committee on home hygiene and care of the sick, Mrs. Lizzie Morris; chairman of publicity, Fred Williamson; chairman of disaster relief, Dr. C. L. Mengis.

Authority for the sending of the executive secretary, Mrs. W. C. Holstein, to the spring conference of Red Cross, held at Pass Christian, Miss., was given.

Mrs. Holstein said that she will leave today to attend this meeting.

Number of federal prisoners in this country was set at 15,483 by Attorney General Homer Cummings in August, 1934.

DO YOU
Know the Traffic REGULATIONS?

(In cooperation with the Twin City Safety Council, sections of the Monroe City Traffic Regulations will be printed each day, to permit the public an opportunity of becoming more familiar with their provisions.)

TAXICABS

Section 54. It shall be unlawful for any person to stop any taxicab on any street or alley for a longer period of time than is necessary to answer a call for service by such vehicle or to receive or discharge a passenger, or to wait for a passenger in fulfilling a call (waiting time not to exceed twenty minutes); provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to taxicabs standing in regularly designated taxicab stands in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Jonesboro

Mrs. Stanley Lewis was hostess to her Thursday evening auction bridge club. Baskets and vases of flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception room of the home and offered a lovely setting for the occasion. Mrs. Paul Stinson won high score for the ladies. The gentlemen's prize went to Mr. Paul Stinson. The hostess served an iced course to Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Kerkland, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass and Mrs. O. A. Gaar.

The contract bridge club met with Mrs. Douglas McLean in her home in Hodge. Mesdames B. L. Kelly, J. C. Shows, E. W. Stewart, Leon Mitchell, Steve Michaud, Norman Dickson, Charles Moore and U. B. Bond were the guests for the aftrenoon. The following club members were present: Mesdames W. M. McBride, Tom Dennis, Charles Kelly, Nelson Michaud, John C. Michaud, Clark Rankin, A. G. McKenzie, Tom Callaway and W. C. McDonald, Jr.

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the church for a regular monthly business meeting. Devotional was given by Mrs. P. H. Key and prayer by Mrs. Dodge. Reports from the different circle chairmen and general officers were given. The orphans' box was discussed, and each circle donated to it. Mrs. McDonald gave a report concerning the building fund. Plans are being made to meet in groups for prayer, and make ready for the approaching revival.

The Art club met with Mrs. Stanley Lewis. The club had as its guests Mrs. Paul Naremore, Mrs. Stewart Martin, Mrs. Ben Johnston and Mrs. D. D. McDonald. The members were engaged in sewing, knitting and embroidering. During the social hour the hostess served cake and cream to the guests and the following club members: Mesdames H. W. Ayers, Paul Stinson, T. G. Littlefiels, Rowley Baker, David Jeffress and W. P. Melter.

An early May event of much interest to a large number of Jonesboro-Hodge high school patrons and children was the style revue presented in the high school auditorium, conducted under the direction of Miss Coralie Saunders, home economics teacher. The stage was artistically decorated with tall baskets of pink roses and blue larkspur, a lovely setting for the display of the many beautiful dresses made and modeled by the girls of the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades. The welcome address was given by Rosemary Mackay. Ruth L. Bayes gave several music selections.

A tap dance was given by Juanita Jones. For the best made dress Juanita Jones won first place, Dorothy Michaud, second place, and Sarah Margaret Caldwell, third place, from the ninth grade. From the tenth grade, Evelyn Ford won first place, Pauline Irvin, second place, and Edith Tait won third place. From the eleventh grade, Elailee Sones won first place, Mary Poole second place, and Sarah John Donaldson won third place

NATURAL GAS CO. OFFICE COMPLETE

Materials In New Establishment Furnished By Local Dealers

The modern beauty and conveniences of the new home and equipment of the Natural Gas company, Inc., located in the remodeled Woodmen building on Jackson street, created unusual comment during the past week, the first week since the establishing of the company's headquarters in the building.

In discussing the new home and its features with executives and employes of the firm, callers there expressed surprise and satisfaction upon learning that all materials for the complete renovation of the home, and all new equipment, were furnished by local dealers. All of the remodeling and installation work was done by local contractors and workmen.

As far as was possible, all of the materials selected for the new home were produced and turned out as finished products in northeast Louisiana and the Twin Cities.

The woodwork, for instance, including the lobby woodwork and main office counter, was turned out at the plant of a local manufacturing concern.

Viewed from the exterior, the building is a large, two-story structure, finished with light tan Orienta stucco and having abundant display window space.

Inside, in the large public reception area, the building has cream-colored plaster walls, and asphalt tile floor of a dark pattern, and a Celotex tile ceiling.

Woodwork of the area, including the counter, are stained red gum.

The main office affords plenty of working space for employes. Natural light from the large display windows floods the office.

Among the divisions of the building are the private offices of executives, billing room, Electrolux refrigerator parts room, meter service department, meter shop, warehouse and storage department.

A total of 13 telephones are located in the building, affording an idea of the efficient basis on which the company conducts its activities.

Rest rooms for white and negro men and women are located conveniently in the building.

In the display space of the main office, the company exhibits the Electrolux modern home refrigerator.

COMMITTEES FOR RED CROSS GIVEN

Executive Secretary Authorized To Attend Spring Conference

A well-attended meeting of the Ouachita parish chapter of the Red Cross was held Friday at the rooms of the organization on South Grand street. The most important work of the session was the naming of chairmen of various committees.

These were as follows: Chairman of civilian home service, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf; chairman of home service, Paul Fink; chairman of first aid life saving, Parker McComb; chairman of finance committee, C. R. Tidwell; chairman of volunteer service, Mrs. Albert Horuff; chairman of committee on nursing service, Miss Sibyl Renaud; chairman of committee on home hygiene and care of the sick, Mrs. Lizzie Morris; chairman of publicity, Fred Williamson; chairman of disaster relief, Dr. C. L. Mengis.

Authority for the sending of the executive secretary, Mrs. W. C. Holstein, to the spring conference of Red Cross, held at Pass Christian, Miss., was given.

Mrs. Holstein said that she will leave today to attend this meeting.

Number of federal prisoners in this country was set at 15,433 by Attorney General Homer Cummings in August, 1934.

DO YOU
Know the Traffic REGULATIONS?

(In cooperation with the Twin City Safety Council, sections of the Monroe City Traffic Regulations will be printed each day, to permit the public an opportunity of becoming more familiar with their provisions.)

TAXICABS

Section 54. It shall be unlawful for any person to stop any taxicab on any street or alley for a longer period of time than is necessary to answer a call for service by such vehicle or to receive or discharge a passenger, or to wait for a passenger in fulfilling a call (waiting time not to exceed twenty minutes); provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to taxicabs standing in regularly designated taxicab stands in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Jonesboro

Mrs. Stanley Lewis was hostess to her Thursday evening auction bridge club. Baskets and vases of flowers were placed at vantage points in the reception room of the home and offered a lovely setting for the occasion. Mrs. Paul Stinson won high score for the ladies. The gentlemen's prize went to Mr. Paul Stinson. The hostess served an iced course to Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Kerkland, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass and Mrs. O. A. Gaar.

The contract bridge club met with Mrs. Douglas McLean in her home in Hodge. Mesdames B. L. Kelly, J. C. Shows, E. W. Stewart, Leon Mitchell, Steve Michaud, Norman Dickson, Charles Moore and U. B. Bond were the guests for the aftrenoon. The following club members were present: Mesdames W. M. McBride, Tom Dennis, Charles Kelly, Nelson Michaud, John C. Michaud, Clark Rankin, A. G. McKenzie, Tom Callaway and W. C. McDonald, Jr.

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the church for a regular monthly business meeting. Devotional was given by Mrs. P. H. Key and prayer by Mrs. Dodge. Reports from the different circle chairmen and general officers were given. The orphans' box was discussed, and each circle donated to it. Mrs. McDonald gave a report concerning the building fund. Plans are being made to meet in groups for prayer, and make ready for the approaching revival.

The Art club met with Mrs. Stanley Lewis. The club had as its guests Mrs. Paul Naremore, Mrs. Stewart Martin, Mrs. Ben Johnston and Mrs. D. D. McDonald. The members were engaged in sewing, knitting and embroidering. During the social hour the hostess served cake and cream to the guests and the following club members: Mesdames H. W. Ayers, Paul Stinson, T. G. Littlefiels, Rowley Baker, David Jeffress and W. P. Melter.

An early May event of much interest to a large number of Jonesboro-Hodge high school patrons and children was the style revue presented in the high school auditorium, conducted under the direction of Miss Coralie Saunders, home economics teacher. The stage was artistically decorated with tall baskets of pink roses and blue larkspur, a lovely setting for the display of the many beautiful dresses made and modeled by the girls of the ninth, tenth and eleventh grades. The welcome address was given by Rosemary Mackay. Ruth L. Bayes gave several music selections.

A tap dance was given by Juanita Jones. For the best made dress Juanita Jones won first place, Dorothy Michaud, second place, and Sarah Margaret Caldwell, third place, from the ninth grade. From the tenth grade, Evelyn Ford won first place, Pauline Irvin, second place, and Edith Tait won third place. From the eleventh grade, Elsillee Sones won first place, Mary Poole second place, and Sarah John Donaldson won third place

NATURAL GAS CO. OFFICE COMPLETE

Materials In New Establishment Furnished By Local Dealers

The modern beauty and conveniences of the new home and equipment of the Natural Gas company, Inc., located in the remodeled Woodmen building on Jackson street, created unusual comment during the past week, the first week since the establishing of the company's headquarters in the building.

In discussing the new home and its features with executives and employes of the firm, callers there expressed surprise and satisfaction upon learning that all materials for the complete renovation of the home, and all new equipment, were furnished by local dealers. All of the remodeling and installation work was done by local contractors and workmen.

As far as was possible, all of the materials selected for the new home were produced and turned out as finished products in northeast Louisiana and the Twin Cities.

The woodwork, for instance, including the lobby woodwork and main office counter, was turned out at the plant of a local manufacturing concern.

Viewed from the exterior, the building is a large, two-story structure, finished with light tan Orienta stucco and having abundant display window space.

Inside, in the large public reception area, the building has cream-colored plaster walls, and asphalt tile floor of a dark pattern, and a Celotex tile ceiling.

Woodwork of the area, including the counter, are stained red gum.

The main office affords plenty of working space for employes. Natural light from the large display windows floods the office.

Among the divisions of the building are the private offices of executives, billing room, Electrolux refrigerator parts room, meter service department, meter shop, warehouse and storage department.

A total of 13 telephones are located in the building, affording an idea of the efficient basis on which the company conducts its activities.

Rest rooms for white and negro men and women are located conveniently in the building.

In the display space of the main office, the company exhibits the Electrolux modern home refrigerator.

LES PRIZE WON BY MARIE SMITH

One Thousand Grand Awards Will Be Made During Contest

Marie Smith, 112 Malvern street, was the winner of last week's $5 prize, the second to be awarded in the Sally Myles comic cut-out contest. One thousand grand prizes, with a first prize of $1,000 are some of the awards that will be made in this contest.

Marie received her prize for a few minutes time in cutting out comic characters for this newspaper and coloring them in accordance with the easy contest rules.

It is not too late for everyone to be eligible for the grand prizes to be awarded at the end of the five-week contest. If you have not sent your comic cut-out to Sally Myles at this newspaper, simply send three such cut-outs colored according to the rules of the contest this week and you will be eligible for the weekly prize of $5 awarded for the best colored comic cut-out submitted in Monroe and you will also be well on your way toward winning one of the 1,000 cash prizes.

See the Myles Salt advertisement in this newspaper Thursday for the easy rules or obtain them at your grocer's.

Folks in Monroe will well remember the last Sally Myles contest which was almost as easy as this one and in which local contestants won prizes. Now is the time to enter the comic cut-out contest along with the other folks. Don't Miss your chance of enjoying the benefits of winning a lot of money so easily.

THE MAN-WHO-WOULD-BE-KING PRAYS FOR PEACE

Institutions To Observe National Hospital Day

National Hospital day will be observed today in Monroe when two hospitals will invite visitors. The public is invited to call and pay a visit of inspection to St. Francis and Riverside sanitariums.

St. Francis sanitarium has set aside the hours from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. for the reception of visitors. A silver tea for the benefit of the children's free ward is to be held and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, at Riverside sanitarium, will keep open house from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. when the public is urged to attend. Punch will be served.

Enough current to ring a doorbell can be generated by electric fish.

SUB-CONTRACT ON LEVEE WORK LET

J. W. Hendricks To Do Part Of Job For Jones And Bland

Labor to be used by Jones and Bland, contractors for the remaining dirt levee work in West Monroe, will be obtained through the district office here of the Louisiana state employment service, J. D. Jones, one of the members of the firm indicated Saturday in talking to R. E. Young, district manager of the employment service.

It was also learned Saturday that the contractor had sub-let a portion of the work to J. W. Hendricks, who will use a drag-line and move dirt into place along a section of the new levee.

Comparatively little progress has been made in the work on the bridge across the Ouachita river here within the last two weeks. This has been partly due to high water, as officials of Vincennes Bridge company, contractors, are said to be opposed to putting up the steel as long as there is any likelihood that the water would rise suddenly and endanger the structure before it could be riveted firmly in place.

SCHOOL NEWS

BERNICE

BERNICE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Students at Bernice high school held their May day celebration last Wednesday afternoon on the school campus.

Miss Rosalyn Linsey was crowned queen by Victor Albritton in a very impressive ceremony. The maid of honor was Miss Evelyn McGee, while other attendants were Irene Lynn, Tressie Odom, Exie Farris and Katherine Smith. Flower girls were Betsy Thaxton and Margaret Duggers. The pages were Robert Grafton and Elvis Byron and the heralds were Roy Bennett and Shelby Tucker.

The program was as follows: "Fisherman Song," by fifth, sixth and seventh grade boys; "Voice of the Woods," by the high school chorus; "Heralds of Spring," by the high school chorus; ribbon drill by fifth, sixth and seventh grade girls; May pole dance by first and second grade pupils; "Swing Song," by Eleanor Harrell and J. T. Knoles.

The music and choruses were directed by Mrs. Floy Kemp, with Mrs. W. R. Heard at the piano. The drills were directed by Misses Lucile Gresham, Doris Watson, Doris Gaston and Mrs. K. F. Thaxton.

MER ROUGE

Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. Earle Andrews, Misses Rosa Lena Travis and Ella Mae Higginbotham were visitors in Ruston.

Mrs. J. Alvison, Misses Ella Mae Higginbotham and Edna Ashley were recent visitors in Monroe.

The Baptist missionary society met at the church Monday for its monthly business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Audrey McDermott and daughter, Zuma, spent last Sunday in Marion, the guests of relatives.

Bill Jordan, a student at Louisiana Tech, spent the past week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jordan.

Mrs. Conell Evans was hostess to her bridge club Wednesday. Miss Nigel Ruff and Mrs. Bill Hurst won high score honors. The guests were Mesdames Hugh Tucker, Leslie Calloway, Bob Parscells, Hugh Clark, Neal Oliver, Sam Oliver, Hurst, Bill Hurst, Lee Roy Simms and Misses Nigel Rugg and Gertrude Whipple.

LINVILLE

LINVILLE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Next Friday night the elementary grades of the Linville high school will stage their closing exercise of the school year. The program will be built around an operetta and a short play.

The operetta, "On the Road to Moonlight Town," will be given by the first five grades. A play, "On With the Show," will be given to round out the program. Each child in the grades will have a part on the program. The main purpose of the entertainment is to give stage and dramatic training to the children.

CONTRACT AWARDED

Contract for remodeling the interior of Monroe Wholesale Drug company building, 131 North Second street, was awarded Saturday to J. A. Bone of West Monroe, it was announced through H. H. Land, architect, who drew the plans. It is expected to be about 10 days before the work is begun.

METHODISTS WILL MEET THIS WEEK

District Conference Slated At Oak Ridge Wednesday, Thursday

OAK RIDGE, La., May 11.—(Special)—The 1935 session of the Monroe district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be held at the Oak Ridge Methodist church on Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference will be composed of all the pastors, local preachers and superannuated ministers of the 20 charges of the Monroe district, together with the district staff of leaders, the chairmen of all of the boards of stewards, and five elected delegates from each church.

The features of the conference will be the sermon Thursday morning at 11:15 a. m. by Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, of Shreveport, and a district-wide rally of the youth of the church will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Young people will arrive in Oak Ridge in special cars and buses to stage a rally sponsored by the Service, Wesley and Lambuth unions. At this time, Lydel Sims, conference president, will speak. Following an address by Dr. William H. Wallace, Jr., of New Orleans, moving pictures of the 1934 young people's assembly will be exhibited.

The work of the district conference is to promote all of the life and activities of the church. Devotional services will be led by Rev. D. C. Barr of Oak Ridge; Rev. Jack H. Midyett of Pioneer; Rev. J. D. Fomby of Waterproof and Rev. W. C. Scott of Monroe. Special guests will include Dr. R. W. Vaughan, Ruston; Dr. J. G. Snelling, superintendent of Memorial Mercy home, New Orleans; Dr. Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, Shreveport; Mrs. George B. Sexton, Jr., conference president of the Woman's Missionary society; Dr. C. V. Sanders of Monroe; Mrs. W. M. Nolan of Oak Ridge; Rev. and Mrs. James T. Harris of Rayville, and Rev. A. W. Turner, well known in the cause of temperance; Bishop Dobbs and others.

Special music for the sessions has been arranged by Mrs. H. L. Johns, and will include numbers by John Wright, Mrs. W. C. Scott, and Mrs. C. K. Smith of Tallulah.

Another feature of the conference will be the publicity exhibits, the Christian education materials, and posters for church benevolences made by young people in a poster contest.

Driver Suffers Bruises In Collision Of Autos

An automobile driven by Frank Tanner, deliveryman for a local cleaning establishment, turned over last night at the intersection of Washington and North Fifth streets after colliding with an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy Apgar. Tanner was carried in an ambulance to St. Francis sanitarium, where it was learned from his physician that he suffered bruises and shock.

Tanner remained at the sanitarium as a patient, but may be released from the institution today.

Weil Cleaners

features this service

...and keeps the cost of wardrobe maintenance low

ONLY TO THE QUALITY CLEANER would you entrust the lace that was your mother's... your negligee that was a wedding gift ... your delicate things. He appreciates these very special commissions because they permit him to prove how well he can do your regular cleaning—of garments, drapes, and rugs. Patronize the Sanitone Cleaner in your community... because only quality cleaners use Sanitone.

WHAT SANITONE IS

Sanitone is a new patented method discovered in the research laboratories of a large chemical company identified, for nearly a century, with the textile industry. Not only does Sanitone clean more thoroughly (it takes out many times as much dirt as ordinary methods) but it brings back to fabrics their first freshness and life, renews their sharpness of pattern, reapplies the "loft" of newness ... and restores their original resistance to soiling.

WHAT SANITONE DOES

Dry cleaners have long used solvents, which effectively remove "grease spots" from clothes. To such solvents, Sanitone adds an ingredient which is equally effective in removing stains caused by perspiration, sugary liquids, most fruit juices, rain drops ... and imbedded dirt. Sanitone cleaning makes your clothes last longer ... is economical! Already employed by quality cleaners in representative communities, Sanitone is being rapidly introduced by the better cleaners everywhere. For further information consult "the best dry cleaner in town"—or write to Dept. M, Emery Industries, Incorporated, Cincinnati, O.

SANITONE RESTORES TARNISHED COLORS

Many modern fabrics depend for their charming tints and distinctive harmonizing shades of color. Soiling has a tendency to rob them of their sharpness, to frustrate the charm of their designers. In order to see for yourself the difference between Sanitone and ordinary dry cleaning, make this simple test. Select one of your brightest garments, when it happens to be badly soiled ... a silk plaid or a flecked check, perhaps ... and send it to a Sanitone cleaner. You will be amazed at the results ... in clearness, in lustre, in brilliancy of color and vividness of pattern.

LES PRIZE WON BY MARIE SMITH

One Thousand Grand Awards Will Be Made During Contest

Marie Smith, 112 Malvern street, was the winner of last week's $5 prize, the second to be awarded in the Sally Myles comic cut-out contest. One thousand grand prizes, with a first prize of $1,000 are some of the awards that will be made in this contest.

Marie received her prize for a few minutes time in cutting out comic characters for this newspaper and coloring them in accordance with the easy contest rules.

It is not too late for everyone to be eligible for the grand prizes to be awarded at the end of the five-week contest. If you have not sent your comic cut-out to Sally Myles at this newspaper, simply send three such cut-outs colored according to the rules of the contest this week and you will be eligible for the weekly prize of $5 awarded for the best colored comic cut-out submitted in Monroe and you will also be well on your way toward winning one of the 1,000 cash prizes.

See the Myles Salt advertisement in this newspaper Thursday for the easy rules or obtain them at your grocer's.

Folks in Monroe will well remember the last Sally Myles contest which was almost as easy as this one and in which local contestants won prizes. Now is the time to enter the comic cut-out contest along with the other folks. Don't Miss your chance of enjoying the benefits of winning a lot of money so easily.

THE MAN-WHO-WOULD-BE-KING PRAYS FOR PEACE

While the military leaders of Europe gird for war with increased armaments, Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne of Hungary, joined hundreds of thousands of commoners to pray for peace at the great Lourdes shrine in France in the three-day jubilee observation of Christ's death. Third from left, Otto is shown seated with three women. His mother, the former Empress Zita, is at left.

Institutions To Observe National Hospital Day

National Hospital day will be observed today in Monroe when two hospitals will invite visitors. The public is invited to call and pay a visit of inspection to St. Francis and Riverside sanitariums.

St. Francis sanitarium has set aside the hours from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. for the reception of visitors. A silver tea for the benefit of the children's free ward is to be held and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, at Riverside sanitarium, will keep open house from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. when the public is urged to attend. Punch will be served.

Enough current to ring a doorbell can be generated by electric fish.

J. W. Hendricks To Do Part Of Job For Jones And Bland

Labor to be used by Jones and Bland, contractors for the remaining dirt levee work in West Monroe, will be obtained through the district office here of the Louisiana state employment service, J. D. Jones, one of the members of the firm indicated Saturday in talking to R. E. Young, district manager of the employment service.

It was also learned Saturday that the contractor had sub-let a portion of the work to J. W. Hendricks, who will use a drag-line and move dirt into place along a section of the new levee.

Comparatively little progress has been made in the work on the bridge across the Ouachita river here within the last two weeks. This has been partly due to high water, as officials of Vincennes Bridge company, contractors, are said to be opposed to putting up the steel as long as there is any likelihood that the water would rise suddenly and endanger the structure before it could be riveted firmly in place.

SCHOOL NEWS

BERNICE

BERNICE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Students at Bernice high school held their May day celebration last Wednesday afternoon on the school campus.

Miss Rosalyn Linsey was crowned queen by Victor Albritton in a very impressive ceremony. The maid of honor was Miss Evelyn McGee, while other attendants were Irene Lynn, Tressie Odom, Exie Farris and Katherine Smith. Flower girls were Betsy Thaxton and Margaret Duggers. The pages were Robert Grafton and Elvis Byron and the heralds were Roy Bennett and Shelby Tucker.

The program was as follows: "Fisherman Song," by fifth, sixth and seventh grade boys; "Voice of the Woods," by the high school chorus; "Heralds of Spring," by the high school chorus; ribbon drill by fifth, sixth and seventh grade girls; May pole dance by first and second grade pupils; "Swing Song," by Eleanor Harrell and J. T. Knoles.

The music and choruses were directed by Mrs. Floy Kemp, with Mrs. W. R. Heard at the piano. The drills were directed by Misses Lucile Gresham, Doris Watson, Doris Gaston and Mrs. K. F. Thaxton.

MER ROUGE

Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. Earle Andrews, Misses Rosa Lena Travis and Ella Mae Higginbotham were visitors in Ruston.

Mrs. J. Alvison, Misses Ella Mae Higginbotham and Edna Ashley were recent visitors in Monroe.

The Baptist missionary society met at the church Monday for its monthly business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Audrey McDermott and daughter, Zuma, spent last Sunday in Marion, the guests of relatives.

Bill Jordan, a student at Louisiana Tech, spent the past week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jordan.

Mrs. Conell Evans was hostess to her bridge club Wednesday. Miss Nigel Ruff and Mrs. Bill Hurst won high score honors. The guests were Mesdames Hugh Tucker, Leslie Calloway, Bob Parscells, Hugh Clark, Neal Oliver, Sam Oliver, Hurst, Bill Hurst, Lee Roy Simms and Misses Nigel Rugg and Gertrude Whipple.

LINVILLE

LINVILLE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Next Friday night the elementary grades of the Linville high school will stage their closing exercise of the school year. The program will be built around an operetta and a short play.

The operetta, "On the Road to Moonlight Town," will be given by the first five grades. A play, "On With the Show," will be given to round out the program. Each child in the grades will have a part on the program. The main purpose of the entertainment is to give stage and dramatic training to the children.

CONTRACT AWARDED

Contract for remodeling the interior of Monroe Wholesale Drug company building, 131 North Second street, was awarded Saturday to J. A. Bone of West Monroe, it was announced through H. H. Land, architect, who drew the plans. It is expected to be about 10 days before the work is begun.

METHODISTS WILL MEET THIS WEEK

District Conference Slated At Oak Ridge Wednesday, Thursday

OAK RIDGE, La., May 11.—(Special)—The 1935 session of the Monroe district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will be held at the Oak Ridge Methodist church on Wednesday and Thursday.

The conference will be composed of all the pastors, local preachers and superannuated ministers of the 20 charges of the Monroe district, together with the district staff of leaders, the chairmen of all of the boards of stewards, and five elected delegates from each church.

The features of the conference will be the sermon Thursday morning at 11:15 a. m. by Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, of Shreveport, and a district-wide rally of the youth of the church will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Young people will arrive in Oak Ridge in special cars and buses to stage a rally sponsored by the Service, Wesley and Lambuth unions. At this time, Lydel Sims, conference president, will speak. Following an address by Dr. William H. Wallace, Jr., of New Orleans, moving pictures of the 1934 young people's assembly will be exhibited.

The work of the district conference is to promote all of the life and activities of the church. Devotional services will be led by Rev. D. C. Barr of Oak Ridge; Rev. Jack H. Midyett of Pioneer; Rev. J. D. Fomby of Waterproof and Rev. W. C. Scott of Monroe. Special guests will include Dr. R. W. Vaughan, Ruston; Dr. J. G. Snelling, superintendent of Memorial Mercy home, New Orleans; Dr. Pierce Cline, president of Centenary college, Shreveport; Mrs. George B. Sexton, Jr., conference president of the Woman's Missionary society; Dr. C. V. Sanders of Monroe; Mrs. W. M. Nolan of Oak Ridge; Rev. and Mrs. James T. Harris of Rayville, and Rev. A. W. Turner, well known in the cause of temperance; Bishop Dobbs and others.

Special music for the sessions has been arranged by Mrs. H. L. Johns, and will include numbers by John Wright, Mrs. W. C. Scott, and Mrs. C. K. Smith of Tallulah.

Another feature of the conference will be the publicity exhibits, the Christian education materials, and posters for church benevolences made by young people in a poster contest.

Driver Suffers Bruises In Collision Of Autos

An automobile driven by Frank Tanner, deliveryman for a local cleaning establishment, turned over last night at the intersection of Washington and North Fifth streets after colliding with an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy Apsar. Tanner was carried in an ambulance to St. Francis sanitarium, where it was learned from his physician that he suffered bruises and shock.

Tanner remained at the sanitarium as a patient, but may be released from the institution today.

The police report of the accident quoted witnesses as stating that Tanner drove his car against a red light at the time of the accident.

Weil Cleaners features this service

...and keeps the cost of wardrobe maintenance low

ONLY TO THE QUALITY CLEANER would you entrust the lace that was your mother's . . . your negligee that was a wedding gift . . . your daintiest things. He appreciates these very special commissions because they permit him to prove how well he can do your regular cleaning—of garments, drapes, and rugs. Patronize the Sanitone Cleaner in your community . . . because only quality cleaners use Sanitone.

WHAT SANITONE IS

Sanitone is a new patented method discovered in the research laboratories of a large chemical company identified, for nearly a century, with the textile industry. Not only does Sanitone clean more thoroughly (it takes out many times as much dirt as ordinary methods) but it brings back to fabrics their first freshness and life, renews their sharpness of pattern, recaptures the "feel" of newness . . . and restores their original resistance to soiling.

WHAT SANITONE DOES

Dry cleaners have long used solvents, which effectively remove "grease spots" from clothes. To such cleaning solvents, Sanitone adds an ingredient which is equally effective in removing stains caused by perspiration, sugary liquids, most fruit juices, rain drops . . . and imbedded dirt. Sanitone cleaning makes your clothes last longer . . . is economical! Already employed by quality cleaners in representative communities, Sanitone is being rapidly introduced by the better cleaners everywhere. For further information consult "the best dry cleaner in town"—or write to Dept. M, Emery Industries, Incorporated, Cincinnati, O.

SANITONE REVIVIFIES TARNISHED COLORS

Many modern fabrics depend for their character upon subtle, low distinctive harmonizing threads of color. Soiling has a tendency to rob them of their sharpness, to frustrate the charm of their design. In order to see for yourself the difference between Sanitoning and ordinary dry cleaning, make this simple test. Select one of your brightest garments, when it happens to be badly soiled . . . a silk plaid or a flannel check, perhaps . . . and send it to a Sanitone cleaner. You will be amazed at the results . . . in cleanliness, in lustre, in brilliancy of color and vividness of pattern.

Remember Mother, Today

Mother's Day. All over the nation, and perhaps in many other places, that terrestrial saint will become the object of men's homage and veneration.

There is a dispute in progress as to who originated the idea. For the rest of us that is unimportant. But it is easy to understand why any person responsible for so inspiring a thought should cherish the credit for it, and yet nothing could be more unlike a mother than to squabble about whose was the credit.

One need only consult one's own experiences and seek in vain to recall a single instance when mother sought credit for the service and love she bore her kin.

The home may have looked especially tidy, the meal may have been unusually tasty, the covers might have been tucked with especial care, the sick room may have been comforted by her almost divine presence, yet not in a single instance did she claim credit for it.

Mothers find their satisfactions in something else.

It will be an odd son and daughter who permit this day to pass without some greeting to the living mother or without some love-tinctured remembrance or tribute to the mother who has gone beyond the veil.

And what a day for men and women to make resolves that, come what may, they will be worthy the mothers whose devotion and self-sacrifice are responsible for their being!

Swinging Moral Dumbbells

Recently a young man asked a preacher to give him "some moral setting-up exercises." That young fellow wanted some spiritual exercises which would develop his moral fiber as physical exercises develop his physical muscles.

Life is full of moral setting-up exercises. They are thrust on us from every side. It is impossible to get away from them. The important thing is to recognize them and to get busy with them.

Every temptation is a setting-up exercise and temptations are so many and varied that nobody lacks them.

Some one may say—as more than one person has said, discussing similar subjects—"I don't have any temptations. I live my life in a perfectly orderly manner."

That person may live his life in a perfectly orderly manner, but he yields constantly to a temptation, and in that yielding is neglecting a spiritual setting-up exercise that would keep him from becoming soft and flabby and would make it firm and sturdy. Such a person is most likely to be afflicted with that quality of selfishness that refuses to come in contact with the vital things of the world about him.

Such a person is most likely to be wrapped up in himself, to shut himself away from the human forces about him, in fear that the contacts would disturb the "orderliness" of his life. He won't permit "disturbing influences" to obtrude, and makes his existence conform to a narrow, constricting groove.

Such a person should exercise his spiritual self by forcing himself to take some active part in a larger way in the affairs of life, in other persons' affairs. He is yielding to the temptation to live his life only for himself.

All of us, if we analyze ourselves, can pick out our weaknesses. When we combat our weaknesses, we are taking moral setting-up exercises.

If we know our weaknesses, then we do not need anybody to tell us what to do about moral setting-up exercises. If we think we have no weaknesses, then we have one of the greatest weaknesses of all—self-satisfaction.

WE CAN REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Every 19 minutes some American is killed by an automobile. So far this year our auto traffic has killed 7,060 people; and the National Safety council warns that unless something is done to check the trend our death list for 1935 will be the highest we have ever had.

Perhaps the greatest puzzle in modern life is the complacency with which we accept this state of affairs. Life must be exceedingly cheap in this country when a thing which kills us at the rate of more than 30,000 a year fails to stir us to action.

It is nonsense to say that the rate cannot be reduced. The traffic death rate in Indianapolis, for instance, stands at 36.5 per 100,000 of poulation; in New York City it is 7.7. Similar disparities are to be found all along the line.

We can cut the toll to a fraction of its present size, if we just make up our minds that we are going to do so.

The president's Sunday night talk has been cheering to the politicians of his party. Well, plans for spending five billion dollars in the twelve months before a national election naturally would please any politician.

RESIGNATION

On learning that golf balls are to be constructed to fly two thousand yards.

Farewell to the dunes of St. Andrews,
To Glen Eagles another farewell;
Pine Valley's green slopes,
Which have shattered my hopes,
Seem now a mere nice little dell.
Probing science has lately discovered
A ball which, when clouted, will soar
With the greatest of ease
Over meadows and trees
For two thousand yards—often more.

The golf ball men use in the future,
If driven with all of one's might,
Will speedily fly
Toward the dim distant sky
And, after that, rise out of sight.
The caddies will have to use airplanes
To keep track of the pills as they speed,
And if two balls collide
As they rush side by side,
That will be most disturbing, indeed.

I hoped, at one time, I'd be able
To go 'round in a hundred and ten,
Even lessen that score
By a couple or more,
But I was more confident then.
And since this new pill's been invented
No more 'round a golf yard I'll roam;
When all's said and done
One can find good clean fun
In running a lawn mower at home.

Indulgence Of Talent

By BRUCE CATTON

In John T. Flynn's recent discussion of the plan to control the profits of munitions makers in war time, there was an extremely significant little story.

Mr. Flynn contrasted the war service, and the monetary rewards, of two Americans—Eugene G. Grace and Beno T. Wirth.

Mr. Grace, as head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, made ships and steel for Uncle Sam's fighting forces. In the year 1918 he was paid a bonus of slightly more than $1,300,000.

Mr. Wirth was a metallurgist in the Philadelphia mint. The government needed to learn how to make a platinum gauze, essential in the manufacture of up-to-date shells, and this was a German secret which our munitions makers could not discover.

So the problem was handed to Mr. Wirth, and he proceeded to solve it—thereby rendering to both government and industry a service of incalculable value.

For this service he received a pay of $60 a week, without bonuses. Furthermore, he worked so hard that he undermined his health and died, and the government did not even pay a death benefit to his family.

The story points its own moral, as far as the rewards to which munitions makers are entitled are concerned. It points it so clearly that nothing further needs to be said.

But it also has a peace-time application. It is a simple and obvious refutation of one of the hoariest lies in human annals—the assertion that self-interest is the only thing that will make a talented man exercise his abilities to the fullest.

There are a good many things that can make a man give every ounce of his energy and ability to the job at hand, but the most compelling motive of all is one we usually forget about—the simple fact that he does it because he likes to.

To possess some special ability in any form of human activity is not merely to enjoy a privilege; it is to feel the urge of duty, also—the blind but inescapable duty to exercise that ability to its fullest.

There is a queer quirk in human nature which keeps a man from being contented unless he is kept busy at the kind of thing he can do best.

That is true in all fields of activity. Musicians and baseball players, steel plant executives and novelists, ship captains and farmers—they find their chief reward in the doing of the job and not in the pay check.

To pretend that you cannot get a man of talents to exercise those talents unless you give him more money than he can possibly spend is to libel human nature.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The senatorial junket to the Virgin Islands this month is going to be one of those parties to which nobody comes.

In a gesture of abnegation quite unparalleled, each member of a five-man committee has decided he's too busy to go down and participate in the investigation of the islands' administration. The five were Chairman Tydings of Maryland, Clark of Missouri, White of Maine, King of Utah, and Metcalf of Rhode Island.

Clark quit the committee when Tydings insisted the trip be made in May while Congress was in session. Others began to get cold feet as they considered the large number of important votes ahead which some might like to miss, but few could afford to miss.

Publicity, apparently, finally deterred even Tydings from going. But the investigation will proceed. In a brilliant flash, Tydings saved it when he picked Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina to take Clark's place.

Reynolds is an insatiable world traveler. His friends say he could no more resist the temptation to take a trip away from these shores than he could start going without meals.

He has been around the world several times and his home is full of maps, charts of voyages, and the like.

So Reynolds will go to the Virgins, a lone senator accompanied by two Baltimore politicians chosen by Tydings as counsel.

Was This Embarrassing!

One of the most amusing incidents of the hearings on the Wagner labor relations bill doesn't appear in the record.

A long line of company union officials from steel, automobile, and other industries came before the committee and claimed their unions were independent of company domination. Senator Wagner usually asked who was paying their expenses to Washington and it usually turned out to be the company.

Toward the end of the hearings, Senator Walsh asked one such group whether it wished to testify or merely submit a statement. The group, confused, turned to an official of its steel company on the sidelines—who motioned them away, then muttered to his companion:

"This IS embarrassing."

AAA Gets Laugh on NRA

The AAA crowd, which never did like the NRA much, because it boosted industrial prices while AAA was trying to increase farm purchasing power, can't help snickering.

The Schechter case, which is being argued before the supreme court as the first big NRA test case, arose under the poultry code. And the poultry code is not an NRA code, but an AAA code. It was written in the AAA and Secretary Wallace selected an AAA man to administer it.

The only thing NRA had to do with the code was its insertion of the wage and hour provisions.

And maybe you think the AAA fellows don't enjoy pointing out that the lower federal court in New York upheld the government on the 18 counts involving trade practice provisions (AAA) and turned it down on the two wage and hours counts (NRA's).

Trouble Enough Now

Mr. T. L. Bergoff, so-called "king of the strikebreakers"—who will send any number of strikebreakers anywhere on demand—gave the State Department a tremor during the recent Cuban strike troubles.

Bergoff telegraphed President Mendieta of Cuba that he could send 10,000 men to break the general strike.

But the State Department, with visions of 10,000 international complications in one bunch—and possibilities of violent death, drunkenness, or stranded Americans—had men at Mendieta's elbow.

The president replied to Bergoff with thanks, explaining that Cuba had a large unemployment problem of her own.

Butchering the Truth

A harassed AAA official exploded into a denunciatory speech in a local meat market the other night when he heard the butcher explain to a woman that the high price of beefsteak was "due to the processing tax."

He suspects subtle propaganda from the packers. There isn't any processing tax on cattle.

Business of the farmers at Washington will be in connection with resolutions drawn up demanding adoption by congress of measures continuing the provisions of the agricultural administration's program, including cotton production control and the processing tax.

The resolutions also express confidence in the Roosevelt administration and its recovery program.

The train bearing the delegates to Washington will be known as the "Louisiana Cotton Growers' Special," and is expected to carry between 225 and 250 delegates to the capital.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE PHANTOM GENERAL—The Crimean war (1853-1856), which started over Turkey's refusal to bow to Russian interference in the Church of the Nativity of Bethlehem, is chiefly remembered as the worst-managed of all modern wars. The Allies (Turkey, France, England) had no maps of the Crimea, nor did they have any information as to its topography. Even the Russians, in whose territory the Crimea is situated, had no maps to guide them. There was no commissariat arrangement, and in the absence of sanitary precautions, the toll of infectious diseases was frightful.

When the war started, the French court was greatly given to spiritualistic practices; table rappings, ouija boards and mediums were in great vogue. And so, Napoleon I, dead for 32 years, was invoked over the ouija board to give to France the benefit of his experience as a strategist. Both Saint-Arnaud and Canrobert, French commanders, were constantly harassed by having the dead emperor's "commands" transmitted to them over the newly-established telegraph wire.

Later, the reciprocal of the ohm, was named "mho," being the unit of electrical conductivity.

Marshal White walked into the house and found Kelly sitting on an icebox. The officer covered Kelly, and took from him a .32 automatic and an extra round of cartridges and $13. Texas officers were notified and are en route here.

Asked whether he was in the Hamilton-Barrow break from the Texas pen, Kelly said:

"I haven't a thing to say."

Later, however, he denied that he was with the gangsters, but was acquainted with them from association in prison.

Kelly said he had been in Philadelphia about ten days, and had been going about freely. He stayed at the roadhouse.

FATHER OF FORMER GRID STAR KILLED

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP)—Walter P. Krauczunas, 53, father of Edward "Moose" Krause, former ace Notre Dame football and basketball player, died in a hospital here late today from a mysteriously inflicted bullet wound.

Mrs. Krauczunas told police her husband had complained of feeling ill, but several hours later it was learned he had been shot. No members of the family, who said they use the name Krause for convenience, heard the shot.

Edward and another son, Phillip, were in Winona, Minn., where the former Notre Dame star is athletic director at St. Mary's college.

HAMBONE'S MEDITATIONS

By Alley

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—People who have something to sell, and want to stage a big contest to popularize it, usually call on Prof. Lloyd Herrold, who probably is the world's only professional "contest administrator."

He isn't a professor of contest administration, but of advertising, at Chicago university. Knowing about advertising, market analysis, and all that, he was called in by a large agency, in 1932, to manage and help judge a contest. Right away he introduced some new ideas about handling tremendous numbers of replies, filing, checking and judging. After that he was in such demand that he soon had his own office and a staff of 30 people. By now he employs from 60 to 80, all college graduates.

One of his biggest recent jobs was a contest for the naming of a certain product, and the manufacturer in Minneapolis sent five vanloads of letters to Professor Herrold in Chicago. There were a few more than 1,500,000, and they all had to be filed alphabetically. Then the different suggested names had to be recorded along with the number of times each name was duplicated. Thirty-six typists worked eleven weeks, doing that, and filled 4,000 sheets of legal paper. One of the things they discovered was that one name had been submitted by 57,000 people.

Wise Spenders

The professor next went over all the different names, selected 100 which seemed in some way applicable and sent that list to the official judges. I recite all this just to give you an idea of what a contest manager is up against. When I talked to Herrold he had just panted in from winding up a shoe company's contest, the most difficult job he ever had. Reason was that all the entrants had to make a $9 initial purchase; that kept out children and cranks, and brought letters of an unprecedented level of intelligence.

There are a few things that Herrold wishes the millions of contest fans all over the United States would understand. One is that a contest solution that quickly occurs to one person probably will be just as obvious to thousands of others. Another is that tricky presentation of an answer never wins any special attention. Not favorable attention, anyway. People have been known to buy 500-yard rolls of wrapping paper, and to write their answers in foot-high letters over its entire length.

Every big contest is sure to bring embroidered pillows and hooked rugs, with the slogans, names or whatever's wanted worked into them. Some people get huge pieces of paper, big as 24-sheet posters and cover them with intricate designs or pictures meticulously cut from magazines. Such things have nothing to do with the contests themselves, and are a nuisance.

Stored Up Answer

Herrold has seen model lighthouses, several feet high, which lighted up at the touch of a button and revealed the slogan submitted. A last-line limerick contest sponsored by a baking company brought an amazingly intricate model of a grocery store. It was complete even to the labels of cans on the shelves and there were figures of customers and countermen. An impossible last line submitted by the man who fashioned all this said something to the effect that "If you eat (an opposition company's biscuits you'll drop through the floor." Then, by touching a button on the exhibit, you'd see all the people in the grocery store fall through little trap doors.

Thousands of people have tried to bribe Herrold, yet their letters have been more suggestive of pathos than of skulduggery. "I've never done anything dishonest before," they write. "But I need this money so desperately that I'll divide with you if you let me win."

He doesn't know how many millions of Americans go in for contests, but he knows there are hundreds who make a fair living from them. Professor Herrold never in his life has entered any sort of contest.

Remember Mother, Today

Mother's Day. All over the nation, and perhaps in many other places, that terrestrial saint will become the object of men's homage and veneration.

There is a dispute in progress as to who originated the idea. For the rest of us that is unimportant. But it is easy to understand why any person responsible for so inspiring a thought should cherish the credit for it, and yet nothing could be more unlike a mother than to squabble about whose was the credit.

One need only consult one's own experiences and seek in vain to recall a single instance when mother sought credit for the service and love she bore her kin.

The home may have looked especially tidy, the meal may have been unusually tasty, the covers might have been tucked with especial care, the sick room may have been comforted by her almost divine presence, yet not in a single instance did she claim credit for it.

Mothers find their satisfactions in something else.

It will be an odd son and daughter who permit this day to pass without some greeting to the living mother or without some love-tinctured remembrance or tribute to the mother who has gone beyond the veil.

And what a day for men and women to make resolves that, come what may, they will be worthy the mothers whose devotion and self-sacrifice are responsible for their being!

Swinging Moral Dumbbells

Recently a young man asked a preacher to give him "some moral setting-up exercises." That young fellow wanted some spiritual exercises which would develop his moral fiber as physical exercises develop his physical muscles.

Life is full of moral setting-up exercises. They are thrust on us from every side. It is impossible to get away from them. The important thing is to recognize them and to get busy with them.

Every temptation is a setting-up exercise and temptations are so many and varied that nobody lacks them.

Some one may say—as more than one person has said, discussing similar subjects—"I don't have any temptations. I live my life in a perfectly orderly manner."

That person may live his life in a perfectly orderly manner, but he yields constantly to a temptation, and in that yielding is neglecting a spiritual setting-up exercise that would keep him from becoming soft and flabby and would make it firm and sturdy. Such a person is most likely to be afflicted with that quality of selfishness that refuses to come in contact with the vital things of the world about him.

Such a person is most likely to be wrapped up in himself, to shut himself away from the human forces about him, in fear that the contacts would disturb the "orderliness" of his life. He won't permit "disturbing influences" to obtrude, and makes his existence conform to a narrow, constricting groove.

Such a person should exercise his spiritual self by forcing himself to take some active part in a larger way in the affairs of life, in other persons' affairs. He is yielding to the temptation to live his life only for himself.

All of us, if we analyze ourselves, can pick out our weaknesses. When we combat our weaknesses, we are taking moral setting-up exercises.

If we know our weaknesses, then we do not need anybody to tell us what to do about moral setting-up exercises. If we think we have no weaknesses, then we have one of the greatest weaknesses of all—self-satisfaction.

WE CAN REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Every 19 minutes some American is killed by an automobile. So far this year our auto traffic has killed 7,060 people; and the National Safety council warns that unless something is done to check the trend our death list for 1935 will be the highest we have ever had.

Perhaps the greatest puzzle in modern life is the complacency with which we accept this state of affairs. Life must be exceedingly cheap in this country when a thing which kills us at the rate of more than 30,000 a year fails to stir us to action.

It is nonsense to say that the rate cannot be reduced. The traffic death rate in Indianapolis, for instance, stands at 36.5 per 100,000 of poulation; in New York City it is 9.7. Similar disparities are to be found all along the line.

We can cut the toll to a fraction of its present size, if we just make up our minds that we are going to do so.

The president's Sunday night talk has been cheering to the politicians of his party. Well, plans for spending five billion dollars in the twelve months before a national election naturally would please any politician.

Hitler, says an informed observer of the German scene, is growing in intellectual stature. While the mustache remains the same, however, all of the evidence will be to the contrary.

More Truth Than Poetry

RESIGNATION

On learning that golf balls are to be constructed to fly two thousand yards.

Farewell to the dunes of St. Andrews,
To Glen Eagles another farewell;
Pine Valley's green slopes,
Which have shattered my hopes,
Seem now a mere nice little dell.
Probing science has lately discovered
A ball which, when clouted, will soar
With the greatest of ease
Over meadows and trees
For two thousand yards—often more.

The golf ball men use in the future,
If driven with all of one's might,
Will speedily fly
Toward the dim distant sky
And, after that, rise out of sight.
The caddies will have to use airplanes
To keep track of the pills as they speed,
And if two balls collide
As they rush side by side,
That will be most disturbing, indeed.

I hoped, at one time, I'd be able
To go 'round in a hundred and ten,
Even lessen that score
By a couple or more,
But I was more confident then.
And since this new pill's been invented
No more 'round a golf yard I'll roam;
When all's said and done
One can find good clean fun

By BRUCE CATTON

In John T. Flynn's recent discussion of the plan to control the profits of munitions makers in war time, there was an extremely significant little story.

Mr. Flynn contrasted the war service, and the monetary rewards, of two Americans—Eugene G. Grace and Beno T. Wirth.

Mr. Grace, as head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, made ships and steel for Uncle Sam's fighting forces. In the year 1918 he was paid a bonus of slightly more than $1,300,000.

Mr. Wirth was a metallurgist in the Philadelphia mint. The government needed to learn how to make a platinum gauze, essential in the manufacture of up-to-date shells, and this was a German secret which our munitions makers could not discover.

So the problem was handed to Mr. Wirth, and he proceeded to solve it—thereby rendering to both government and industry a service of incalculable value.

For this service he received a pay of $60 a week, without bonuses. Furthermore, he worked so hard that he undermined his health and died, and the government did not even pay a death benefit to his family.

The story points its own moral, as far as the rewards to which munitions makers are entitled are concerned. It points it so clearly that nothing further needs to be said.

But it also has a peace-time application. It is a simple and obvious refutation of one of the hoariest lies in human annals—the assertion that self-interest is the only thing that will make a talented man exercise his abilities to the fullest.

There are a good many things that can make a man give every ounce of his energy and ability to the job at hand, but the most compelling motive of all is one we usually forget about—the simple fact that he does it because he likes to.

To possess some special ability in any form of human activity is not merely to enjoy a privilege; it is to feel the urge of duty, also—the blind but inescapable duty to exercise that ability to its fullest.

There is a queer quirk in human nature which keeps a man from being contented unless he is kept busy at the kind of thing he can do best.

That is true in all fields of activity. Musicians and baseball players, steel plant executives and novelists, ship captains and farmers—they find their chief reward in the doing of the job and not in the pay check.

To pretend that you cannot get a man of talents to exercise those talents unless you give him more money than he can possibly spend is to libel human nature.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The senatorial junket to the Virgin Islands this month is going to be one of those parties to which nobody comes.

In a gesture of abnegation quite unparalleled, each member of a five-man committee has decided he's too busy to go down and participate in the investigation of the islands' administration. The five were Chairman Tydings of Maryland, Clark of Missouri, White of Maine, King of Utah, and Metcalf of Rhode Island.

Clark quit the committee when Tydings insisted the trip be made in May while Congress was in session. Others began to get cold feet as they considered the large number of important votes ahead which some might like to miss, but few could afford to miss.

Publicity, apparently, finally deterred even Tydings from going. But the investigation will proceed. In a brilliant flash, Tydings saved it when he picked Senator Bob Reynolds of North Carolina to take Clark's place.

Reynolds is an insatiable world traveler. His friends say he could no more resist the temptation to take a trip away from these shores than he could start going without meals.

He has been around the world several times and his home is full of maps, charts of voyages, and the like.

So Reynolds will go to the Virgins, a lone senator accompanied by two Baltimore politicians chosen by Tydings as counsel.

Was This Embarrassing!

One of the most amusing incidents of the hearings on the Wagner labor relations bill doesn't appear in the record.

A long line of company union officials from steel, automobile, and other industries came before the committee and claimed their unions were independent of company domination. Senator Wagner usually asked who was paying their expenses to Washington and it usually turned out to be the company.

Toward the end of the hearings, Senator Walsh asked one such group whether it wished to testify or merely submit a statement. The group, confused, turned to an official of its steel company on the sidelines—who motioned them away, then muttered to his companion:

"This IS embarrassing."

AAA Gets Laugh on NRA

The AAA crowd, which never did like the NRA much, because it boosted industrial prices while AAA was trying to increase farm purchasing power, can't help snickering.

The Schechter case, which is being argued before the supreme court as the first big NRA test case, arose under the poultry code. And the poultry code is not an NRA code, but an AAA code. It was written in the AAA and Secretary Wallace selected an AAA man to administer it.

The only thing NRA had to do with the code was its insertion of the wage and hour provisions.

And maybe you think the AAA fellows don't enjoy pointing out that the lower federal court in New York upheld the government on the 18 counts involving trade practice provisions (AAA) and turned it down on the two wage and hours counts (NRA's).

Trouble Enough Now

Mr. T. L. Bergoff, so-called "king of the strikebreakers"—who will send any number of strikebreakers anywhere on demand—gave the State Department a tremor during the recent Cuban strike troubles.

Bergoff telegraphed President Mendieta of Cuba that he could send 10,000 men to break the general strike.

But the State Department, with visions of 10,000 international complications in one bunch—and possibilities of violent death, drunkenness, or stranded Americans—had men at Mendieta's elbow.

The president replied to Bergoff with thanks, explaining that Cuba had a large unemployment problem of her own.

ARSONS LOSES LIBRARY POST

Position At New Orleans Declared Vacant By Board Members

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Edward A. Parsons was deposed as librarian of the New Orleans public library system Friday afternoon.

The position of librarian was declared vacant by action of the library board after that body adopted a motion that, effective May 15, the librarian's salary should not exceed $4,800 per year and Mr. Parsons asserted that he would not be interested in the position at that salary.

Before a 10 per cent reduction was ordered several months ago, Mr. Parsons' salary as librarian was $7,500 per year. He was named librarian about three years ago.

Having deposed the librarian, the board selected a committee of three members to reorganize the library. The committee chosen included Mr. Buck, Dr. H. C. Nixon and John R. Conniff.

A survey report which the board met to act upon was drawn up after an inquiry was made last month by two librarians whose names were suggested by the American Library association when the board decided to have the survey made. They are Joseph L. Wheeler of Baltimore and Jesse Cunningham of Nashville.

The report of the survey, an 86-page document, included a list of recommendations. Removal of Mr. Parsons as librarian was recommended and a large portion of the report was devoted to describing the librarian's qualifications.

J. J. JOHNSTON DIES SUDDENLY

Fatal Heart Attack Occurs While Victim Is Seated On Porch

J. J. Johnston, 78, living on the Dixie-Overland highway near Claiborne school, died suddenly from a heart seizure at 5:15 p. m. Saturday. He had been in impaired health for several years and the fatal attack occurred while he was seated in a swing on the porch of his residence. Death resulted almost immediately, Dr. C. L. Mengis, parish coroner, was called and gave the cause of death that of coronary occlusion.

Mr. Johnston had been engaged for many years in lumbering activities in and near Huttig, Ark., retiring several years ago when his health caused him to cease active work, and he had resided for three years with his daughter, Mrs. H. L. Laseter.

Funeral services will be held at 1:15 p. m. today at the Davis-Lawhead Funeral home, Rev. R. M. Bentley, pastor of the Gordon Avenue Methodist church, will officiate. The funeral cortege will move by highway to Huttig, where interment will be made in the Harper Springs cemetery at 4 p. m.

Surviving are the following children: Capt. Sidney Johnston of the Monroe fire department, Jack, Dan and Perry Johnston all of Monroe, Mrs. Willis Stevens of Fairbanks, and Mrs. H. L. Laseter, of the Claiborne community.

Mercury Like Good Old Summer Time

With a temperature that reached 91 degrees as maximum Saturday, summer clothes were much in demand and the good old summer time seemed to have returned. Merchants reported that there was a sudden and much increased demand for apparel suited to the hot weather.

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

The Connecticut Tercentenary stamp made its appearance as scheduled, and have you seen it? It is the writer's humble opinion that this is the most beautiful stamp yet issued by these United States. A coin issued at the same time also bears a picture of the famous "Charter Oak," which is depicted on the stamp.

Although the editors of the Standard Stamp Catalog, used as a standard of values by collectors in this country, has announced that regular listings will be given the imperforate stamps issued recently, they will not be listed by the firm that issues the British catalog.

The editor of this catalog says, "We feel sure that in taking a firm stand in this matter we shall have behind us a solid body of American Philatelic opinion." He further adds: "The stamps have not been generally issued throughout the United States, and have therefore no standing or interest for stamp collectors."

Members of the Twin City Stamp club are divided on the issue, but generally agree that your collection is incomplete without them.

Word from Canada states that an entirely new set of stamps for regular postal use is in preparation, and will make its appearance about June 1st. It is stated that the new set will consist of 13 varieties. Several of them will be pictorial, and the 20c will picture Niagara Falls.

And now word comes that Tannou Touva has broken out with two new sets of pictorials; Linn's Weekly Stamp News states that one is a scenic set of seven values. These show a map on the lower value, while the others show scenic views. Three of these are square, and the other four are triangular.

"The other set of 10 values," Linn's continues, "seven of which are triangles, is a whole menagerie by itself and will certainly strike the fancy of the collector who is after the wild animals." Tannou Touva is noted for its fatastic stamps, more than half of those issued having been triangles or diamonds.

While there has been no word from Washington, certain of the philatelic press continues to insist that there will be one or more stamps issued for the Pacific-International exposition which opens at San Diego May 29. Since the presidential set has been abandoned for the present, we would not be surprised to see these issued.

Tallulah

The Friday Night club was delightly entertained at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Taylor at Talla Bena with Mr. and Mrs. Will Sevier, Jr., as the recipients of the high score bridge prizes. Preceding the games a delicious supper was served to the guests, Mrs. Alice Clark, of Chicago, Mr. J. E. Neill, Mr. R. S. Gayle, Mr. and Mrs. Will Sevier, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Starrett and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Sevier.

Mrs. C. H. Todd was hostess to the members of the Saturday afternoon club at her home, the bridge games resulting in Mrs. E. A. Buckner capturing the high score prize. A delectable salad course was served at the close of the games to the guests, Mesdames T. B. Lucas, R. T. Campbell, W. C. Starrett, E. A. Buckner, W. M. Scott, George Yerger, Jr., Alex Blanche and R. C. Gaines.

The Madison parish chapter of the D. A. R. met at the home of Mrs. H. R. Warden at Richland with the election of officers as the feature of the business session. The following were chosen: Mrs. George Yerger, regent; Mrs. Horace Maxwell, vice regent; Mrs. Alex Clark, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Warrick, chaplain; Mrs. Charles Bridge, vice chaplain; Mrs. B. P. Folk, parliamentarian; Mrs. L. M. Spencer, treasurer. A report of the national convention was given by Mrs. Warden, who attended the session and the paper on national defense was contributed by Mrs. Warrick. A delicious luncheon was enjoyed at the close of the meeting by Mrs. B. P. Folk, Mrs. O. S. Nicols, Mrs. H. W. Lee, Mrs. Horace Maxwell, Mrs. L. M. Spencer, Mrs. E. E. Warrick, Mrs. Alex Clark, Mrs. George Yerger, Mrs. H. N. Alexander.

Mrs. O. S. Nicols is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Amonds at Beulah, Miss. Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Shelby of Worcester, Mass., are also guests in the Amonds home. Mrs. Shelby will be remembered here as Miss Sarah Amonds, where she was a frequent visitor before her marriage last year.

Mrs. John Fridge entertained the members of the Saturday club at a delightful bridge party, the games resulting in Miss Eula Gilfoil winning the high score club prize and Mrs. Will Harvey high score for guests. Miss Vertner Sevier, low score for club, and Mrs. Girrod, of Oak Grove, low for guests. At the conclusion of the games a salad course was served. Those in attendance were Mrs. Will Harvey, Miss Frances Alexander, Mrs. Richard Alexander, Miss Vertner Sevier, Mrs. T. Ed Williams, Miss Louise Fortner, Mrs. H. C. Brown, Mrs. Paul Gaines, Miss Doris Brown, Mrs. L. G. Storey, Mrs. Earl Jennings, Mrs. Jesse Anderson, Mrs. A. L. Scales, Miss Eula Gilfoil, Mrs. H. W. Huckabay and Mrs. Girrod.

The monthly business meeting of the Methodist Missionary society was held in the community room of the church with Mrs. H. W. Huckabay presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. Roy Medlin. A most interesting and inspiring devotional on peace was given by Mrs. J. R. Linton. Mrs. C. K. Smith gave a report of the recent district conference of the missionary society held in Winnsboro.

Miss Helenmal Julian, one of the members of the graduating class of the Tallulah high school, was presented in a piano recital at the high school auditorium. She was assisted by the Girls' Glee club.

Preparation Of Food Shown At Club Meet

The Logtown home demonstration club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Y. Pipes with Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, parish home demonstration agent, giving a talk on dietary diseases and demonstrating the preparation of foods for sick persons, including cream of tomato soup and junket.

During the roll call, each member responded by outlining her activities in preparation for the flower and vegetable show to be held here June 8. Mrs. B. J. Renaud was named chairman of the club's committee in connection with preparations for the show.

One new member, Mrs. Kidd, was admitted to the club.

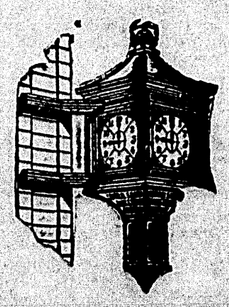

A full attendance is urged for the next meeting, when the club's final plans in connection with the flower and vegetable show will be completed.

EXECUTIVE ORDER AUTHORIZES PLAN UNDER WORK BILL

...ishing the allotment board and ... Roosevelt.

The president's power executive ... in setting up the electrification ad... administration generally was interpreted ... opening a new field of direct fed... activities in power. Observers ... only one immediate check on ... development—the amount of cash ... with this.

... so many words, Mr. Roosevelt ... directed the new electrification ad... administration "to initiate, formulate, ... administer and supervise a program ... approved projects with respect to ... generation, transmission and dis... tribution of electric energy in rural ...

Under one interpretation, the new unit, "REA," was believed able to ... build or acquire lines to power plants ... the Tennessee Valley Authority, ... sport-circuiting a federal court ... injunction against sales of TVA ...

... implementing and bolstering the ... existing grant for "generation, trans... mission and distribution" was author... ... in the executive order for REA ... acquire by purchase or by the ... power of eminent domain, any real ... property or any interest therein," in ... addition selling or leasing property.

... whether this language foretold the ... federal purchase or condemnation of ... existing power plants, transmission ... lines and distribution systems could ... not be learned from officials. Morris ... Cook, already acting as head of ... REA though not formally appointed, ... was out of the city today.

... details of how a farmer might be ... expected to benefit from the program ... were almost entirely lacking. One official said most of the projects under the plan probably would result from ... organization of mutual companies by farmers, but for further amplification ... referred to a radio speech to be delivered by Cooke next Saturday between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time.

... carry out the broad purposes ... named in the president's executive ... order, REA already has been tentatively allotted $50,000,000, half the sum ... requested by congress in the works ... law. Under the president's flexible powers to transfer funds, a potential $900,000,000 could conceivably be devoted to rural electrification.

Officials recalled also that "approved projects" under the REA program would have to follow the general work project routine of passing through first the applications division, and second, the allotment board. This meant the final say on its activities was in President Roosevelt's hands.

Creation of REA was the major relief development of the day although a ruling by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl apparently eliminated subsistence homesteads as a part of the $350,000,000 rural resettlement program.

With the battle growing more spirited, President Roosevelt got away from it all by taking a week-end fishing trip. He was accompanied, however, by house and senate leaders who were expected to consult with him on the drafting of veto message.

Even with the president away, telegrams continued to deluge the White House urging the chief executive to sign the bill. Telegraph companies estimated they were arriving at the rate of about 250 an hour.

A quick denouement was promised by leaders of the fight for the bill. They announced they would probably release the measure from the senate Tuesday and let it go to the White House for the president's expected veto.

CITY BAKERY IS HOSPITABLE SHOP

Establishment Uses Unique Method To Tempt Appetites

A custom which embodies an intimate hospitality and which makes shopping at a modern bakery a greater pleasure is manifest in the special 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. retail hours of the City Bakery, 320 North Fourth street.

During these hours the bakery serves to its customers rolls and breads just out of the oven, piping hot and emanating tantalizing odors.

Various methods of sharpening the appetite have been prescribed, but a visit to the City Bakery is one method which has hitherto been overlooked. A person who fails to have his appetite whetted by such a visit just doesn't have any appetite.

Among the creations served out during the special hours are pecan rolls, doughnuts, Pershing rolls and filled rolls. A variety of breads are dispensed.

The bakery also serves its customers with a complete line of pastries tempting to the palate.

"Surprise" bread is the feature product of the bakery. It is delivered twice daily to groceries.

L. McCarthy, Sr., is president of the firm. His son, L. McCarthy, Jr., is vice-president and general manager, and another son, J. P. McCarthy, is secretary-treasurer and production manager.

The City Bakery is one of a group of leading bakery concerns that are cooperating in an educational campaign being conducted through the advertising columns of the News-Star—World.

FORMER AMERICAN OFFICER IS FREED

TOKYO, May 11.—(AP)—W. S. Gates, retired United States naval lieutenant held at Giran, Formoso, on charges of violation of maritime law and suspected espionage, was freed today after paying a fine of 200 yen (approximately $57) on the maritime law violation count.

Also freed, after paying a similar fine, were Gates' companions on a south sea treasure hunt, H. G. Wrede, a German, and Gene Rubin, a Russian. The three were detained when they landed from a German ketch on the north coast of Formosa.

Gates, 28 years old, was retired from the navy more than two years ago. His home was in Lancaster, Pa.

Prior to sailing from Shanghai April 2, Gates told newspapermen he would take on supplies at Formosa for an expedition to the Babylon islands, the Philippines and New Guinea.

bill for his action which is virtually certain to be a veto.

Leaders on both sides appeared agreed today that there were not enough votes in the senate to overturn executive disapproval. Talk increased that the Vinson plan might then be brought forward, advocates of this proposal contending it is five or six votes stronger than the inflationary Patman measure.

Democratic leaders surveyed next week's program with a despairing hopelessness as far as making any appreciable dent in the major legislative column was concerned.

Before the NRA 10-month extension measure can be considered the senate must dispose of the adverse committee report on the Long resolution seeking an investigation of the official conduct of Postmaster General Farley and then the Norris bill to strengthen the Tennessee valley authority act.

Senator Long has hinted he will take all of Monday in attacking the postoffice committee majority report against his proposed inquiry, but Democratic leaders said he was bound to lose, despite indications that Republicans would support Long almost solidly.

lice power delegated to the municipality.

But the majority opinion declared that the state police power "is the very soul and essence of its sovereignty. Without it, the sovereign becomes the subject; the master becomes the servant.

"If this court by its decision could limit perpetually the police power of the state, it could destroy the state itself. This court is but the mere creature of he state. It derives its existence, its powers and its jurisdiction from the sovereign."

The action of the state supreme court was not absolute and justices of the court said an opening was left for an appeal by the defendants to the United States supreme court to determine whether the old city board headed by Walmsley or the reorganized board under state control will rule the water and sewerage systems of the city.

Two suits are now pending in federal district court here attacking constitutionality of the act and in one of them Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah has issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting reorganization of the board.

City Briefs

The condition of Supt. T. O. Brown, superintendent of Ouachita parish schools, who underwent an operation in a New Orleans hospital on Thursday, was said to be satisfactory, according to word that was received here Saturday.

A large crowd attended the cantata given Friday night at the Baptist church in Winnsboro by the choir of the First Baptist church of Monroe. The music program was "Cross and Crown," which was presented here several weeks ago.

Dean C. C. Colvert of Northeast Center of L. S. U. returned late Saturday from New Orleans and Baton Rouge where he went on a business trip on Wednesday. While in New Orleans he visited the hospital where T. O. Brown, superintendent of Ouachita parish schools, is a patient.

Mrs. R. G. O'Dell of 2806 South Grand street is a patient in St. Francis sanitarium where she will have to remain several weeks due to a serious fracture of the right arm sustained in an auto wreck on the Dixie-Overland highway last week when the car in which she was riding collided with another car. Mrs. O'Dell was the only one to receive an injury.

A number of Monroe citizens, many of whom are former residents of Mississippi, are planning to make a trip to Natchez Tuesday to attend the dedication exercises at Washington, Miss., near Natchez, of the monument on the site of, and in honor of the first constitutional convention of Mississippi. A group of Shreveport people will make the trip by way of Monroe in a special bus, a stop being made here for breakfast, and a fried chicken dinner being served in Audubon park in Natchez.

Mrs. George Lambert of Sterlington, who has been ill at a local clinic, was removed to her home yesterday.

OPERATIONS OF AIR FLEET STILL VEILED

HONOLULU, May 11.—(AP)—The possibility that some of the navy's armada of 46 planes may be scouting the "attacking" fleet during the war games was seen today while high naval officers hinted at even more amazing future operations involving 450 aircraft.

The armada left here Thursday supposedly for Midway island, but conjecture was that some of the craft may be hiding on nearby islands to observe "enemy" ships engaged in the navy's secret maneuvres.

Speculation turned to the possibility that a number of the planes were in the many secluded bays among Kawai and the other islands north of Honplulu, awaiting a call into action during the vast naval operations.

fore reaching the allotment board and Mr. Roosevelt.

The president's power executive order setting up the electrification administration generally was interpreted as opening a new field of direct federal activities in power. Observers saw only one immediate check on this development—the amount of cash available.

In so many words, Mr. Roosevelt directed the new electrification administration "to initiate, formulate, administer and supervise a program of approved projects with respect to the generation, transmission and distribution of electric energy in rural areas."

Under one interpretation, the new unit, "REA," was believed able to build or acquire lines to power plants of the Tennessee Valley Authority, thus short-circuiting a federal court injunction against sales of TVA power.

Supplementing and bolstering the sweeping grant for "generation, transmission and distribution" was authority in the executive order for REA "to acquire, by purchase or by the power of eminent domain, any real property or any interest therein," in addition selling or leasing property.

Whether this language foretold the actual purchase or condemnation of existing power plants, transmission lines and distribution systems could not be learned from officials. Morris L. Cook, already acting as head of REA though not formally appointed, was out of the city today.

Details of how a farmer might be expected to benefit from the program were almost entirely lacking. One official said most of the projects under the plan probably would result from organization of mutual companies by farmers, but for further amplification they referred to a radio speech to be delivered by Cooke next Saturday between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., eastern standard time.

To carry out the broad purposes named in the president's executive order, REA already has been tentatively allotted $50,000,000, half the sum suggested by congress in the works law. Under the president's flexible powers to transfer funds, a potential $900,000,000 could conceivably be devoted to rural electrification.

Officials recalled also that "approved projects" under the REA program would have to follow the general work project routine of passing through first the applications division, and second, the allotment board. This meant the final say on its activities was in President Roosevelt's hands.

Creation of REA was the major relief development of the day although a ruling by Comptroller General J. R. McCarl apparently eliminated subsistence homesteads as a part of the $350,000,000 rural resettlement program.

veto doing this wrong to the men who fought our battles."

With the battle growing more spirited, President Roosevelt got away from it all by taking a week-end fishing trip. He was accompanied, however, by house and senate leaders who were expected to consult with him on the drafting of veto message.

Even with the president away, telegrams continued to deluge the White House urging the chief executive to sign the bill. Telegraph companies estimated they were arriving at the rate of about 250 an hour.

A quick denouement was promised by leaders of the fight for the bill. They announced they would probably release the measure from the senate Tuesday and let it go to the White House for the president's expected veto.

CITY BAKERY IS HOSPITABLE SHOP

Establishment Uses Unique Method To Tempt Appetites

A custom which embodies an intimate hospitality and which makes shopping at a modern bakery a greater pleasure is manifest in the special 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. retail hours of the City Bakery, 320 North Fourth street.

During these hours the bakery serves to its customers rolls and breads just out of the oven, piping hot and emanating tantalizing odors.

Various methods of sharpening the appetite have been prescribed, but a visit to the City Bakery is one method which has hitherto been overlooked. A person who fails to have his appetite whetted by such a visit just doesn't have any appetite.

Among the creations served out during the special hours are pecan rolls, doughnuts, Pershing rolls and filled rolls. A variety of breads are dispensed.

The bakery also serves its customers with a complete line of pastries tempting to the palate.

"Surprise" bread is the feature product of the bakery. It is delivered twice daily to groceries.

L. McCarthy, Sr., is president of the firm. His son, L. McCarthy, Jr., is vice-president and general manager, and another son, J. P. McCarthy, is secretary-treasurer and production manager.

The City Bakery is one of a group of leading bakery concerns that are cooperating in an educational campaign being conducted through the advertising columns of the News-Star—World.

FORMER AMERICAN OFFICER IS FREED

TOKYO, May 11.—(AP)—W. S. Gates, retired United States naval lieutenant held at Giran, Formoso, on charges of violation of maritime law and suspected espionage, was freed today after paying a fine of 200 yen (approximately $57) on the maritime law violation count.

Also freed, after paying a similar fine, were Gates' companions on a south sea treasure hunt, H. G. Wrede, a German, and Gene Rubin, a Russian. The three were detained when they landed from a German ketch on the north coast of Formosa.

Gates, 28 years old, was retired from the navy more than two years ago. His home was in Lancaster, Pa.

Prior to sailing from Shanghai April 2, Gates told newspapermen he would take on supplies at Formosa for an expedition to the Babylon islands, the Philippines and New Guinea.

around and say, 'Don't you think you ought to have more money? Don't you think you ought to get 30 cents for your cotton?' Sure, but where are you going to get it?"

The secretary said he was not interested in delivering a political address.

"I feel that it is infinitely more important to keep our minds not on politics, but on seeing that agriculture gets its fair share of income," he declared.

A crowd that Mayor V. V. Lamkin estimated at more than 15,000 overflowed the city hall square and filled several streets heard the New Deal agriculture chief oratorically reply to critics of the AAA program.

The assembly was drawn from over the state and included thousands of shirtsleeved cotton, rice and sugar farmers.

The meeting was held in the same square in which Long dodged a barrage of over-ripe eggs in 1933 while delivering a political speech.

Long subsequently had the legislature put Mayor Lamkin and the city commissioners out of office, and still later had them reinstated. He also had the state general assembly enact a law permitting him to dictate removal of Chief of Police Clint O'Malley, whom he blamed for the incident.

The split in Louisiana's congressional delegation in the Roosevelt-Long controversy was evidenced by active participation in the meeting by five of the state's eight representatives, all of whom sat on the platform.

Long's state administration officials and followers were conspicuously absent, and contrarily, many of his leading state opponents, conspicuously present, especially Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans and Representative J. Y. Sanders, Jr., of Baton Rouge.

The five congressmen present were: Representatives Cleveland H. Dear of Alexandria of the eighth district, who presided; John N. Sandlin, of Minden, of the fourth district; Riley J. Wilson, Ruston, of the fifth district; Sanders, sixth district, and Numa P. Montet, Thibodeaux, third district.

The absentees were: Representative R. L. DeRouen, seventh district, and Representatives Paul H. Maloney and E. O. Fernandez, of New Orleans.

All the congressmen, in addresses at a luncheon preceding the city square address, praised President Roosevelt and Wallace and Sanders was especially warm in denunciation of Long.

Professing to see the "ghost of Alexander Hamilton" stalking behind the opponents of the new deal farm price adjustment and crop production regulation, particularly the cotton processing tax, Wallace told his hearers it was time for them as farmers to "get up on their hind legs and fight for what they know to be simple justice" and to "lick the ghost."

Asserting that the fire of critics of the AAA program were concentrating their attacks on the cotton processing tax and the cotton adjustment phase of the program, Wallace said the cotton farmer was entitled to more money.

"They (the oppenents of the tax and program) haven't quite got the nerve to say that the cotton farmer is making too much money, but if they win their fight, the cotton farmer will certainly soon be making less money," he asserted.

He supported his reference to Alexander Hamilton with assertion that the one time treasury secretary "of course, had little time for farmers," being, he said, more interested in giving special privileges to bankers and industrialists.

The secretary said that agriculture had had to "pay through the nose for that Hamilton victory" and had had "to buy in a protected market and sell in an open one."

"It has had to stand by, powerless, while finance and business and labor have accumulated more and more governmental powers necessary to adjust its production to make up for lost foreign markets the Hamiltonians have held up their hands in horror."

Wallace denied what he said was an opposition claim that the AAA advocated "economics of scarcity," saying that surpluses had existed "so huge as to overshadow our whole national economy.

"For the first time, through the device of the processing tax, the majority of farmers have a tariff that actually works for them," he said.

He said that in Louisiana receipts from farm marketings in 1932 were $36,000,000 and by 1934 had increased plus benefit payments to nearly $86,000,000 or 51 per cent.

Citing Louisiana cotton specifically, he said the 1932 value of the crop was $22,424,000 and rose to $33,000,000 with benefit payments and $44,000,000 in 1934.

He gave corresponding figures for Louisiana's rice and sugar.

Alexandria enjoyed a gala day in honor of the agriculture secretary. The city, of about 23,000 population which has never voted for Long, made the occasion a virtual holiday.

The secretary arrived shortly before noon from St. Louis, was entertained at a luncheon after being formally welcomed by the five pro-Roosevelt congressmen, Mayor Lamkin, and others, and after delivering his public square address arranged to leave at once for Washington.

Wallace departed from the draft of his address to praise the president glowingly and was loudly applauded.

Previously, at the luncheon, he said that "there was never a president in the White House whose heart beats more sincerely for the farmer than President Roosevelt."

SAMSON HAD NOTHING ON HIM

Engaged in a bitter controversy with the state highway department, Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina became a potential Samson when J. W. Koon of Cross Hill, S. C., sent him the jawbone of an ass and advised him to use it like the biblical strong-man did against the Philistines. The governor, shown with the bone, replied it is possible he "might need it in the near future." (Associated Press Photo)

POLICEMAN USES SAWED-OFF GUN TO NAB BANDITS

Police said Barnes was registered at his hotel as "Roy Lawrence."

After questioning Barnes, police took a third man, Odell Smith, 23, into custody for questioning. Smith denied knowledge of the robbery. Police said he worked at the lumber company until a week ago.

Lying on the sidewalk awaiting the arrival of an ambulance, Cutcher turned to a patrolman and pleaded:

"Shoot me between the eyes."

The shooting occurred about three or four miles from the scene of the holdup. The two bandits were captured at 8:23 a. m., exactly four minutes after police received a report of the holdup, and informed radio squad officers by the police radio station.

The Anderson company office had just opened for the day's work when an armored motor truck brought in the $4,000 weekly payroll for some 300 workers in the box factory, saw and veneer mills.

As the armored truck drove away, a car was parked outside the office. Two men got out while a third remained at the wheel.

"Where's that payroll?" one of the men demanded of George Beggs, office manager, flashing a pistol. While the second man held office employes at bay, the first forced C. W. Cunningham, bookkeeper, to assist him in scooping up cash lying on a table. The robber stuffed it into his pockets.

Employe J. D. Brooks took the car number as the bandit automobile sped away and police were notified immediately. Three squad cars got on the trail of the speeding car.

The police squad car No. 1, with Lucchesi at the wheel and with Jeffries manning the shotgun, was going at a speed of 80 miles an hour when they tried to force the bandit car to the curb. Failing, Jeffries fired, and the shot struck Cutcher in the arm.

The payroll money, stained with blood, was returned to the company by police shortly after the holdup.

LONG SAYS PWA LAW WILL BE OBSERVED

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—Senator Long bluntly stated today that the Louisiana state law, giving the state control over public works projects, which has just become effective, would be observed.

Informed that a state representative, Rupert Peyton, had declared he had violated the law by "counseling its violation" in addressing a letter to the Shreveport city council urging them to seek direct a public works loan, Senator Long laughed into the telephone.

"Well, are you going to have him arrested?" the reporter asked Long.

"Aw, no," Long answered. "If we arrested that fellow his lawyer would plead insanity and we never would be able to convict him. Don't worry, the law will be observed."

TANK RUMBLES ON, THREAT TO ABYSSINIA

OBITUARY

PERKINS FUNERAL

The funeral of Miss Lucille Perkins, 24, sister of R. L. Perkins, manager of the Postal Telegraph company here, who died Friday night in a local hospital, will be held this afternoon in Crowley.

Miss Perkins is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Perkins, 411 North Fourth street, with whom she made her home; two brothers, R. L. Perkins of Monroe and Leo Perkins of Crowley; and three sisters, Mrs. Sidney Gallien of New Orleans, Mrs. Alfred Amos of Crowley and Mrs. Cody Watkins of Monroe.

GEORGE W. BRADY

George W. Brady, of 303 Wheelis street in West Monroe, died at his residence early Saturday. The funeral will be held at the house at 2 p. m. this afternoon, Rev. W. T. Hemphill officiating. Interment will be made in Claiborne cemetery.

He leaves his widow and the following children, Dennis, Ben and M. L. Brady and Mrs. W. H. Dalton.

MRS. ADELINE DILLENBERGER

Funeral services for Mrs. Adeline Miller Dillenberger, former Monroe resident and wife of Henry Dillenberger of Shreveport, who died Tuesday morning at 8:10 o'clock at a Shreveport sanitarium, were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at St. John's Catholic church in Shreveport and interment followed in the Forest Park cemetery.

Mrs. Dillenberger, who was born and reared here, was married in April, 1901, and moved to Shreveport to make her home with her husband, who operates a plumbing concern there.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Louise Miller, of Monroe; one sister, Mrs. Nellie Guerriero, of Monroe, and one brother, W. G. Miller, of Monroe. Also one nephew, Frank Guerriero, and two nieces, Mrs. Nicholas Bruno and Mrs. Louise Gilliland, all of Monroe.

HOW do you CHOOSE?

Every time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

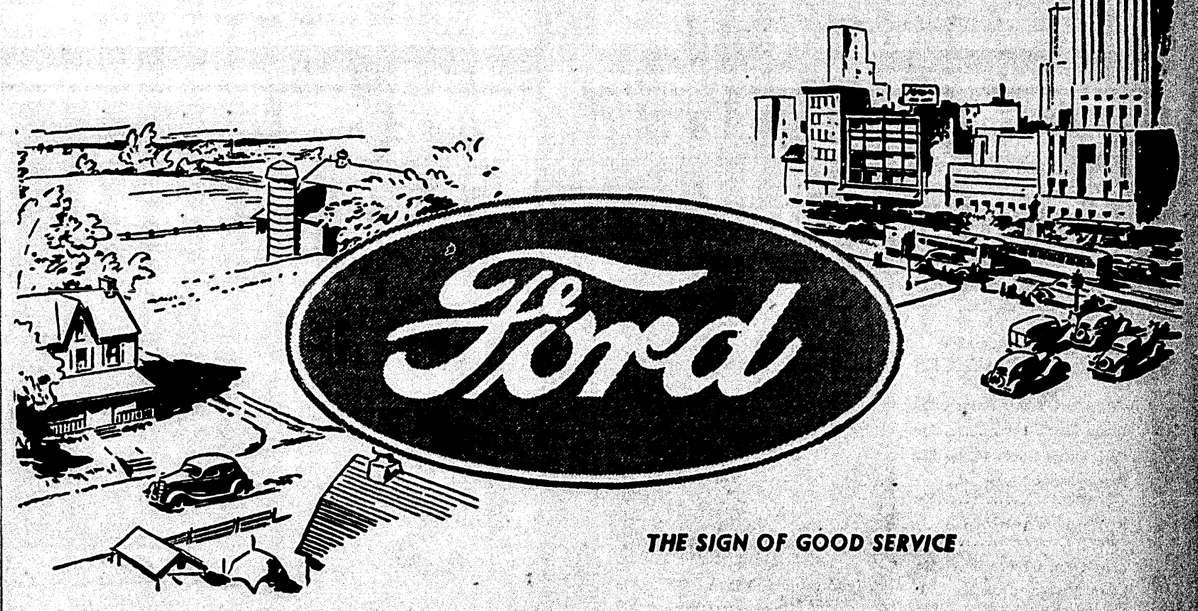

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements

UNIVERSAL SERVICE

for the Universal Car

THE SIGN OF GOOD SERVICE

IN THE very beginning the Ford Motor Company realized the importance of good service. It was first to standardize tools and equipment and establish low flat charges for parts and repairs.

Today in any community you can see how far Ford has progressed toward the goal of providing service as good as the car.

The thousands of modern Ford dealerships are within reach of most of the millions of Ford owners. Other thousands of dependable garages and service stations—identified by the Ford sign—provide supplementary service and Genuine Ford Parts.

When you buy a Ford you can get the kind of service a good car deserves. One of the features is precision workmanship. You can exchange a used Ford engine, carburetor, distributor and other assemblies for "FACTORY EXCHANGE" units at much less than the usual replacement or repair cost.

This is "Universal Service" in every respect, broadening constantly through the addition of Ford Neighborhood Service Stations, where you can get extra-quick service—gasoline, oil, lubrication, repairs.

The assembly was drawn from over the state and included thousands of shirtsleeved cotton, rice and sugar farmers.

The meeting was held in the same square in which Long dodged a barrage of over-ripe eggs in 1933 while delivering a political speech.

Long subsequently had the legislature put Mayor Lamkin and the city commissioners out of office, and still later had them reinstated. He also had the state general assembly enact a law permitting him to dictate removal of Chief of Police Clint O'Malley, whom he blamed for the incident.

The split in Louisiana's congressional delegation in the Roosevelt-Long controversy was evidenced by active participation in the meeting by five of the state's eight representatives, all of whom sat on the platform.

Long's state administration officials and followers were conspicuously absent, and contrarily, many of his leading state opponents, conspicuously present, especially Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans and Representative J. Y. Sanders, Jr., of Baton Rouge.

The five congressmen present were: Representatives Cleveland H. Dear of Alexandria of the eighth district, who presided; John N. Sandlin, of Minden, of the fourth district; Riley J. Wilson, Ruston, of the fifth district; Sanders, sixth district, and Numa P. Montet, Thibodeaux, third district.

The absentees were: Representative R. L. DeRouen, seventh district, and Representatives Paul H. Maloney and F. O. Fernandez, of New Orleans.

All the congressmen, in addresses at a luncheon preceding the city square address, praised President Roosevelt and Wallace and Sanders was especially warm in denunciation of Long.

Professing to see the "ghost of Alexander Hamilton" stalking behind the opponents of the new deal farm price adjustment and crop production regulation, particularly the cotton processing tax, Wallace told his hearers it was time for them as farmers to "get up on their hind legs and fight for what they know to be simple justice" and to "lick the ghost."

Asserting that the fire of critics of the AAA program were concentrating their attacks on the cotton processing tax and the cotton adjustment phase of the program, Wallace said the cotton farmer was entitled to more money.

"They (the oppenents of the tax and program) haven't quite got the nerve to say that the cotton farmer is making too much money, but if they win their fight, the cotton farmer will certainly soon be making less money," he asserted.

He supported his reference to Alexander Hamilton with assertion that the one time treasury secretary "of course, had little time for farmers," being, he said, more interested in giving special privileges to bankers and industrialists.

The secretary said that agriculture had had to "pay through the nose for that Hamilton victory" and had had "to buy in a protected market and sell in an open one."

"It has had to stand by, powerless, while finance and business and labor have accumulated more and more governmental powers necessary to adjust its production to make up for lost foreign markets the Hamiltonians have held up their hands in horror."

Wallace denied what he said was an opposition claim that the AAA advocated "economics of scarcity," saying that surpluses had existed "so huge as to overshadow our whole national economy.

"For the first time, through the device of the processing tax, the majority of farmers have a tariff that actually works for them," he said.

He said that in Louisiana receipts from farm marketings in 1932 were $36,000,000 and by 1934 had increased plus benefit payments to nearly $86,000,000 or 51 per cent.

Citing Louisiana cotton specifically, he said the 1932 value of the crop was $22,424,000 and rose to $33,000,000 with benefit payments and $44,000,000 in 1934.

He gave corresponding figures for Louisiana's rice and sugar.

Alexandria enjoyed a gala day in honor of the agriculture secretary. The city, of about 23,000 population which has never voted for Long, made the occasion a virtual holiday.

The secretary arrived shortly before noon from St. Louis, was entertained at a luncheon after being formally welcomed by the five pro-Roosevelt congressmen, Mayor Lamkin, and others, and after delivering his public square address arranged to leave at once for Washington.

Wallace departed from the draft of his address to praise the president glowingly and was loudly applauded.

Previously, at the luncheon, he said that "there was never a president in the White House whose heart beats more sincerely for the farmer than President Roosevelt."

SAMSON HAD NOTHING ON HIM

Engaged in a bitter controversy with the state highway department, Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina became a potential Samson when J. W. Koon of Cross Hill, S. C., sent him the jawbone of an ass and advised him to use it like the biblical strong-man did against the Philistines. The governor, shown with the bone, replied it is possible he "might need it in the near future." (Associated Press Photo)

Police said Barnes was registered at his hotel as "Roy Lawrence."

After questioning Barnes, police took a third man, Odell Smith, 23, into custody for questioning. Smith denied knowledge of the robbery. Police said he worked at the lumber company until a week ago.

Lying on the sidewalk awaiting the arrival of an ambulance, Cutcher turned to a patrolman and pleaded:

"Shoot me between the eyes."

The shooting occurred about three or four miles from the scene of the holdup. The two bandits were captured at 8:23 a. m., exactly four minutes after police received a report of the holdup, and informed radio squad officers by the police radio station.

The Anderson company office had just opened for the day's work when an armored motor truck brought in the $4,000 weekly payroll for some 300 workers in the box factory, saw and veneer mills.

As the armored truck drove away, a car was parked outside the office. Two men got out while a third remained at the wheel.

"Where's that payroll?" one of the men demanded of George Beggs, office manager, flashing a pistol. While the second man held office employes at bay, the first forced C. W. Cunningham, bookkeeper, to assist him in scooping up cash lying on a table. The robber stuffed it into his pockets.

Employe J. D. Brooks took the car number as the bandit automobile sped away and police were notified immediately. Three squad cars got on the trail of the speeding car.

The police squad car No. 1, with Lucchesi at the wheel and with Jeffries manning the shotgun, was going at a speed of 80 miles an hour when they tried to force the bandit car to the curb. Failing, Jeffries fired, and the shot struck Cutcher in the arm.

The payroll money, stained with blood, was returned to the company by police shortly after the holdup.

LONG SAYS PWA LAW WILL BE OBSERVED

WASHINGTON, May 11—(AP)—Senator Long bluntly stated today that the Louisiana state law, giving the state control over public works projects, which has just become effective, would be observed.

Informed that a state representative, Rupert Peyton, had declared he had violated the law by "counseling its violation" in addressing a letter to the Shreveport city council urging them to seek direct a public works loan, Senator Long laughed into the telephone.

"Well, are you going to have him arrested?" the reporter asked Long.

"Aw, no," Long answered. "If we arrested that fellow his lawyer would plead insanity and we never would be able to convict him. Don't worry, the law will be observed."

TANK RUMBLES ON, THREAT TO ABYSSINIA

OBITUARY

PERKINS FUNERAL

The funeral of Miss Lucille Perkins, 24, sister of R. L. Perkins, manager of the Postal Telegraph company here, who died Friday night in a local hospital, will be held this afternoon in Crowley.

Miss Perkins is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Perkins, 411 North Fourth street, with whom she made her home; two brothers, R. L. Perkins of Monroe and Leo Perkins of Crowley; and three sisters, Mrs. Sidney Gallien of New Orleans, Mrs. Alfred Amos of Crowley and Mrs. Cody Watkins of Monroe.

GEORGE W. BRADY

George W. Brady, of 303 Wheelis street in West Monroe, died at his residence early Saturday. The funeral will be held at the house at 2 p. m. this afternoon, Rev. W. T. Hemphill officiating. Interment will be made in Claiborne cemetery.

He leaves his widow and the following children, Dennis, Ben and M. L. Brady and Mrs. W. H. Dalton.

MRS. ADELINE DILLENBERGER

Funeral services for Mrs. Adeline Miller Dillenberger, former Monroe resident and wife of Henry Dillenberger of Shreveport, who died Tuesday morning at 8:10 o'clock at a Shreveport sanitarium, were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at St. John's Catholic church in Shreveport and interment followed in the Forest Park cemetery.

Mrs. Dillenberger, who was born and reared here, was married in April, 1901, and moved to Shreveport to make her home with her husband, who operates a plumbing concern there.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Louise Miller, of Monroe; one sister, Mrs. Nellie Guerriero, of Monroe; and one brother, W. G. Miller, of Monroe. Also one nephew, Frank Guerriero, and two nieces, Mrs. Nicholas Bruno and Mrs. Louise Gilliland, all of Monroe.

Active pallbearers were John R. Langlowe, Joseph Dambly, Hugo Hoyer, John Howat, Morris Levy and Frank Brown.

HOW do you CHOOSE?

Every time you make a purchase you make a choice. Buying a certain product may be so much a matter of habit that you don't realize you are choosing. But the fact remains that in accepting one brand of goods you are always rejecting others; and the satisfaction you get from what you buy depends on the knowledge of quality and values that guides your selection.

How do you know which bed sheets, or which roofing material, or which radio will give you service you require? You can't personally test everything you buy and compare it with all the other products in its class. But there is a way to find out which brand fits your needs.

The people who are most successful in their buying—who achieve the highest percentage of satisfaction from the things they own and use—are those who consistently read the advertising columns, and buy consistently advertised goods.

Choosing isn't just "guessing" when you follow the guidance of the advertisements.

You can depend on advertised goods. It pays to read the advertisements

UNIVERSAL SERVICE for the Universal Car

THE SIGN OF GOOD SERVICE

IN THE very beginning the Ford Motor Company realized the importance of good service. It was first to standardize tools and equipment and establish low flat charges for parts and repairs.

Today in any community you can see how far Ford has progressed toward the goal of providing service as good as the car.

The thousands of modern Ford dealerships are within reach of most of the millions of Ford owners. Other thousands of dependable garages and service stations—identified by the Ford sign—provide supplementary service and Genuine Ford Parts.

When you buy a Ford you can get the kind of service a good car deserves. One of the features is precision workmanship. You can exchange a used Ford engine, carburetor, distributor and other assemblies for "FACTORY EXCHANGE" units at much less than the usual replacement or repair cost.

This is "Universal Service" in every respect, broadening constantly through the addition of Ford Neighborhood Service Stations, where you can get extra-quick service—gasoline, oil, lubrication, repairs.

FEATS IN BAKING TO BE PERFORMED

Factory Demonstrator Will Appear At Ward's Here Tuesday

Things that the average housewife never dreamed could be accomplished with a gas, oil, or gasoline range will be performed at the Montgomery Ward store Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

Unusual cooking and baking feats will be conducted by A. Presnell, factory demonstrator for Wards, it was announced by H. W. Roemer, store manager.

Ten loaves of bread baked in an oil range oven in 45 minutes without once shifting a single loaf; four angel food cakes baked at one time in the oven corners of a gas range with only 12 minutes of gas used; biscuits baked in a gas, gasoline or kerosene range in less than 12 minutes. These are a few of the startling tests which will be conducted.

Mr. Presnell will also demonstrate the blow torch test. While someone holds a sheet of the insulating material used in Wards range ovens, Mr. Presnell will direct the flame from a blow torch against it. Although the flames develop a heat of 3000 degrees, the person holding the sheet is in no danger of being burned.

The demonstrations will be open to the public without charge for admission. Many valuable prizes will be awarded during the demonstrations. The food cooked during the exhibition will be served to those attending.

Columbia

A representative group of Methodists motored to Winnsboro last week for the quarterly Mission conclave. Those in the party were: Rev. and Mrs. V. D. Morriss, Mrs. J. C. McClanahan, Mrs. Smith Butler, Mrs. Lily Blanks, Mrs. Monroe Jarrell, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Hosea Pruitt, Mrs. J. H. Traylor, Mrs. R. R. Redditt and Misses Adele Redditt, Pauline Thompson and Virginia Wright.

Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams had as their week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. Leland Richardson and infant daughter of Baton Rouge, and Supt. and Mrs. Richardson of Minden.

The condition of Mr. Irving Adams, brother of Dr. J. V. Adams, is reported to be very critical. Mr. Adams is now at the home of Dr. Adams.

Mrs. Scheuring of New Orleans is in Columbia for a brief visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scheuring. Mr. and Mrs. Scheuring expect to return home with her where they will remain for the summer.

News has been received that Miss Nina Holt Redditt of this city, who is at present a student in Newcomb college, is to be one of the attendants at the approaching marriage of Miss Florence Ferguson and Mr. Victor Davis which is to be solemnized in Monroe late in June.

Mrs. Aubrey Brown is recuperating from a recent illness in a Monroe sanitarium.

Mr. Bruce Redditt instructor at Northeast Center of L. S. U. was the guest of his mother, Mrs. R. R. Redditt, for a brief stay.

The bi-weekly meeting of the Columbia garden club was held at the Columbia hotel to formulate plans for the forthcoming parish-wide flower show which is to be held May 17. Mrs. Hartley Bridger officiated at the meeting and Mr. H. S. Bankston gave an informative dissertation on the "Arrangement of Flowers." Those attending this meeting were: Mrs. B. O. Cummings, Mrs. L. C. Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Curtis, Miss Lola Caldwell, Mrs. Venice Brown, Mrs. E. E. Franklin, Mrs. Hartley Bridger and Mrs. H. O. Hopkins.

A box supper was sponsored by the home economics club of which Miss Mildred Brown is president. With the cooperation of Mrs. Floyd Johnston, instructress of home economics, a varied and entertaining program was presented, main features of which were a style show and popularity contest.

JOIN IN HONORING KING GEORGE

The world-wide observance of the silver jubilee of King George V's accession to the throne of England was typified in the memorial thanksgiving services conducted in the Washington (D. C.) Cathedral, attended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is pictured as she greeted British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay.

CHAVEZ SUCCEEDS SENATOR CUTTING

SANTA FE, N. M., May 11.—(AP)—An ardent champion of Roosevelt policies, Dennis Chavez, who served in two Democratic houses, was lifted today into the senate seat of his political enemy, the late Senator Bronson Cutting, independent Republican and occasional critic of the administration.

Chavez, 47 years old, accepted an appointment tendered by Gov. Clyde Tingley to fill the vacant senate chair until 1936 and announced he will drop his contention of the election of Cutting, against whom he ran last November. He had disputed the 1,200-vote majority for Cutting.

In 1936 Chavez said he will be a candidate to fill the remainder of Cutting's term, which expires in 1940.

WOMEN'S CLUB UNITS PLEDGE FHA SUPPORT

Cooperate With Better Housing Program In 43 States Of Union

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the number increasing daily, 1,624 units of various women's clubs and organizations in 43 states have, since April 1, pledged full support and cooperation with the better housing program of the federal housing administration.

Thirty-five clubs and associations with groups in virtually every state have already been lending support to the movement to focus the attention of the women of America upon the importance and value of the better housing program. The direct approach to the women of the country has been given new impetus by the appointment of 37 women field representatives.

The message of better homes and woman's part in home maintenance is being projected farther with a movement now under way to incorporate existing women's committees with women's divisions in better housing groups. Women field representatives are now encouraging selections of representative women to head these new divisions.

Plan Meetings

In every locality plans are under way to carry the message of better housing to meetings of organizations that pledge interest and cooperation. Either a woman field representative, chairmen of women's divisions, or others will address such groups of women to acquaint them with the opportunities offered by the modernization credit plan and the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the federal housing administration. Attention has been concentrated on women because they are the actual homemakers and are credited with the expenditure of a large portion of the national family income.

Widespread interest and enthusiasm is evidenced from all quarters in the women's movement. The new activity has reached into virtually every nook and corner of the country. It is expected that there will be a marked increase in the number of unit groups pledging cooperation before May 1.

Organizations

National organizations already participating in the women's movement include:

Parent-Teachers association, Daughters American Revolution, Republican Women's club, Delphian clubs, Federation of Women's clubs, Council of Jewish women, Smith College club, League of Women voters, Council of Catholic women, Young Women's Christian Association, Girl Scout counselors, Junior league, Democratic national committee women's division, Better Homes in America, board of education, Political Study club, League of American Pen Women, Quota club, International Graduate Nurses' association, Order Eastern Star, American Association of University Women, American Federation of Soroptimist clubs, Federation of Business and Professional Women, Wellesley club, Christ Child society, Garden Club of America, Twentieth Century club, New Ambury club, National Women's club, Farm and Home Economics association, Zonta International, bureau of home economics, extension service of United States, Federal Council of Churches, national association and housing officials' home-economic departments and state extension services.

St. Joseph

The Tensas Garden club met at the Farrar house. The hostesses were Mrs. Maury Stanton, Mrs. Molly D. Bouney and Mrs. Katie Watson. This meeting marked the beginning of another year of club.

The program was as follows: Miss Bessie Muir gave a reading, followed by a talk on rural club work; biography and reading from the poem "Marse John," by Louis Murdock; a humorous selection, "Mr. Frog's Hate of Regret," by Mrs. John Hughes. The meeting was closed after serving refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wade entertained the Night card club at a buffet supper here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wade's guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Levy and Miss Bessie Muir.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson were hosts at the Country club last week. Games preceeded a plate supper which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hayes, Mrs. Dalton Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. Dalton Watson and Miss Lulie Wagner of Fayette, Miss.

Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Marable Harper, Mrs. Elliott Coleman, Mrs. Kirk Haylip and Miss May Young of Chattanooga, Tenn., were guests at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Harrison Miller at Highland, La., last week. Miss Young was the guest of honor.

A meeting of church workers throughout this section was held here this week at the Episcopal church where services were conducted by Rev. Shardon D'Aubert, rector.

There were 100 young people at the gathering, including 80 visitors from Monroe, Baton Rouge and surrounding towns.

A luncheon was served at the Farrar house by the Episcopal Sunday school teachers. In the afternoon a swimming party in Lake Bruen was held. The service at Christ church by Rev. D'Aubert concluded the meeting.

M. H. LARY ARRESTED

The sheriff's department yesterday afternoon arrested M. H. Lary on a warrant charging him with passing two worthless checks at a store operated by Carey Holmes in West Monroe. Lary is accused of passing two worthless checks for the total amount of $8.50. Bond of $100 was posted for his release.

FATHER, SON HELD IN INSURANCE 'TORCH' MURDER

Frank di Stasio, 51, Revere, Mass., candy shop proprietor, and his son, Anthony, were indicted at Cambridge, Mass. after poilce said they had confessed burning to death an unidentified man in a plot to collect $12,500 insurance. The man burned to death was picked up in Boston by the two and was known only as "Dan." Police said the accused thought his body would be identified as the elder di Stasio's and thus Anthony would collect the insurance. The car in which the man was burned is shown above and inset is Anthony di Stasio. (Associated Press Photos)

Mangham

Mrs. F. C. Sheppard spent the past week in Jackson, Miss., where she was called on account of the illness of a niece.

Mrs. T. R. Thomas and little daughter of Dallas, Texas, are the guests of Mrs. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Humble.

Mrs. Floyd Brunson has been visiting this past week with friends and relatives in Mississippi.

The Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club met in the home of Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr. Those enjoying the afternoon were: Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Monroe Hixon, Mrs. Carl Underwood, Mrs. Alex Watson, Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. Mattie Gaulden and Mrs. J. W. DeMoss.

Mr. and Mrs. Dow Case and Mrs. Linda Pardue, accompanied by Miss Ada Preston, motored to England, Ark., last Sunday, where they visited with Mr. Case's family.

Mrs. Carl Underwood had as her guest last week her mother, Mrs. Strickland, of Good Pine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Scott, of Gilbert, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Baskin last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius O'Quin and little son, of Mansfield, visited here Tuesday.

Mrs. E. T. Lee and Miss Doris Chambers were hostesses to the Faculty Bridge club in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hixon Thursday night. Those enjoying the evening were: Mrs. M. K. McConnell, Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. Dow Case, Mrs. Linda Pardue, Mrs. Fleischman, Mrs. R. V. Jones, Miss Sara Clifton, Miss George Huff, Miss Dorothy Stark, Miss Ruchelle Powell, Miss Olla Cooper, Miss Vergie Evans, Miss Kate Talbert, Miss Ethel Watson, Miss Ada Preston, Mrs. Mable Nash, Miss Susan Pardue, Miss Mable Brown, Mrs. Morris Brown, Mrs. L. L. McConnell, Mrs. Monroe Hixon, Mrs. Clyde Johnson, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr., Mrs. T. R. Thomas, Mrs. Ed Tillman, Mrs. T. B. Gregory, Mrs. Mattie Gaulden, Mrs. Alex Watson, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Carl Underwood, Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. W. R. Graves, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Miss Doris Chambers and Mrs. W. E. Hixon.

QUESTION BOX

Recipe for Varnish Remover

Q.—What are the ingredients used in "varnish removers"? I would like to remove the finish from a door and casing and find that I will need quite an amount of the remover.—H. U.

A.—Varnish remover consists of about one-half benzol and one-half alcohol, a gallon of acetone and a little paraffin.

Makes Good Paint Background

Q.—The walls of my living room are covered with sanitas of a wall paper pattern. This has turned very dark and washing does not improve it. Is there anything I can use to lighten it without spoiling the pattern?—W. H.

A.—There is nothing that can be done to recover the pattern on sanitas, but sanitas makes a good background for paint, and the room may be refinished without removing the sanitas.

One Way to Fight Ants

Q.—About two months ago small black ants began to be seen in our kitchen. Now they are all over our first floor in spite of the various patent removers used in an endeavor to get rid of them. Have you any suggestion that would be really worth while to rid our house of this annoyance?—V. P. M.

A.—Try digging a very narrow trench about a half inch deep around the entrances toward your house and fill it with kerosene. This will keep the ants from coming into the house. Those that are in the house already will have to be removed by means of a chemical exterminator. Boric acid crystals poured over the entrances as well as over areas where the ants are will help to remove them.

To Paper on Plaster Board

Q.—I am interested in refinishing a room and would like to use a well known insulating board. Will plaster stick to this without danger of cracking? Is there any insulating board on the market which can be covered with wallpaper without preparing the joints?—N. T.

A.—The manufacturing company you mentioned manufacture as insulating material which will receive plaster. They also manufacture standard sheets used for interior finish and which may be painted and paneled. Wallpaper may be applied to a plaster board if the joints are properly filled and the surface primed with either glue or shellac sizing. There are wall boards manufactured which do not require fillers but which are fitted with prepared joints. These are very expensive for ordinary use and I do not recommend them. Before applying wallpaper it will be advisable to permit the plaster boards to remain in postion for at least a month.

Patching Leaky Porch Roofs

Q.—What material could I use to cover the floor of a porch on the second floor so as to prevent rain or snow from leaking through and swelling the ceiling boards of the porch below? It is an open porch with solid rail and has one drain opening. Would linoleum stand the cold weather?—W. O.

A.—Linoleum will not stand outside weather without coming up. There is an asphalt product which can be laid down in sheets which is both waterproof and weatherproof. This product may be cemented down on the upper porch and will make a good floor as well as a waterproofing agent.

BURGLARY REPORTED

A report that a burglar had attempted to break into the resi dence of S. A. Poole, 315 North Second street, was made to police headquarters from the residence last night. Officers who made an investigation discovered that a burglar had cut a rear window screen, but had been frightened away.

Poor Farm Resident Wins Right To Keep His Dog

FORT SCOTT, Kas., May 11.—(AP)—Tireless efforts of his 86-year-old master won a permanent home for a mongrel dog in the Bourbon county poor farm.

The dog was ejected on order of Fred McKinnis, custodian, who claimed the animal was vicious. Grieving, the aged inmate walked the streets of Fort Scott until he retrieved his lost pet, and then refused to return to the poor farm without the dog.

County commissioners ordered a muzzle for the dog and both were readmitted to the county home.

NURSING SERVICE TO BE DISCUSSED

State Manager Bulger Will Be Present At Meeting Tuesday

The "free nursing service," which is available to all members of the Maccabees and their families, will be discussed fully by State Manager M. J. Bulger at a meeting of Ouachita Tent No. 54, the Maccabees, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Veterans hall, 109 South Grand street.

The free nursing service will be available at homes or sanitariums after May 15, it was stated, and State Manager Bulger, who has just returned to Louisiana from a conference of field workers at Detroit, Mich., will explain fully how and why the Maccabees are providing this service for its members.

The free nursing service is another case of humane service that has been established by the Maccabees in conjunction with the work they have been doing in taking care of orphan children of its membership and providing aged members of the organization with a home in their home at Chatam, Penn., it was stated.

HUDSON SMASHES 36 MORE OFFICIAL RECORDS
in one of the most gruelling tests ever given an automobile . . . makes clean sweep up to and beyond 1000 miles

1000-mile record
beats best mark ever set by any closed car

NEWS FLASH—Muroc Lake, Cal., April 13—36 official A.A.A. records broken by a stock Hudson Eight. Top speed—over 93 miles an hour for five miles. Average speed—over 85 miles an hour for 1000 miles and beyond. A clean sweep of every record in its class up to and including 1000 miles and 3000 kilometers, and four unlimited class closed car records. Electrical timing correct to a millionth part of a second and every record certified by American Automobile Association.

Here's what it means to you. Probably you'll never care to drive a car five miles at 93 miles an hour. Yet, it means a lot to you to have a car that can go that fast—to shoot out of traffic tangles or flash you out ahead on the highway.

It isn't likely you'll want to drive a thousand-mile stretch at 85 miles an hour, but you do want a car with the fine engineering, power and ruggedness it takes to do this. Ordinary driving is no work at all for a car like this.

That's what it means to own a Hudson—smoother miles, more enjoyable miles—plus ruggedness and gasoline economy that make those miles cost less. You can see and drive an exact duplicate of this record-breaking Hudson Eight at any Hudson showroom. You can also see the complete list of these 36 new records, and scores of others held by Hudson-built cars. Take the wheel today and discover what this record-breaking performance means to you.

Stating that the average housewife never dreamed could be accomplished with a gas, oil, or gasoline range will be performed at the Montgomery Ward store Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

Unusual cooking and baking feats will be conducted by A. Presnell, factory demonstrator for Wards, it was announced by H. W. Roemer, store manager.

Ten loaves of bread baked in an oil stove oven in 45 minutes without once shifting a single loaf, four angel food cakes baked at one time in the oven corners of a gas range with only 11 minutes of gas used, biscuits baked in a gas, gasoline or kerosene range in less than 12 minutes. These are only of the startling tests which will be conducted.

Mr. Presnell will also demonstrate the blow torch test. While someone holds a sheet of the insulating material used in Wards range ovens, Mr. Presnell will direct the flame from a blow torch against it. Although the flames develop a heat of 2000 degrees, the person holding the sheet is in no danger of being burned.

The demonstrations will be open to the public without charge for admission. Many valuable prizes will be awarded during the demonstrations. Food cooked during the exhibition will be served to those attending.

Columbia

A representative group of Methodists motored to Winnsboro last week for the quarterly Mission conclave. Those in the party were: Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Morriss, Mrs. J. C. McCutchan, Mrs. Smith Butler, Mrs. Lily Blanks, Mrs. Monroe Jarrell, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Hosea Pruitt, Mrs. W. H. Traylor, Mrs. R. R. Redditt and Misses Adele Redditt, Pauline Thompson and Virginia Wright.

Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Adams had as their week-end guests Mr. and Mrs. Leland Richardson and infant daughter of Baton Rouge, and Supt. and Mrs. Richardson of Minden.

The condition of Mr. Irving Adams, brother of Dr. J. V. Adams, is reported to be very critical. Mr. Adams is now at the home of Dr. Adams.

Mrs. Scheuring of New Orleans is in Columbia for a brief visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scheuring. Mr. and Mrs. Scheuring expect to return home with her where they will remain for the summer.

News has been received that Miss Nina Holt Redditt of this city, who is at present a student in Newcomb college, is to be one of the attendants at the approaching marriage of Miss Florence Ferguson and Mr. Victor Davis which is to be solemnized in Monroe late in June.

Mrs. Aubrey Brown is recuperating from a recent illness in a Monroe sanitarium.

Mr. Bruce Redditt instructor at Northeast Center of L. S. U. was the guest of his mother, Mrs. R. R. Redditt, for a brief stay.

The bi-weekly meeting of the Columbia garden club was held at the Columbia hotel to formulate plans for the forthcoming parish-wide flower show which is to be held May 17. Mrs. Hartley Bridger officiated at the meeting and Mr. H. S. Bankston gave an informative dissertation on the "Arrangement of Flowers." Those attending this meeting were: Mrs. B. O. Cummings, Mrs. L. C. Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Curtis, Miss Lola Caldwell, Mrs. Venice Brown, Mrs. E. E. Franklin, Mrs. Hartley Bridger and Mrs. H. O. Hopkins.

A box supper was sponsored by the home economics club of which Miss Mildred Brown is president. With the cooperation of Mrs. Floyd Johnston, instructress of home economics, a varied and entertaining program was presented, main features of which were a style show and popularity contest.

JOIN IN HONORING KING GEORGE

The world-wide observance of the silver jubilee of King George V's accession to the throne of England was typified in the memorial thanksgiving services conducted in the Washington (D. C.) Cathedral, attended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is pictured as she greeted British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay.

CHAVEZ SUCCEEDS SENATOR CUTTING

SANTA FE, N. M., May 11.—(AP)—An ardent champion of Roosevelt policies, Dennis Chavez, who served in two Democratic houses, was lifted today into the senate seat of his political enemy, the late Senator Bronson Cutting, independent Republican and occasional critic of the administration.

Chavez, 47 years old, accepted an appointment tendered by Gov. Clyde Tingley to fill the vacant senate chair until 1936 and announced he will drop his contention of the election of Cutting, against whom he ran last November. He had disputed the 1,200-vote majority for Cutting.

In 1936 Chavez said he will be a candidate to fill the remainder of Cutting's term, which expires in 1940.

WOMEN'S CLUB UNITS PLEDGE FHA SUPPORT

Cooperate With Better Housing Program In 43 States Of Union

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With the number increasing daily, 1,624 units of various women's clubs and organizations in 43 states have, since April 1, pledged full support and cooperation with the better housing program of the federal housing administration.

Thirty-five clubs and associations with groups in virtually every state have already been lending support to the movement to focus the attention of the women of America upon the importance and value of the better housing program. The direct approach to the women of the country has been given new impetus by the appointment of 37 women field representatives.

The message of better homes and woman's part in home maintenance is being projected farther with a movement now under way to incorporate existing women's committees with women's divisions in better housing groups. Women field representatives are now encouraging selections of representative women to head these new divisions.

Plan Meetings

In every locality plans are under way to carry the message of better housing to meetings of organizations that pledge interest and cooperation. Either a woman field representative, chairmen of women's divisions, or others will address such groups of women to acquaint them with the opportunities offered by the modernization credit plan and the mutual mortgage insurance plan of the federal housing administration. Attention has been concentrated on women because they are the actual homemakers and are credited with the expenditure of a large portion of the national family income.

Widespread interest and enthusiasm is evidenced from all quarters in the women's movement. The new activity has reached into virtually every nook and corner of the country. It is expected that there will be a marked increase in the number of unit groups pledging cooperation before May 1.

Organizations

National organizations already participating in the women's movement include:

Parent-Teachers association, Daughters American Revolution, Republican Women's club, Delphian clubs, Federation of Women's clubs, Council of Jewish women, Smith College club, League of Women voters, Council of Catholic women, Young Women's Christian Association, Girl Scout counselors, Junior league, Democratic national committee women's division, Better Homes in America, board of education, Political Study club, League of American Pen Women, Quota club, International Graduate Nurses' association, Order Eastern Star, American Association of University Women, American Federation of Soroptimist clubs, Federation of Business and Professional Women, Wellesley club, Christ Child society, Garden Club of America, Twentieth Century club, New Ambury club, National Women's club, Farm and Home Economics association, Zonta International, bureau of home economics, extension service of United States, Federal Council of Churches, national association and housing officials' home-economic departments and state extension services.

St. Joseph

The Tensas Garden club met at the Farrar house. The hostesses were Mrs. Maury Stanton, Mrs. Molly D. Bouney and Mrs. Katie Watson. This meeting marked the beginning of another year of club.

The program was as follows: Miss Bessie Muir gave a reading, followed by a talk on rural club work; biography and reading from the poem "Marse John," by Louis Murdock; a humorous selection, "Mr. Frog's Hate of Regret," by Mrs. John Hughes. The meeting was closed after serving refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wade entertained the Night card club at a buffet supper here last week. Mr. and Mrs. Wade's guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Levy and Miss Bessie Muir.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Watson were hosts at the Country club last week. Games preceeded a plate supper which was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hayes, Mrs. Dalton Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, Mr. Dalton Watson and Miss Lulie Wagner of Fayette, Miss.

Mrs. John Hughes, Mrs. Marable Harper, Mrs. Elliott Coleman, Mrs. Kirk Haylip and Miss May Young of Chattanooga, Tenn., were guests at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Harrison Miller at Highland, La., last week. Miss Young was the guest of honor.

A meeting of church workers throughout this section was held here this week at the Episcopal church where services were conducted by Rev. Shardon D'Aubert, rector.

There were 100 young people at the gathering, including 80 visitors from Monroe, Baton Rouge and surrounding towns.

A luncheon was served at the Farrar house by the Episcopal Sunday school teachers. In the afternoon a swimming party in Lake Bruen was held. The service at Christ church by Rev. D'Aubert concluded the meeting.

M. H. LARY ARRESTED

The sheriff's department yesterday afternoon arrested M. H. Lary on a warrant charging him with passing two worthless checks at a store operated by Carey Holmes in West Monroe. Lary is accused of passing two worthless checks for the total amount of $4.40. Bond of $100 was posted for his release.

FATHER, SON HELD IN INSURANCE 'TORCH' MURDER

Frank di Stasio, 51, Revere, Mass., candy shop proprietor, and his son, Anthony, were indicted at Cambridge, Mass. after police said they had confessed burning to death an unidentified man in a plot to collect $12,500 insurance. The man burned to death was picked up in Boston by the two and was known only as "Dan." Police said the accused thought his body would be identified as the elder di Stasio's and thus Anthony would collect the insurance. The car in which the man was burned is shown above and inset is Anthony di Stasio. (Associated Press Photos)

Mangham

Mrs. F. C. Sheppard spent the past week in Jackson, Miss., where she was called on account of the illness of a niece.

Mrs. T. R. Thomas and little daughter of Dallas, Texas, are the guests of Mrs. Thomas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Humble.

Mrs. Floyd Brunson has been visiting this past week with friends and relatives in Mississippi.

The Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club met in the home of Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr. Those enjoying the afternoon were: Mrs. W. E. Hixon, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Monroe Hixon, Mrs. Carl Underwood, Mrs. Alex Watson, Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. Mattie Gaulden and Mrs. J. W. DeMoss.

Mr. and Mrs. Dow Case and Mrs. Linda Pardue, accompanied by Miss Ada Preston, motored to England, Ark., last Sunday, where they visited with Mr. Case's family.

Mrs. Carl Underwood had as her guest last week her mother, Mrs. Strickland, of Good Pine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Scott, of Gilbert, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Baskin last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius O'Quin and little son, of Mansfield, visited here Tuesday.

Mrs. E. T. Lee and Miss Doris Chambers were hostesses to the Faculty Bridge club in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hixon Thursday night. Those enjoying the evening were: Mrs. M. K. McConnell, Mrs. E. D. Baker, Mrs. Dow Case, Mrs. Linda Pardue, Mrs. Fleicshman, Mrs. R. V. Jones, Miss Sara Clifton, Miss George Huff, Miss Dorothy Stark, Miss Ruchelle Powell, Miss Olla Cooper, Miss Vergie Evans, Miss Kate Talbert, Miss Ethel Watson, Miss Ada Preston, Mrs. Mable Nash, Miss Susan Pardue, Miss Mable Brown, Mrs. Morris Brown, Mrs. L. L. McConnell, Mrs. Monroe Hixon, Mrs. Clyde Johnson, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr., Mrs. T. R. Thomas, Mrs. Ed Tillman, Mrs. T. B. Gregory, Mrs. Mattie Gaulden, Mrs. Alex Watson, Mrs. B. N. Hixon, Mrs. Carl Underwood, Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. W. R. Graves, Mrs. E. T. Lee, Miss Doris Chambers and Mrs. W. E. Hixon.

QUESTION BOX

Recipe for Varnish Remover

Q.—What are the ingredients used in "varnish removers"? I would like to remove the finish from a door and casing and find that I will need quite an amount of the remover.—H. U.

A.—Varnish remover consists of about one-half benzol and one-half alcohol, a gallon of acetone and a little paraffin.

Makes Good Paint Background

Q.—The walls of my living room are covered with sanitas of a wall paper pattern. This has turned very dark and washing does not improve it. Is there anything I can use to lighten it without spoiling the pattern?—W. H.

A.—There is nothing that can be done to recover the pattern on sanitas, but sanitas makes a good background for paint, and the room may be refinished without removing the sanitas.

One Way to Fight Ants

Q.—About two months ago small black ants began to be seen in our kitchen. Now they are all over our first floor in spite of the various patent removers used in an endeavor to get rid of them. Have you any suggestion that would be really worth while to rid our house of this annoyance?—V. P. M.

A.—Try digging a very narrow trench about a half inch deep around the entrances toward your house and fill it with kerosene. This will keep the ants from coming into the house. Those that are in the house already will have to be removed by means of a chemical exterminator. Boric acid crystals poured over the entrances as well as over areas where the ants are will help to remove them.

To Paper on Plaster Board

Q.—I am interested in refinishing a room and would like to use a well known insulating board. Will plaster stick to this without danger of cracking? Is there any insulating board on the market which can be covered with wallpaper without preparing the joints?—N. T.

A.—The manufacturing company you mentioned manufacture as insulating material which will receive plaster. They also manufacture standard sheets used for interior finish and which may be painted and paneled. Wallpaper may be applied to a plaster board if the joints are properly filled and the surface primed with either glue or shellac sizing. There are wall boards manufactured which do not require fillers but which are fitted with prepared joints. These are very expensive for ordinary use and I do not recommend them. Before applying wallpaper it will be advisable to permit the plaster boards to remain in postion for at least a month.

Patching Leaky Porch Roofs

Q.—What material could I use to cover the floor of a porch on the second floor so as to prevent rain or snow from leaking through and swelling the ceiling boards of the porch below? It is an open porch with solid rail and has one drain opening. Would linoleum stand the cold weather?—W. O.

A.—Linoleum will not stand outside weather without coming up. There is an asphalt product which can be laid down in sheets which is both waterproof and weatherproof. This product may be cemented down on the upper porch and will make a good floor as well as a waterproofing agent.

BURGLARY REPORTED

A report that a burglar had attempted to break into the resi dence of S. A. Poole, 315 North Second street, was made to police headquarters from the residence last night. Officers who made an investigation discovered that a burglar had cut a rear window screen, but had been frightened away.

Poor Farm Resident Wins Right To Keep His Dog

FORT SCOTT, Kas., May 11.—(AP)—Tireless efforts of his 86-year-old master won a permanent home for a mongrel dog in the Bourbon county poor farm.

The dog was ejected on order of Fred McKinnis, custodian, who claimed the animal was vicious. Grieving, the aged inmate walked the streets of Fort Scott until he retrieved his lost pet, and then refused to return to the poor farm without the dog.

County commissioners ordered a muzzle for the dog and both were readmitted to the county home.

NURSING SERVICE TO BE DISCUSSED

State Manager Bulger Will Be Present At Meeting Tuesday

The "free nursing service," which is available to all members of the Maccabees and their families, will be discussed fully by State Manager, M. J. Bulger at a meeting of Ouachita Tent No. 54, the Maccabees, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Veterans hall, 109 South Grand street.

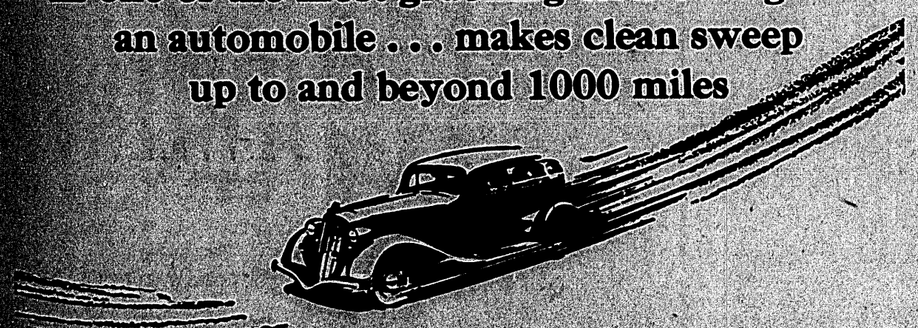

The free nursing service will be available at homes or sanitariums after May 15, it was stated, and State Manager Bulger, who has just returned to Louisiana from a conference of field workers at Detroit, Mich., will explain fully how and why the Maccabees are providing this service for its members.

The free nursing service is another case of humane service that has been established by the Maccabees in conjunction with the work they have been doing in taking care of orphan children of its membership and providing aged members of the organization with a home in their home at Chatam, Penn., it was stated.

HUDSON SMASHES 36 MORE OFFICIAL RECORDS
in one of the most gruelling tests ever given an automobile . . . makes clean sweep up to and beyond 1000 miles

1000-mile record beats best mark ever set by any closed car

NEWS FLASH—Muroc Lake, Cal., April 13—36 official A.A.A. records broken by a stock Hudson Eight. Top speed—over 93 miles an hour for five miles. Average speed—over 85 miles an hour for 1000 miles and beyond. A clean sweep of every record in its class up to and including 1000 miles and 3000 kilometers, and four unlimited class closed car records. Electrical timing correct to a millionth part of a second and every record certified by American Automobile Association.

Here's what it means to you. Probably you'll never care to drive a car five miles at 93 miles an hour. Yet, it means a lot to you to have a car that can go that fast—to shoot out of traffic tangles or flash you out ahead on the highway.

It isn't likely you'll want to drive a thousand-mile stretch at 85 miles an hour, but you do want a car with the fine engineering, power and ruggedness it takes to do this. Ordinary driving is no work at all for a car like this.

That's what it means to own a Hudson—smoother miles, more enjoyable miles—plus ruggedness and gasoline economy that make those miles cost less. You can see and drive an exact duplicate of this record-breaking Hudson Eight at any Hudson showroom. You can also see the complete list of these 36 new records, and scores of others held by Hudson-built cars. Take the wheel today and discover what this record-breaking performance means to you.

GIANTS AND PIRATES SPLIT TWO HURLING DUELS

GUY BUSH STOPS NEW YORKERS IN FIRST GAME, 4-1

Fitzsimmons Comes Back In Second And Blanks Bucs With 3 Hits

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—The Giants' perfect record at the Polo Grounds this year—nine victories and two ties without a single loss—was rudely shattered by Guy Bush and the Pirates in the first half of a double-header today but the league leaders rallied behind Fitzsimmons to gain an even break for the day.

Fitzsimmons

With Bush flinging four-hit ball, the Pirates took the opener 4 to 1. New York rallied on the strength of Fitzsimmons' three-hit hurling and won the second clash 3 to 0. Fitzsimmons, who had missed two turns on the hill because of a sore elbow, showed no sign of the injury as he spread three singles over as many different innings and issued only three walks.

Home runs played an important part in both halves of the bargain bill, played before 39,065 cash customers. Paul Waner thumped the Pirates into an early lead in the opener when he smacked his season's first boundary belt with Woody Jensen on base. Gus Mancuso's two homers were the deciding factors in the second mound duel between Fitzsimmons and Waite Hoyt.

Hughie Critz, who had been kept out of action since the start of the season, first by an injury then by the illness of his wife, appeared in the Giant lineup as Mark Koenig was shifted to third to replace the injured Travis Jackson.

Final Match In Doubles Meet To Be Played Today

Durwood Griffin and George Hare will meet Dave Kaplan and Isaac Lemle this afternoon in the finals for the championship of the tournament being sponsored by the Monroe Recreation department. The match will start at 4:40 o'clock on the Forsythe park courts.

Griffin and Hare defeated Elizabeth Kennedy and Robert Cann, 7-5, 3-6, 6-2, in one semi-final match yesterday, while Kaplan and Lemle eliminated Dick Troy and Darwin Nichols, 6-2, 1-6, 7-5, in the other.

The first prize of 12 tennis balls, awarded by the News-Star—World, will be presented to the winners after today's final match.

'HITLESS WONDERS' BECOME 'MURDERERS' ROW'

There was a time when the Chicago White Sox were known as baseball's "hitless wonders," but this year's squad has proved the surprise of the American league with its heavy hitting and better-than-average pitching. Here are five Sox sluggers who've been batting .300 or over. Left to right in their batting order: Jack Hayes, Al Simmons, Zeke Bonura, Vernon Washington, Luke Appling. (Associated Press Photo)

LION NET TEAM BEATS BASTROP

Ouachita Squad Ends Successful Season With 6-To-2 Victory

Using only freshmen and sophomore players, the Ouachita parish high school tennis squad closed out a successful season yesterday by defeating Bastrop, 6 to 2. It was the second time this season the Lions had defeated Bastrop and their fourth match victory of the year against two defeats.

Coach George Riser was anxious to get a line on his 1936 material and he kept his seniors on the sidelines. John B. Fudickar, a regular member of this year's team who will be back next season, also was kept out of action.

Despite the loss of several stars, the Lions expect to have another good team next year. Dawson Kennedy, No. 1 member of the boys team, and Jean Sholars and Ilo Jane Boyd, girl stars, will be lost through graduation.

The Lions took three first places at the north Louisiana rally at Ruston and also made an excellent showing at the state rally at Baton Rouge. The Ouachita mixed doubles team was defeated for the state title only after a hectic battle, losing 3-6 and 18-20. Members of the doubles team were Miss Boyd and Isaac Patton. After winning the Ruston rally singles title, Miss Sholars was fourth at the state meet. The girls doubles team of Miss Sholars and June Moffett was third at Baton Rouge. They won the Ruston championship. Patton and Kennedy, forming the boys doubles team, also won a title at the north Louisiana rally.

Summary of the Bastrop match:

Boys singles:

Isaac Patton, Ouachita, beat Charles Eldridge, 6-2, 6-2.

Jack Hackley, Ouachita, beat Wirt Rogers, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Louis Rowe, Bastrop, beat Tris McConnell, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Carl Nichols, Bastrop, beat John P. Jones, 6-1, 6-3.

Boys doubles:

Patton and Hackley, Ouachita, beat Rogers and Eldridge, 6-3, 6-4.

Mahr and Dent, Ouachita, beat Nichols and Rowe, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4.

Girls singles:

June Moffett, Ouachita, beat Jeanette Rowe, 6-4, 6-3.

Mary Mahr, Ouachita, beat Polly Brooks, 6-0, 6-0.

CITY LOOP TEAMS WILL PLAY TODAY

New Softball Circuit Swings Into Action At Barkdull Faulk

The first game of the new City Softball league will be played this afternoon between the Sav-Mor Grocers and the Phi Kappa aggregation, the schedule opening today instead of later in the week as previously announced by the Monroe Recreation department, the team managers said yesterday. The managers also announced that the name of the league had been changed from Junior Twilight to the City league.

As a preliminary to the season's opener today, the Sav-Mor club will play an exhibition game with the Delta Sigma team. The games will be played at Barkdull Faulk school, with the exhibition tilt starting at 2 o'clock and the official game beginning at 4 o'clock.

Batteries in the official contest will be Isaac Atkinson, pitcher, and Numa Coco, catcher, for Sav-Mor, and "Buster" Bower or Jimmy Jones, pitcher, and Charles Womack, catcher, for the Kappas. Joe Haydel and Hanna will officiate.

The Grocers plan to use either Spatafora or DeLoach on the mound in the exhibition contest, with Coco behind the bat.

Other clubs in the league, which completed its organization of eight teams at a meeting of team managers and captains Friday night, will swing into action this week.

OGLETHORPE WINS

DECATUR, Ga., May 11.—(AP)—The Oglethorpe university baseball team defeated Auburn 7 to 5 here today for the second victory in their two-game series. The Petrels won yesterday, 3 to 1.

FLIGHT CHAMPS TO MEET TODAY

Touchstone And Frazer Match To Decide Finalist At Lakeside

H. K. Touchstone will meet Harry Frazer today for the right to enter the finals against Dr. R. T. Harberson in the spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club. Touchstone won the first flight championship and Frazer captured the second after a 36 hole battle with Wesley Shafto.

Dr. Harberson, winner of the third flight, defeated C. W. Wallace, fourth flight winner, last week to enter the finals.

The Touchstone-Frazer match today is expected to be close and it is likely that the battle will attract a gallery. The match will be over the 18 hole route.

The final match between Harberson and Touchstone or Frazer will be a 36-hole affair and will be played a week from today. Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

The tournament now drawing to a close attracted a large entry list, from which five flights were selected for match play. Flight prizes were awarded the five winners, with a grand prize to be given the winner of the tournament championship.

The spring handicap tournament is the first feature of a big spring and summer program being mapped out by Manager Girault at Lakeside club. Several inter-city matches are being planned, as well as other club tournaments.

Torrance To Turn Pro Matman After Olympics

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 11.—(AP)—Jack Torrance said here today that when he attends the Olympics in Berlin in 1936, it will be his final appearance in sports competition as an amateur.

Immediately following the Berlin contests, the world's champion shot putt star said, he plans to become a professional wrestler, and play professional football also.

The former Louisiana State university star will give a shot-putt exhibition here tomorrow. No admission will be charged.

The athlete was disappointed at not arriving here in time for the Southern A.A.U. events here yesterday. He thought the meet would be held today. He arrived by plane at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

WHITE SOX TURN ON BOSTON WITH 13-TO-3 TRIUMPH

Rookie John Whitehead Subdues Red Sox As Mates Run Wild

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, checked for two days by Boston, went on the warpath again today and behind a two-hit pitching job by Silent John Whitehead, who racked up his fifth straight victory of the season, pounded three Red Sox hurlers for a 13-to-3 triumph.

Whitehead, the sensational rookie righthander from Dallas, collared every Boston hitter except Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, the Red Sox freshman first baseman. Dahlgren drove in all the Boston runs and banged out his third home run in two days along with a double that came close to being a triple.

NATS TRIM TIGERS

DETROIT, May 11.—(AP)—Jo-Jo White's steal of home in the ninth for the tying run only prolonged defeat for the Tigers as Washington came through in the twelfth inning today to win, 10 to 7.

With Thursday's game rained out, the Senators evened the series count by their win today. Russell, who succeeded Burke on the mound for Washington with two on base and none out in the ninth, got credit for the victory.

Hank Greenberg hit his third home run in the fifth, scoring Walker and Gehringer ahead of him.

STATE WOMEN'S GOLF FINAL WON BY MISS SAENGER

Defending Champion Rallies To Defeat Mrs. Cahn, 3 And 2

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Miss Edna Saenger of Shreveport won the right to reign as queen of Louisiana women golfers for another year today by virtue of a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Abry Cahn, a fellow townswoman, in the 36-hole state championship final.

The defending champion came from behind, after going to lunch after the morning 18 holes one down, and amassed an advantage of three-up by the end of the 27th hole.

Miss Saenger preserved her lead with flawless golf, matching Mrs. Cahn stroke for stroke, to easily retain her championship.

Mrs. Cahn, the 1932 state titlist, held the advantage throughout the morning round and Miss Saenger was never able to break into the lead during that time.

Miss Saenger had a medal score of 88, as compared to Mrs. Cahn's 87, for the first round. During the afternoon, however, Miss Saenger hit her stride of brilliant shot-making to outscore Mrs. Cahn by eight strokes for the 16 holes played in the afternoon.

During the afternoon, Miss Saenger required only 74 strokes for the 16 holes played, while Mrs. Cahn took 82 for the distance.

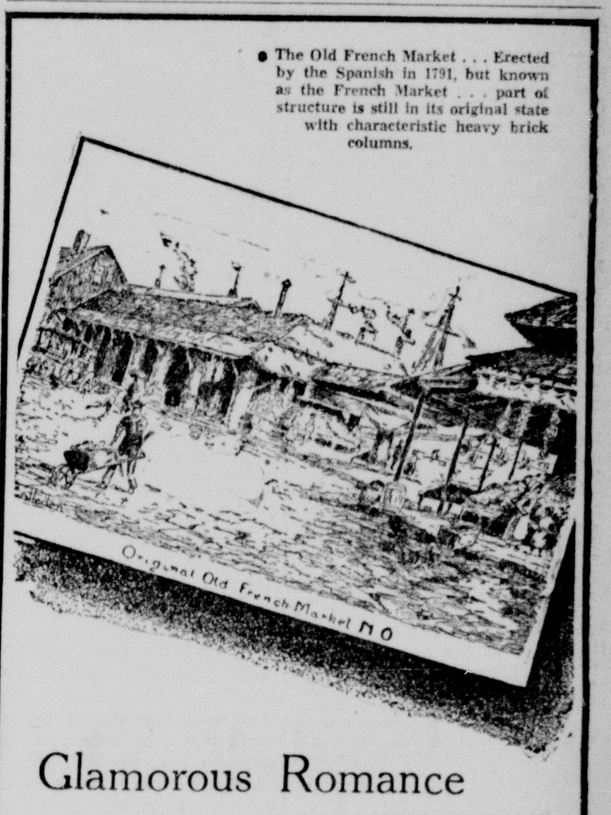

Miss Saenger would have carded an 83 had she parred the last two remaining holes.

Cleveland Indians Finally Rewarding Their Perennial Pickers

By John J. Romano

Walter Johnson has his eyes on that American league pennant. Troubled considerably by the absence of Billy Knickerbocker in the regular line-up and compelled to use rookie Roy Hughes, at short, with still another newcomer, Louie Berger, at second, Johnson figured he could do no better than hope to break even in his games until Knickerbocker returned. But the young keystone combination has more than been playing up to par.

Johnson admits the batting of Hughes and Berger can stand improvement, but he is not worried so much as the youngsters have been fielding nicely and show promise of learning how to hit major league pitching as they go along.

A Well-Balanced Staff

The underlying reason for Johnson's optimism is his pitching staff.

Mel Harder and Monte Pearson are the main causes of Walter's rejoicing. The former is the sort of pitcher who makes hard games look easy. His biggest drawback is too much enthusiasm in spring training. Mel starts off with a bang and bears down before his arm is ready to take up the slack of a winter's idleness. As a consequence he generally comes up in the first month of the campaign with a sore arm.

Last year it will be recalled Harder did not win his first game until May 29. He did not score another win until the middle of June. When a club is deprived of victories from such a pitcher until the season is two months old it is greatly handicapped.

This year, however, has been different. Harder took stock of himself and tapered off sensibly. Mel was sent to the mound on the opening day against St. Louis and went 14 innings, being rewarded with a 2-1 victory. And he has been taking his regular turn ever since. Lest you forget, Joe Cronin, then manager of the Washington Senators, knew the worth of Harder and surprised everyone by throwing him in against the All-Star National league team last July. You all know what Mel accomplished.

Johnson Rates Pearson

Pearson, according to Johnson, "has as much stuff on the ball as any pitcher in the league." Walter used to be some shucks as a pitcher and knows what he is talking about. Monte's fault in the past was his inability to outsmart enemy batters. It seems that Pearson pitched just speed when a change of pace was in order. At that he won 18 games while losing 13 last year. This is not bad considering that the leading pitcher of the team, Mel Harder, of course, won 20 and lost 12. Not much difference there.

Johnson has maintained all along that his four starting pitchers are the equal of any in the league. Harder, Pearson, Oral Hildebrand and Willis Hudlin compose his quartette. As second stringers he has Lloyd and Clint Brown, Thornton Lee and Ralph Winegarner. Winegarner, a transformed infielder, is another who put too much stuff on the ball early in the season and was forced to give his arm a long rest.

Trosky Behind Other Hitters

While the early season success of Johnson's tribe has been a creditable showing of his brilliant mound staff, his hitters, with the exception of Hal Trosky, have been pounding the ball to all corners of the lot.

Trosky has yet to show his long distance hitting ability, but that will come around in time. Meanwhile, he has been getting his share of hits when hits mean runs. Odell Hale has been playing heads-up baseball at third. Johnson shows his confidence in the young man by placing him behind Trosky, fifth in the batting order. This is an honor position, but a tough spot for a youngster. You will find quite a few hard hitters just behind the clean-up man in the other line-ups. In Chicago we find Vernon Washington following Zeke Bonura, in St. Louis Burnett after Pepper, in Detroit Hank Greenberg after Charley Gehringer, in Washington Cliff Bolton behind Joe Kuhel, and in New York we find Bill Dickey walking up for his turn after Lou Gehring gets through swatting the ball.

Outfield One of the Best

The outfield with Earl Averill, Joe Vosmik and Bruce Campbell is not to be overlooked. Here is a trio of robust hitters who would grace any team in the league and disport themselves with distinction.

Vosmik is one of those rare birds who jumped from the sandlots of his native city to make good with a bang in the majors. He was sick a good part of last year but playing in 104 games, he was good enough to compile the lusty batting mark of .341. Not many showed better than that. "Oil" Averill is the kind of hitter who is apt to break loose any time and knock the paint off the fence when he is not clearing it with hefty wallops. Campbell may not hit as well as his partners in the outer gardens, but he is a finished fielder and comes up with timely swats.

Cleveland was expected to be weak behind the plate. Frank Pytlak is small and light for a receiver. He is a smart handler of pitchers and speedy for a catcher. What he lacks in ruggedness he more than makes up in agility and gets his share of hits. Then Johnson has the veteran Glenn Myatt for assistance. Myatt is a handy man to have around, as he has proved in the early weeks of the campaign.

Walter Johnson has just cause to be optimistic. If the kids around short and second continue the pace they have been setting, Knickerbocker will not be missed too much. Should Knickerborker come back to play as well as he did last year, the second guessers in the grandstand who are demanding Walter Johnson's scalp will get the horse laugh should the Indians race down in front next October.

GIANTS AND PIRATES SPLIT TWO HURLING DUELS

GUY BUSH STOPS NEW YORKERS IN FIRST GAME, 4-1

Fitzsimmons Comes Back In Second And Blanks Bucs With 3 Hits

NEW YORK, May 11.— (AP) —The Giants' perfect record at the Polo Grounds this year—nine victories and two ties without a single loss—was rudely shattered by Guy Bush and the Pirates in the first half of a double-header today but the league leaders rallied behind Fitzsimmons to gain an even break for the day.

Fitzsimmons

With Bush flinging four-hit ball, the Pirates took the opener 4 to 1. New York rallied on the strength of Fitzsimmons' three-hit hurling and won the second clash 3 to 0. Fitzsimmons, who had missed two turns on the hill because of a sore elbow, showed no ill effects of the injury as he spread three singles over as many different innings and issued only three walks.

Home runs played an important part in both halves of the bargain bill played before 39,065 cash customers. Paul Waner thumped the Pirates into an early lead in the opener when he smacked his season's first boundary belt with Woody Jensen on base. Gus Mancuso's two homers were the deciding factors in the second mound duel between Fitzsimmons and Waite Hoyt.

Hughie Critz, who had been kept out of action since the start of the season, first by an injury then by the illness of his wife, appeared in the Giant lineup as Mark Koenig was shifted to third to replace the injured Travis Jackson.

'HITLESS WONDERS' BECOME 'MURDERERS' ROW'

LION NET TEAM BEATS BASTROP

Ouachita Squad Ends Successful Season With 6-To-2 Victory

Using only freshmen and sophomore players, the Ouachita parish high school tennis squad closed out a successful season yesterday by defeating Bastrop, 6 to 2. It was the second time this season the Lions had defeated Bastrop and their fourth match victory of the year against two defeats.

Coach George Riser was anxious to get a line on his 1936 material and he kept his seniors on the sidelines. John B. Fudickar, a regular member of this year's team who will be back next season, also was kept out of action.

Despite the loss of several stars, the Lions expect to have another good team next year. Dawson Kennedy, No. 1 member of the boys team, and Jean Sholars and Ilo Jane Boyd, girl stars, will be lost through graduation.

The Lions took three first places at the north Louisiana rally at Ruston and also made an excellent showing at the state rally at Baton Rouge. The Ouachita mixed doubles team was defeated for the state title only after a hectic battle, losing 3-6 and 18-20. Members of the doubles team were Miss Boyd and Isaac Patton. After winning the Ruston rally singles title, Miss Sholars was fourth at the state meet. The girls doubles team of Miss Sholars and June Moffett was third at Baton Rouge. They won the Ruston championship. Patton and Kennedy, forming the boys doubles team, also won a title at the north Louisiana rally.

Summary of the Bastrop match:

Boys singles:

Isaac Patton, Ouachita, beat Charles Eldridge, 6-2, 6-2.

Jack Hackley, Ouachita, beat Wirt Rogers, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Louis Rowe, Bastrop, beat Tris McConnell, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Carl Nichols, Bastrop, beat John P. Jones, 6-1, 6-3.

Boys doubles:

Patton and Hackley, Ouachita, beat Rogers and Eldridge, 6-3, 6-4.

Alabama Beats Ole Miss In Hurling Duel, 2 To 1

UNIVERSITY, Ala., May 11.—(AP)—Lee Rogers, star Alabama southpaw, held Mississippi State to three hits here today to give his mates a 2 to 1 victory and the Southeastern conference baseball championship.

Rogers lost his only game of the season at Starkville earlier in the week to Mississippi State, but today's victory gave Alabama two of the three games played.

Score:

CITY LOOP TEAMS WILL PLAY TODAY

New Softball Circuit Swings Into Action At Barkdull Faulk

The first game of the new City Softball league will be played this afternoon between the Sav-Mor Grocers and the Phi Kappa aggregation, the schedule opening today instead of later in the week as previously announced by the Monroe Recreation department, the team managers said yesterday. The managers also announced that the name of the league had been changed from Junior Twilight to the City league.

As a preliminary to the season's opener today, the Sav-Mor club will play an exhibition game with the Delta Sigma team. The games will be played at Barkdull Faulk school, with the exhibition tilt starting at 2 o'clock and the official game beginning at 4 o'clock.

Batteries in the official contest will be Isaac Atkinson, pitcher, and Numa Coco, catcher, for Sav-Mor, and "Buster" Bower or Jimmy Jones, pitcher, and Charles Womack, catcher, for the Kappas. Joe Haydel and Hanna will officiate.

The Grocers plan to use either Spatafora or DeLosch on the mound in the exhibition contest, with Coco behind the bat.

Other clubs in the league, which completed its organization of eight teams at a meeting of team managers and captains Friday night, will swing into action this week.

OGLETHORPE WINS

DECATUR, Ga., May 11.—(AP)—The Oglethorpe university baseball team defeated Auburn 7 to 5 here today for the second victory in their two-game series. The Petrels won yesterday, 3 to 1.

FLIGHT CHAMPS TO MEET TODAY

Touchstone And Frazer Match To Decide Finalist At Lakeside

H. K. Touchstone will meet Harry Frazer today for the right to enter the finals against Dr. R. T. Harberson in the spring handicap tournament at Lakeside Country club. Touchstone won the first flight championship and Frazer captured the second after a 36 hole battle with Wesley Shafto.

Dr. Harberson, winner of the third flight, defeated C. W. Wallace, fourth flight winner, last week to enter the finals.

The Touchstone-Frazer match today is expected to be close and it is likely that the battle will attract a gallery. The match will be over the 18 hole route.

The final match between Harberson and Touchstone or Frazer will be a 36-hole affair and will be played a week from today. Eighteen holes will be played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

The tournament now drawing to a close attracted a large entry list, from which five flights were selected for match play. Flight prizes were awarded the five winners, with a grand prize to be given the winner of the tournament championship.

The spring handicap tournament is the first feature of a big spring and summer program being mapped out by Manager Girault at Lakeside club. Several inter-city matches are being planned, as well as other club tournaments.

Torrance To Turn Pro Matman After Olympics

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 11.—(AP)—Jack Torrance said here today that when he attends the Olympics in Berlin in 1936, it will be his final appearance in sports competition as an amateur.

Immediately following the Berlin contests, the world's champion shot putt star said, he plans to become a professional wrestler, and play professional football also.

The former Louisiana State university star will give a shot-putt exhibition here tomorrow. No admission will be charged.

The athlete was disappointed at not arriving here in time for the Southern A.A.U. events here yesterday. He thought the meet would be held today. He arrived by plane at 1:15 o'clock this morning.

WHITE SOX TURN ON BOSTON WITH 13-TO-3 TRIUMPH

Rookie John Whitehead Subdues Red Sox As Mates Run Wild

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox, checked for two days by Boston, went on the warpath again today and behind a two-hit pitching job by Silent John Whitehead, who racked up his fifth straight victory of the season, pounded three Red Sox hurlers for a 13-to-3 triumph.

Whitehead, the sensational rookie righthander from Dallas, collared every Boston hitter except Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, the Red Sox freshman first baseman. Dahlgren drove in all the Boston runs and banged out his third home run in two days along with a double that came close to being a triple.

NATS TRIM TIGERS

DETROIT, May 11.—(AP)—Jo-Jo White's steal of home in the ninth for the tying run only prolonged defeat for the Tigers as Washington came through in the twelfth inning today to win, 10 to 7.

With Thursday's game rained out, the Senators evened the series count by their win today. Russell, who succeeded Burke on the mound for Washington with two on base and none out in the ninth, got credit for the victory.

Hank Greenberg hit his third home run in the fifth, scoring Walker and Gehringer ahead of him.

Defending Champion Rallies To Defeat Mrs. Cahn, 3 And 2

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Miss Edna Saenger of Shreveport won the right to reign as queen of Louisiana women golfers for another year today by virtue of a 3 and 2 victory over Mrs. Abry Cahn, a fellow townswoman, in the 36-hole state championship final.

The defending champion came from behind, after going to lunch after the morning 18 holes one down, and amassed an advantage of three-up by the end of the 27th hole.

Miss Saenger preserved her lead with flawless golf, matching Mrs. Cahn stroke for stroke, to easily retain her championship.

Mrs. Cahn, the 1932 state titlist, held the advantage throughout the morning round and Miss Saenger was never able to break into the lead during that time.

Miss Saenger had a medal score of 88, as compared to Mrs. Cahn's 87, for the first round. During the afternoon, however, Miss Saenger hit her stride of brilliant shot-making to outscore Mrs. Cahn by eight strokes for the 18 holes played in the afternoon.

During the afternoon, Miss Saenger required only 74 strokes for the 18 holes played, while Mrs. Cahn took 82 for the distance.

Miss Saenger would have carded an 83 had she parred the last two remaining holes.

Cleveland Indians Finally Rewarding Their Perennial Pickers

By John J. Romano

Walter Johnson has his eyes on that American league pennant. Troubled considerably by the absence of Billy Knickerbocker in the regular line-up and compelled to use rookie Roy Hughes, at short, with still another newcomer, Louie Berger, at second, Johnson figured he could do no better than hope to break even in his games until Knickerbocker returned. But the young keystone combination has more than been playing up to par.

Johnson admits the batting of Hughes and Berger can stand improvement, but he is not worried so much as the youngsters have been fielding nicely and show promise of learning how to hit major league pitching as they go along.

A Well-Balanced Staff

The underlying reason for Johnson's optimism is his pitching staff. Mel Harder and Monte Pearson are the main causes of Walter's rejoicing. The former is the sort of pitcher who makes hard games look easy. His biggest drawback is too much enthusiasm in spring training. Mel starts off with a bang and bears down before his arm is ready to take up the slack of a winter's idleness. As a consequence he generally comes up in the first month of the campaign with a sore arm.

Last year it will be recalled Harder did not win his first game until May 29. He did not score another win until the middle of June. When a club is deprived of victories from such a pitcher until the season is two months old it is greatly handicapped.

This year, however, has been different. Harder took stock of himself and tapered off sensibly. Mel was sent to the mound on the opening day against St. Louis and went 14 innings, being rewarded with a 2-1 victory. And he has been taking his regular turn ever since. Lest you forget, Joe Cronin, then manager of the Washington Senators, knew the worth of Harder and surprised everyone by throwing him in against the All-Star National league team last July. You all know what Mel accomplished.

Johnson Rates Pearson

Pearson, according to Johnson, "has as much stuff on the ball as any pitcher in the league." Walter used to be some shucks as a pitcher and knows what he is talking about. Monte's fault in the past was his inability to outsmart enemy batters. It seems that Pearson pitched just speed when a change of pace was in order. At that he won 18 games while losing 13 last year. This is not bad considering that the leading pitcher of the team, Mel Harder, of course, won 20 and lost 12. Not much difference there.

Johnson has maintained all along that his four starting pitchers are the equal of any in the league. Harder, Pearson, Oral Hildebrand and Willis Hudlin compose his quartette. As second stringers he has Lloyd and Clint Brown, Thornton Lee and Ralph Winegarner. Winegarner, a transformed infielder, is another who put too much stuff on the ball early in the season and was forced to give his arm a long rest.

Trosky Behind Other Hitters

While the early season success of Johnson's tribe has been a creditable showing of his brilliant mound staff, his hitters, with the exception of Hal Trosky, have been pounding the ball to all corners of the lot.

Trosky has yet to show his long distance hitting ability, but that will come around in time. Meanwhile, he has been getting his share of hits when hits mean runs. Odell Hale has been playing heads-up baseball at third. Johnson shows his confidence in the young man by placing him behind Trosky, fifth in the batting order. This is an honor position, but a tough spot for a youngster. You will find quite a few hard hitters just behind the clean-up man in the other line-ups. In Chicago we find Vernon Washington following Zeke Bonura, in St. Louis Burnett after Pepper, in Detroit Hank Greenberg after Charley Gehringer, in Washington Cliff Bolton behind Joe Kuhel, and in New York we find Bill Dickey walking up for his turn after Lou Gehrig gets through swatting the ball.

Outfield One of the Best

The outfield with Earl Averill, Joe Vosmik and Bruce Campbell is not to be overlooked. Here is a trio of robust hitters who would grace any team in the league and disport themselves with distinction.

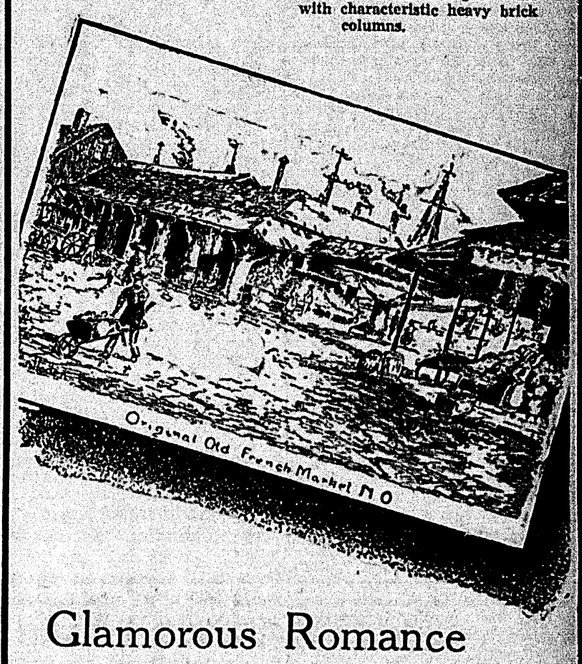

Vosmik is one of those rare birds who jumped from the sandlots of his native city to make good with a bang in the majors. He was sick a good part of last year but playing in 104 games, he was good enough to compile the lusty batting mark of .341. Not many showed better than that. "Oil" Averill is the kind of hitter who is apt to break loose any time and knock the paint off the fence when he is not clearing it with hefty wallops. Campbell may not hit as well as his partners in the outer gardens, but he is a finished fielder and comes up with timely swats.

Cleveland was expected to be weak behind the plate. Frank Pytlak is small and light for a receiver. He is a smart handler of pitchers and speedy for a catcher. What he lacks in ruggedness he more than makes up in agility and gets his share of hits. Then Johnson has the veteran Glenn Myatt for assistance. Myatt is a handy man to have around, as he has proved in the early weeks of the campaign.

Walter Johnson has just cause to be optimistic. If the kids around short and second continue the pace they have been setting, Knickerbocker will not be missed too much. Should Knickerborker come back to play as well as he did last year, the second guessers in the grandstand who are demanding Walter Johnson's scalp will get the horse laugh should the Indians race down in front next October.

OMAHA REPEATS HIS DERBY VICTORY IN PREAKNESS

WOODWARD STAR WINS RICH RACE BY SIX LENGTHS

Firethorn Runs Second At Pimlico With Psychic Bid Third

BALTIMORE, May 11.—(AP)—William Woodward's Omaha, winner of the Kentucky Derby, today defeated seven other 3-year-olds in the 45th running of the Preakness.

Walter M. Jefford's Firethorn was second and Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Psychic Bid third.

Taking the lead coming out of the backstretch, Omaha rolled home six lengths clear of Firethorn with Psychic Bid another six lengths to the rear. Mantagna was fourth while Nellie Flag was next to the last, far back of the flying Woodward colt.

Guided by Willie (Smoky) Saunders, Omaha ran much the same type of a race as he did in taking the derby a week ago.

He was away in the fifth place but quickly moved into a contending position. As he turned into the backstretch with Brannon setting the pace, he still was some 10 lengths back. But then he began to run and collared the leaders turning out of the backstretch. From there on it was merely a gallop for the son of Gallant Fox, which won both the derby and Preakness in 1930.

Omaha was clocked in 1.58 2-5 for the one and three-sixteenths miles. His time was only one-fifth of a second slower than the race record set by High Quest in winning the event last year.

The record crowd of 40,000 made Omaha the odds-on choice, a $2 win mutuel returning $3.90. Firethorn, running coupled with Commonwealth paid $3.40 to place while a $2 ticket on Psychic Bid was worth $4.60.

Back of the four leaders in order finished: Commonwealth, Brannon, Nellie Flag and Boxthorn, which again disappointed his owner, E. R. Bradley.

KEEPS PROMISE TO DEFEND TITLE

L. S. U. TRACKMEN WHIP TULANE BY LOPSIDED SCORE

No Marks Threatened As Tigers Walk Off With Dual Meet, 88-29

NEW ORLEANS, May 11—(AP)—Louisiana State university romped to an expected lop-sided victory over Tulane university here today in their annual dual track meet, 88 to 29, before several thousand fans.

Herman Neugass, Tulane's star sprinter, and Glenn "Slats" Hardin, the Tigers' ace hurdle and quarter-mile runner, failed to extend themselves in their specialties and there was not a single outstanding mark during the entire afternoon.

Neugass, who has endangered the world dash marks this spring, breezed through a mediocre 100 yards in 10.2 seconds and 22.2 seconds in the 220-yard dash.

Hardin ran a lazy quarter-mile in 51.2 seconds and registered a victory of 24.5 seconds in the low hurdles.

Louisiana State won both first and second places in eight of the 15 events and forfeited the mile relay event to Tulane's Greenies. H. K. Smith was the only Tulane athlete to win a first place besides Neugass' two firsts in the dashes. Smith beat out Roberts, of L. S. U., in the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.2 seconds.

Probably the best mark of the day was Bryan's victory for L. S. U., in the pole vault at 13 feet. Perez and Davis, both of Tulane, tied for second.

The results:

Mile run—Robinson (L. S. U.) Godbold (L. S. U.). Time 4:35.3.

Shot put—Crass (L. S. U.) Lester (L. S. U.). Distance 45 feet, 11 inches.

Quarter mile—Hardin (L. S. U.) Black (L. S. U.). Time :51.2.

Half mile—Murphy (L. S. U.) Black (L. S. U.). Time 2:05.2.

220-yard dash—Neugass (Tulane) Saxon (L. S. U.). Time :22.2.

Javelin—Stephens (L. S. U.) Simons (Tulane). Distance 192 feet, 4 inches.

Two mile—Sanders (L. S. U.) Robinson (L. S. U.). Time 10:03.2.

Broad jump—Sullivan (L. S. U.) Bryan (L. S. U.). Distance 23 feet, 1-4 inch.

100-yard dash—Neugass (Tulane) Saxon (L. S. U.). Time 10.2 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Smith (Tulane) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time :15.2.

Discus—Crass (L. S. U.) Freese (Tulane). Distance 132 feet, 8 inches.

High jump—Kent (L. S. U.) Newell (L. S. U.) and Blair (L. S. U.) all tied for first at five feet, 10 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Hardin (L. S. U.) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time :24.5.

Mile relay—Won by Tulane (L. S. U. forfeited).

Special exhibition 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay—Won by team composed of Kohl (Tulane) Flower (Fortier high, New Orleans) Carsen (Tulane) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time 1:05.2.

HE MAKES IT TWO STRAIGHT

Omaha, gallant son of Gallant Fox, made it two in a row yesterday when he won the rich Preakness at Pimlico yesterday as he pleased. The great Woodward colt defeated for the second time several of his rivals which he outdistanced in the Kentucky Derby a week ago.

RUSTON PLAYS AT BROWN, MONROE GOES TO SWARTZ

Sterlington And Fairbanks Tie Up In Other Valley Loop Game

The undefeated Brown paper mill nine of the Ouachita Valley league throws its strength against the Ruston aggregation again this afternoon on the Brownville diamond while the Monroe Merchants go to Swartz and the Sterlington Engineers go to Fairbanks.

The Ruston club will be seeking its second victory in a row after losing its first four starts, but the Brownies are sure to be a hard nut to crack in view of the fine work they have been turning in.

The Merchant-Carbon Blacker battle will be a fight to get ahead of the other as they are both tied up, with Sterlington, for third place in the league's standing, each having won two games and lost three.

The Merchants, working under the direction of their new manager, Charlie Bruscato, Monroe boxing and wrestling promoter, have been turning in some fine workouts since Charlie took command of the club last week and believe they are now ready to do big things in the league.

Monroe at Swartz

SWARTZ, May 11—(Special)—At the local park Sunday afternoon, the Monroe Merchants and the Carbon Blackers play for the second time this year.

Swartz's new elongated right-handed hurler, Jabo New, is expected to get the mound assignment and to be opposed by Bowen, who did a neat job of turning back the Carbon Blackers in the previous meeting.

The Monroe Merchants are a fast, hustling club, and all of their defeats have been by narrow margins. The Carbon Blackers, after a disastrous start, have turned in victories in their last two games. These two teams, along with Sterlington, are deadlocked in the won and lost column, and each will be trying to use this game as the means of passing the other in the club standings. A large crowd is expected to be on hand at starting time.

S. I. A. A. MEET WON BY S. L. I. WITH 75 POINTS

Eight Varsity Records Broken In Track Events At Pineville

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 11.—(AP)—Southwestern Louisiana institute of Lafayette amassed a total of 75 points to carry off top honors in the varsity section of the district S. I. A. A. track and field meet in Pineville this afternoon. Louisiana college was second with 33 1-2 points.

Eight varsity records fell before the onslaught of about 100 athletes from six colleges in the district. Other varsity teams finished as follows: Louisiana Normal 16; Mississippi college 13; Loyola of New Orleans 13 1-2; Louisiana Tech 11.

In the freshmen section, Louisiana college nosed out Loyola, running up 42 1-3 points to 38 for the New Orleans school. Other freshmen teams finished as follows:

S. L. I., 30 1-3; Normal 23 1-3; La. Tech 6; Centenary of Shreveport 2.

Four high school relay events were run with Bolton high school of Alexandria running up 18 points. Belzoni, Miss., was second with 9 points. Moreauville and LeCompte scored 5 each.

Southwestern athletes turned in four of the eight new records while Louisiana college stars turned in three and Loyola one.

Roy of Loyola cleared the bar at 14 feet to set a new mark in the pole vault. He bettered his old record of 13 feet and 1 inch set in 1934.

Hart of Louisiana college, broke the shot put and javelin records. He bettered the mark of Yeldell of La. Tech of 43 feet set in 1932 by over four feet when he heaved the shot 47 feet 1 3-4 inches. He threw the javelin 185 feet 7 inches for a new mark bettering the record set by Cornish of Normal of 180 feet 1 inch set in 1932.

Brister of Louisiana college ran the half in 1:56.8, to better the mark of 1:59.4 set in 1931 by Hammond of Loyola.

Chauviere of Southwestern stepped over the high hurdles in 15 flat to beat the record of 15.4 set by Landry of Loyola in 1933.

Bickam of S. L. I. threw the discus 136 feet 7 inches to better his own mark of 136 feet 6 inches set in 1934.

Johnston of S. L. I. ran the mile in 4:29.4 to beat the mark of Puckett of Mississippi college of 4:30.4 set in 1931.

The Southwestern mile relay team covered the distance in 3:23.6 to beat the mark set by Normal in 1931 of 3:23.7.

Al Moreau, former L. S. U. athlete, and Johnny Morriss, former S. L. I. star, ran an exhibition high hurdle race in which Moreau came in ahead in the announced time of 14.5 seconds.

Guy Nesom, former L. S. U. athlete and coach at the Bolton high school, threw the shot 48 feet 7 inches and the discus 147 feet 8 inches in exhibition events.

Vidalia Meets Ferriday In Second Battle Today

VIDALIA, La., May 11.—(Special)—Vidalia and Ferriday will engage in the second game of a series at the Vidalia diamond on Sunday afternoon. The game which was to have been played in Vidalia last Sunday was called off because of rain.

In the first tilt of the year, Ferriday won by one run and the Vidalia club is anxious to even the count. A series of games will be played for the parish championship. Only home-town players are being used on the clubs this season and the fans are being asked to give their support to the clubs.

Monroe Black Drillers Play At Huttig Today

Monroe's Black Drillers and the Huttig, Ark., Bearcats tangle this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the diamond at Huttig. This will be the first game this season between the two clubs as their opener scheduled for last week was rained out.

Manager C. D. Smith is expected to start either "Stormy" Davis or "Speed" Webb on the mound for the locals with Chatman on the receiving end.

CHARLES TOWNLEY WINS IN SCHOOL MARBLE TOURNEY

Central Grammar School Of Monroe Is First To Finish Games

Charles Townley, 10-year-old student of the Central Grammar school of Monroe, is the first school champion to be crowned in the Northeast Louisiana Marble tournament.

In a close game between Charles and George Wingate and Frank Cascio, young Townley won with a score of eight. George made three and Frank two. Charles lives at 1708 Jackson street.

Thus the Central school youngster has the honor of becoming the first marble champion. Of course, Charles will be battling for further laurels, with the grand prize of a week's vacation at Gulfport his major objective. He'll now await his next opponent in the district tourney and according to Miss Beverly Faunt Le Roy, the tourney supervisor at Central, her protege will give 'em a stiff fight all the way down the line.

Meanwhile, other schools are showing plenty of activity. B. R. Gunn, principal of Gilbert high school, writes the marble editor that Gilbert will be heard from in a big way before long.

"The marble tournament at Gilbert high school is in its last stages," Mr. Gunn says. "We have four boys to fight it out to represent the school. Up to the present time, Houghton Broadway and McDonald Scott have shown the best ability in knocking the marbles from the ring. Each one is in the fifth grade.

"In the elimination contest during the first stages the girls were no match for the boys and were eliminated in a hurry. All contestants are proud of the marbles and pin or button that was given them."

That's a fine report, Mr. Gunn, and the marble editor will be waiting to hear the outcome of your final match.

And J. W. Ruttledge, tourney supervisor at Lapine school, says that the eliminations there are progressing nicey, despite the recent rains, which slowed up the progress. There were originally 34 entrants at Lapine, 23 boys and 11 girls. Donald Sims and R. W. Caples are boys who have won important matches. No girls' matches have been held yet.

"We are getting in high now that the rains have ceased," Mr. Ruttledge said, "and hope to have all contests finished on time."

Well, if you don't finish by the 15th, Mr. Ruttledge, we'll certainly wait on you.

With the reports of the finals beginning to come in, the marble editor is getting all steamed up himself. We'd like to watch one of these school championship matches. And if some school supervisor will invite us, we'll come out and 'cover' one of the finals. We can't go to all of 'em but we'll accept the first invitation we receive. How about it?

Olin told Promoter Lou Daro of Olympic auditorium he had gall bladder trouble. He asked an outright cancellation instead of a postponement so he could return to New York.

RUSTON GOLFERS PLAY HERE TODAY

Municipal Club Plays Host To Visiting Team In First Match

Golfers of the Municipal club will play their first inter-city match of the season today when they tackle the strong Ruston Country club in a battle over the Muncipal links.

It also will be the first match local golfers have played since Winnie Cole, new club professional, took charge of the Muny layout a couple of weeks ago.

Cole said last night that approximately 25 golfers from Ruston would make the trip here today. Heading the list are Jim Cole, Louisiana Tech's No. 1 player, who recently set a new course record at Ruston, and D. G. Armstrong, coach of the Tech team. Several other members of the Tech squad also are expected to participate in today's match.

Although Cole last night had not completed the list of local golfers who will face the Rustonites, he said some of the city's best golfers will tee off for the Muny club.

Cole said the course would be in good shape for today's match. The new pro is widening the fairways and cutting the rough over the entire layout.

Golf Gossip
from the Municipal Links

Early morning golfers at the Municipal club are H. K. Touchstone, president of the Lakeside Country club; Dr. T. A. Brulte and Milo Mattinson.

Monday it threatened rain all day and the course was flooded from Sunday's downpour but it didn't stop Dr. Brulte, Mattinson or Kenneth Holt.

Wesley Shafto has begun working on his game in preparation for the state tournament at New Orleans next month. The Monroe champion is expected to make a strong bid for the state crown.

Out-of-town golfers who played over the Municipal course last week were B. Bailey, Baton Rouge; T. L. Gelis, Jackson, Miss.; J. A. Cason and Tobe Jordan, Tallulah; Jim Shamblin, Holly Ridge; G. B. Jacobson, New York City; Sam Narrow, Alexandria; P. J. Goodnight and Miss Buffington, Clarks.

Despite the fact that the course was soggy from the recent rains, Tobe Jordan of Tallulah was hitting his tee shots for 250 to 275 yards. Jordan has played only eight months and Winnie Cole, new Muny pro, believes he will be a contender for the state championship within a couple of years. He has excellent rythm and timing, says Cole.

Jimmy McGonnigal, of Dallas, stopped at the Muny course for a practice round Friday. McGonnigal will play in an exhibition match at New Orleans today. Cole prevailed upon him to return through Monroe and the Dallas expert has promised to give free lessons to the ladies Wednesday afternoon. For appointments, Cole may be called at phone 2716.

OMAHA REPEATS HIS DERBY VICTORY IN PREAKNES

Firethorn Runs Second At Pimlico With Psychic Bid Third

BALTIMORE, May 11.—(AP)—William Woodward's Omaha, winner of the Kentucky Derby, today defeated seven other 3-year-olds in the 45th running of the Preakness.

Walter M. Jefford's Firethorn was second and Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Psychic Bid third.

Taking the lead coming out of the backstretch, Omaha rolled home six lengths clear of Firethorn with Psychic Bid another six lengths to the rear. Mantagna was fourth while Nellie Flag was next to the last far back of the flying Woodward colt. Guided by Willie (Smoky) Saunders, Omaha ran much the same type of a race as he did in taking the Derby a week ago.

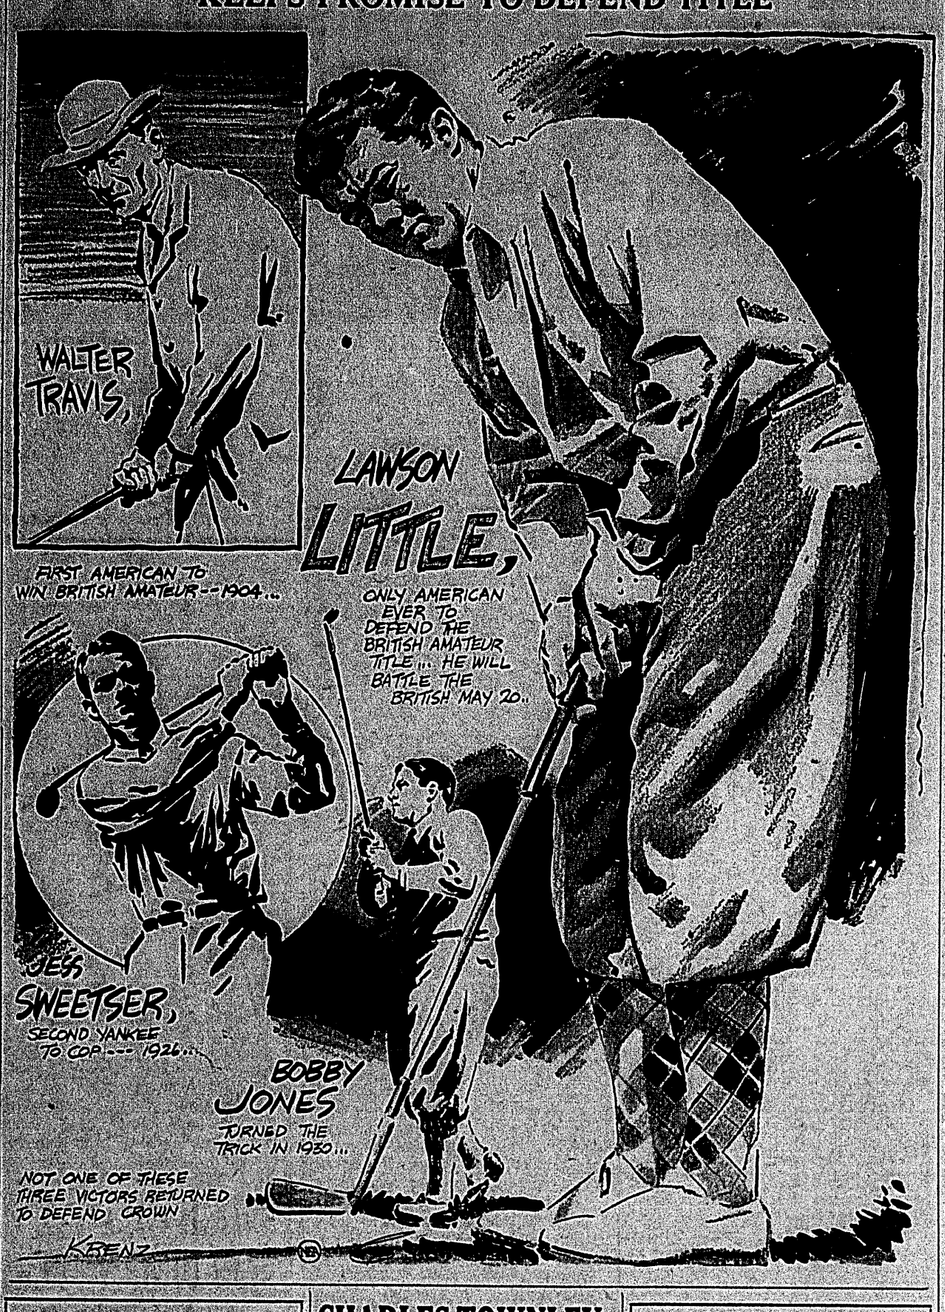

He was away in the fifth place but quickly moved into a contending position. As he turned into the backstretch with Brannon setting the pace, he still was some 10 lengths back. But then he began to run and collared the leaders turning out of the backstretch. From there on it was merely a gallop for the son of Gallant Fox, which won both the derby and Preakness in 1930.

Omaha was clocked in 1.58 2-5 for the one and three-sixteenths miles. His time was only one-fifth of a second slower than the race record set by High Quest in winning the event last year.

The record crowd of 40,000 made Omaha the odds-on choice, a $2 win ticket returning $3.90. Firethorn, running coupled with Commonwealth paid $3.40 to place while a $2 ticket on Psychic Bid was worth $4.60.

Back of the four leaders in order finished Commonwealth, Brannon, Nellie Flag and Boxthorn, which again disappointed his owner, E. R. Bradley.

L. S. U. TRACKMEN WHIP TULANE BY LOPSIDED SCORE

No Marks Threatened As Tigers Walk Off With Dual Meet, 88-29

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Louisiana State university romped to an expected lop-sided victory over Tulane university here today in their annual dual track meet, 88 to 29, before several thousand fans.

Herman Neugass, Tulane's star sprinter, and Glenn "Slats" Hardin, the Tigers' ace hurdle and quarter-mile runner, failed to extend themselves in their specialties and there was not a single outstanding mark during the entire afternoon.

Neugass, who has endangered the world dash marks this spring, breezed through a mediocre 100 yards in 10.2 seconds and 22.2 seconds in the 220-yard dash.

Hardin ran a lazy quarter-mile in 51.2 seconds and registered a victory of 24.5 seconds in the low hurdles.

Louisiana State won both first and second places in eight of the 15 events and forfeited the mile relay event to Tulane's Greenies. H. K. Smith was the only Tulane athlete to win a first place besides Neugass' two firsts in the dashes. Smith beat out Roberts, of L. S. U., in the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.2 seconds.

Probably the best mark of the day was Bryan's victory for L. S. U., in the pole vault at 13 feet. Perez and Davis, both of Tulane, tied for second.

The results:

Mile run—Robinson (L. S. U.) Godbold (L. S. U.). Time 4:35.3.

Shot put—Crass (L. S. U.) Lester (L. S. U.). Distance 45 feet, 11 inches.

Quarter mile—Hardin (L. S. U.) Black (L. S. U.). Time :51.2.

Half mile—Murphy (L. S. U.) Black (L. S. U.). Time 2:05.2.

220-yard dash—Neugass (Tulane) Saxon (L. S. U.). Time :22.2.

Javelin—Stephens (L. S. U.) Simons (Tulane). Distance 192 feet, 4 inches.

Two mile—Sanders (L. S. U.) Robinson (L. S. U.). Time 10:03.2.

Broad jump—Sullivan (L. S. U.) Bryan (L. S. U.). Distance 23 feet, 1-4 inch.

100-yard dash—Neugass (Tulane) Saxon (L. S. U.). Time 10.2 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Smith (Tulane) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time :15.2.

Discus—Crass (L. S. U.) Freese (Tulane). Distance 132 feet, 8 inches.

High jump—Kent (L. S. U.) Newell (L. S. U.) and Blair (L. S. U.) all tied for first at five feet, 10 inches.

220-yard low hurdles—Hardin (L. S. U.) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time :24.5.

Mile relay—Won by Tulane (L. S. U. forfeited).

Special exhibition 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay—Won by team composed of Kohl (Tulane) Flower (Fortier high, New Orleans) Carsen (Tulane) Roberts (L. S. U.). Time 1:05.2.

HE MAKES IT TWO STRAIGHT

Omaha, gallant son of Gallant Fox, made it two in a row yesterday when he won the rich Preakness at Pimlico yesterday as he pleased. The great Woodward colt defeated for the second time several of his rivals which he outdistanced in the Kentucky Derby a week ago.

S. I. A. A. MEET WON BY S. L. I. WITH 75 POINTS

Eight Varsity Records Broken In Track Events At Pineville

ALEXANDRIA, La., May 11.—(AP)—Southwestern Louisiana institute of Lafayette amassed a total of 75 points to carry off top honors in the varsity section of the district S. I. A. A. track and field meet in Pineville this afternoon. Louisiana college was second with 33 1-2 points.

Eight varsity records fell before the onslaught of about 100 athletes from six colleges in the district. Other varsity teams finished as follows: Louisiana Normal 16; Mississippi college 13; Loyola of New Orleans 13 1-2; Louisiana Tech 11.

In the freshmen section, Louisiana college nosed out Loyola, running up 42 1-3 points to 38 for the New Orleans school. Other freshmen teams finished as follows:

S. L. I., 30 1-3; Normal 23 1-3; La. Tech 6; Centenary of Shreveport 2.

Four high school relay events were run with Bolton high school of Alexandria running up 18 points. Belzoni, Miss., was second with 9 points. Moreauville and LeCompte scored 5 each.

Southwestern athletes turned in four of the eight new records while Louisiana college stars turned in three and Loyola one.

Roy of Loyola cleared the bar at 14 feet to set a new mark in the pole vault. He bettered his old record of 13 feet and 1 inch set in 1934.

Thus the Central school youngster has the honor of becoming the first marble champion. Of course, Charles will be battling for further laurels, with the grand prize of a week's vacation at Gulfport his major objective. He'll now await his next opponent in the district tourney and according to Miss Beverly Faunt Le Roy, the tourney supervisor at Central, her protege will give 'em a stiff fight all the way down the line.

Meanwhile, other schools are showing plenty of activity. B. R. Gunn, principal of Gilbert high school, writes the marble editor that Gilbert will be heard from in a big way before long.

"The marble tournament at Gilbert high school is in its last stages," Mr. Gunn says. "We have four boys to fight it out to represent the school. Up to the present time, Houghton Broadway and McDonald Scott have shown the best ability in knocking the marbles from the ring. Each one is in the fifth grade.

"In the elimination contest during the first stages the girls were no match for the boys and were eliminated in a hurry. All contestants are proud of the marbles and pin or button that was given them.

That's a fine report, Mr. Gunn, and the marble editor will be waiting to hear the outcome of your final match.

And J. W. Ruttledge, tourney supervisor at Lapine school, says that the eliminations there are progressing nicey, despite the recent rains, which slowed up the progress. There were originally 34 entrants at Lapine, 23 boys and 11 girls. Donald Sims and R. W. Caples are boys who have won important matches. No girls' matches have been held yet.

"We are getting in high now that the rains have ceased," Mr. Ruttledge said, "and hope to have all contests finished on time."

Well, if you don't finish by the 15th, Mr. Ruttledge, we'll certainly wait on you.

With the reports of the finals beginning to come in, the marble editor is getting all steamed up himself. We'd like to watch one of these school championship matches. And if some school supervisor will invite us, we'll come out and 'cover' one of the finals. We can't go to all of 'em but we'll accept the first invitation we receive. How about it?

Olin Asks Cancellation Of Bout With Rosenbloom

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 11.—(AP)—Bob Olin, light heavyweight champion, today begged off from his scheduled fight next Tuesday with Maxie Rosenbloom, from whom he won the title.

Olin told Promoter Lou Daro of Olympic auditorium he had gall bladder trouble. He asked an outright cancellation instead of a postponement so he could return to New York.

Golf Gossip

from the Municipal Links

Early morning golfers at the Municipal club are H. K. Touchstone, president of the Lakeside Country club; Dr. T. A. Brulte and Milo Mattinson.

Monday it threatened rain all day and the course was flooded from Sunday's downpour but it didn't stop Dr. Brulte, Mattinson or Kenneth Holt.

Wesley Shafto has begun working on his game in preparation for the state tournament at New Orleans next month. The Monroe champion is expected to make a strong bid for the state crown.

Out-of-town golfers who played over the Municipal course last week were B. Bailey, Baton Rouge; T. L. Gaills, Jackson, Miss.; J. A. Cason and Tobe Jordan, Tallulah; Jim Shamblin, Holly Ridge; G. B. Jacobson, New York City; Sam Norcom, Alexandria; P. J. Goodnight and Miss Buffington, Clarks.

Despite the fact that the course was soggy from the recent rains, Tobe Jordan of Tallulah was hitting his tee shots for 250 to 275 yards. Jordan has played only eight months and Winnie Cole, new Muny pro, believes he will be a contender for the state championship within a couple of years. He has excellent rythm and timing, says Cole.

Jimmy McGonnigal, of Dallas, stopped at the Muny course for a practice round Friday. McGonnigal will play in an exhibition match at New Orleans today. Cole prevailed upon him to return through Monroe and the Dallas expert has promised to give free lessons to the ladies Wednesday afternoon. For appointments, Cole may be called at those 815.

RUSTON GOLFERS PLAY HERE TODAY

Municipal Club Plays Host To Visiting Team In First Match

Golfers of the Municipal club will play their first inter-city match of the season today when they tackle the strong Ruston Country club in a battle over the Muncipal links.

It also will be the first match local golfers have played since Winnie Cole, new club professional, took charge of the Muny layout a couple of weeks ago.

Cole said last night that approximately 25 golfers from Ruston would make the trip here today. Heading the list are Jim Cole, Louisiana Tech's No. 1 player, who recently set a new course record at Ruston, and D. G. Armstrong, coach of the Tech team. Several other members of the Tech squad also are expected to participate in today's match.

Although Cole last night had not completed the list of local golfers who will face the Rustonites, he said some of the city's best golfers will tee off for the Muny club.

Cole said the course would be in good shape for today's match. The new pro is widening the fairways and cutting the rough over the entire layout.

STECHER, ELITCH BOOKED FOR MAIN EVENT BOUT

SCISSORS EXPERT WILL MEET ROUGH GREEK WEDNESDAY

Long-Legged Nebraskan Fully Recovered From Recent Injury

... Stecher, the clever Nebraskan who was injured in his match with Ernest Kelly here a week and a half ago, has fully recovered and will return to the stadium Wednesday night to carry on his local campaign against Nick Elitch, the Greek showman, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced yesterday. The bout will be the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium.

Stecher received a back injury when he hurtled through the ropes in the third fall of his spectacular match with Kelly. Each had won a fall and the long-legged Nebraskan apparently had the better of Kelly in the deciding stanza when the accident occurred. Several spectators lifted Stecher back into the ring but it was apparent that he was hurt, and Kelly had no trouble covering him for the fall. Stecher later was taken to the Clinic, where he received treatment for the injury.

Bruscato has lined up quite a program for the Wednesday show. Besides the main event and the usual semi-final bout, the promoter will present a wrestling royal between nine members of the Monroe Merchants baseball squad, with a cash prize of $35 going to the winner, Bruscato said. Principals have not been selected but it is expected that the huskiest diamond athletes on the squad will be picked to enter the ring. It will be the first time a wrestling royal has ever been staged here.

Bruscato said last night that he had not signed his two wrestlers for Wednesday's semi-final match.

Stecher will get a real test in his bout with Elitch. The Greek, besides being thoroughly versed in the rougher side of modern wrestling, is a clever performer who knows plenty of holds. He's tricky and fast, and the younger Stecher may find himself at a disadvantage at the start.

However, Stecher's scissor holds, made unusually effective by a pair of long legs, are likely to give Elitch plenty of trouble. The Nebraskan, who learned his business under the tutelage of his famous uncle, the former Champion Joe Stecher, is a youngster who has come along rapidly since entering the mat game and his record already includes victories over some of the better known heavyweights.

Bruscato said yesterday that he will attempt to bring Stecher and Kelly again in the local ring within the next couple of weeks. The promoter wanted to throw Stecher in there with Elitch first and then give him another crack at the popular Tennesseean.

Both bouts will be the usual best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour. Officials who will handle the program have not been selected.

MAYOR INVITED TO ATTEND HORSE SHOW

Mayor Arnold Bernstein has received a letter from the Young Women's Christian association of Shreveport inviting him to attend the Society Week-End Horse show, to be held in Shreveport May 17-18. Mrs. Patrick J. White of the Y. W. C. A. will serve as general chairman and her organization will be assisted in presenting the show by the Shreveport Riding and Polo club.

The program for the show will include a polo game at 3 p.m. Friday between New Orleans and Shreveport teams; horse show and pageant in the coliseum at the fair grounds Friday night at 8 o'clock; a night club program at the pavilion at the fair grounds at 11 o'clock Friday night; a horse show and pageant at the fair grounds at 8 o'clock Saturday night, and a horse show ball at the country club at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

A part of the letter to Mayor Bernstein was as follows:

"We have prepared an elaborate program of entertainment and feel it a privilege to invite you to share it as our guest. We would appreciate your interesting your good friends and townspeople in this week-end gaiety and we extend each of your a cordial welcome."

UNIVERSITY, Ala., May 11.—(AP)—Five University of Alabama football players who helped the Crimson Tide down Stanford in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day are carrying on in the school's quest for further athletic laurels on the baseball diamond.

Alabama's team, with the aid of this quintet and Lefty Lee Rodgers, a brilliant young hurler who didn't play football but who has registered victories in his first seven starts, is well on its way to its second southeastern conference baseball crown.

One of the outstanding gridders who has donned baseball togs and is looking forward to entering professional ranks upon finishing school, is Don Hutson, the Arkansas speedster who was on the receiving end of many spectacular forward passes from the great Millard (Dixie) Howell.

Hutson performs in left field and is the Tide's leadoff man. He is a consistent hitter and one of the greatest outfielders ever to wear the Crimson and White. Howell left college this spring to join the Detroit Tigers, and has been farmed out to Birmingham of the Southern association. Hutson hopes for a tryout with a major league club next year.

Two of the five gridders on the team were regulars, but the other three saw action in the Rose Bowl game and are counted on as probable first string players next fall.

Hutson was selected widely as an all-America end because of his stellar performances in catching passes. He was a good defensive player. Jim Whatley, the other regular, was stationed at tackle and has another year for football. He is the Tide's first baseman.

Hillman Walker, a brother of Gerald, the Detroit outfielder, and of Hubbie, Toledo outfielder, was a substitute end on the grid team, but plays centerfield regularly and is one of Alabama's leading hitters, having a mark around .325.

Ben McLeod and Young Boozer, both substitute halfbacks on the 1934 championship eleven, are regulars on the baseball team. McLeod is a third baseman, while Boozer plays right field.

YANKS TRIM INDIANS

CLEVELAND, May 11.—(AP)—Tony Lazzeri, newly advanced to the post of cleanup hitter for the Yankees, smashed out two home runs today to give the Yankees a 10-to-4 victory over the Indians and shove Cleveland down into second place in the American league standing. The victory, combined with Cleveland's defeat by the New York Yankees, returned the White Sox to first place.

LOUISVILLE, May 11. — Chance Sun's withdrawal from the Kentucky Derby was another striking example of the uncertainty of winter books for everybody but the bookmakers.

Pay or play means that you pay even if your horse doesn't get to the post. In the case of Chance Sun, those who made the white-faced son of Chance Shot the winter book favorite on the strength of his winning the rich Belmont Futurity in the mud, paid to the extent of something like $300,000.

The advantage of wagering on an animal in winter books presumably rests in the better price. Yet the odds seldom are fair in face of all the risk.

Chance Sun was quoted at 12-to-1 even before he was nominated, and at 8-to-1 when he was nominated. The price then should have been 20-to-1. It was dropped to 4-to-1 when Joseph E. Widener and his trainer, Pete Coyne, announced that the colt had come to hand very well.

One of the severest jolts suffered by winter book players in connection with a Kentucky Derby was dealt them a week before Burgoo King was booted to Colonel Edward Riley Bradley's third victory in the big number in the Bluegrass in 1932.

About $500,000 laid on what had been a flying filly the year before had beaten the odds down to 5-to-1 when Top Flight took a bid licking and was scratched.

Equipoise's Illness Costs Players Another $500,000

It was the second year in succession that a C. V. Whitney nominee cost winter book players a half million, Equipoise having taken sick the week of the previous derby with the price on him to prevail over Twenty Grand and Mate down to 3-to-1.

Players lost a considerable amount but were saved much more when Sarazen and Wise Counsellor were removed from the field a month before the Derby that went to brave little Black Gold in 1924.

Approximately $300,000 of winter book players' coin went out the window when Golden Broom broke down a fortnight before the running of the derby that was captured by Paul Jones in 1920.

Samuel D. Riddle could have had that derby for the nominating and starting fees. All he had in the way of a 3-year-old was Man o' War. But Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, who sent Commonwealth to the post this year and who owned Golden Broom, happens to be Riddle's daughter. Riddle felt that she could win the derby with Golden Broom, and wanted to see her do it, so did not nominate Man o' War.

Winter book players dropped another $300,000 or so when Sun Briar went lame a couple of weeks before the derby of 1918. That didn't deter Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Sun Briar, however. He purchased Exterminator at the suggestion of his trainer, and Old Bones came down in front.

Pressed for Time, Coyne Drives Chance Sun Too Hard

Coyne gave Chance Sun plenty of time to get his growth, but it seems that the bad break in the weather caused him to overwork the brown and beautifully marked colt.

It takes 60 days or longer for a thoroughbred to get his legs, and Coyne was faced with the problem of sharpening up Chance Sun in a month. The horse was all right in minor breezes, but it was something else again when it was time to tighten up. Chance Sun simply was too tired to run.

A lot of things can happen to a horse between December, when the winter books are opened, and May, which the players so frequently learn to their sorrow. But they all come back for more. The lure of catching a good thing at a fat price is mighty attractive bait.

T. C. U. Man Will Head Southwest Conference

COLLEGE STATION, May 11.—(AP)—Dr. E. W. McDiarmid of Texas Christian university was elected president of the Southwest conference at a meeting today of faculty representatives of the schools.

Dr. McDiarmid had been acting president since the resignation of Dr. D. A. Penick of the University of Texas last December.

Dr. W. E. Metzenthin of the University of Texas was elected vice-president to succeed McDiarmid and J. T. McCants, Rice institute, was re-elected secretary.

The representatives approved the proposal of Coach Andrew Coakley, Columbia university, to have a collegiate baseball world's series between champions of leading conferences.

Action was postponed on a proposal of the Athletic Directors and Business Managers' association to increase the basketball schedule from 12 to 18 games.

No action was taken on a plan to allow intercollegiate competition between championship intramural teams, or on the question of radio broadcasts of football games.

Chattanooga Pilot Makes Peace With Owner Engel

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 11.—(AP)—Mule Shirley, very penitent, returned to Chattanooga today, won forgiveness from President Joe Engel and was reappointed manager of the Southern association Lookouts.

The big skipper had been fired Wednesday night for infraction of his own training rules at New Orleans. Shirley came to Chattanooga today from Birmingham and conferred with Engel. "I know I'm fired, but I wanted to let you know how sorry I was for the whole matter," the Muleman said.

That fixed everything up so well that Engel proclaimed next Monday "Shirley day." The team returns home then to mix with Atlanta.

After the conference Shirley left for Birmingham, where he took charge of the club this afternoon.

"I made a big mistake," he confided to reporters just before leaving, "but I hope to be able to make it up to my friends who have stood by me this time."

At the time his services were dispensed with, Shirley was topping the association's hitters.

DIZZY WINS, PAUL LOSES

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP)—One half of the Dean boys of St. Louis was successful today, while the other half took a beating as the Cardinals and Phillies split a doubleheader.

Jerome (Dizzy) turned in a steady hurling performance as his mates hammered out 17 hits and the Cards won the opener 15 to 6. The other Dean, Paul (Daffy) fared not so well, and, despite Ducky Medwick's homer, took a 5 to 2 lacing in the nightcap.

Two home runs by Jimmy Collins featured the Cards' attack in the opener and made it easy for Dizzy Dean. In the second game, the Phils turned on Daffy in the fifth and pushed over three runs that settled the issue.

CUBS WALLOP BRAVES

BOSTON, May 11.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs battered a Boston pitching quintet for 18 hits today to give Lefty Larry French, who failed to go the distance, his first victory of the season 14-7.

French weakened in the eighth when, with the Cubs leading 13-4, five Tribesmen belted him for successive singles in a three-run rally. Charley Root was rushed to the rescue and put down the Boston uprising without yielding a hit.

Chuck Klein drove out his second homer of the season.

LEGION JUNIORS DEFEAT PELICANS

Youngsters Pound Two Hurlers For 13 Hits To Win 9-3 Victory

Monroe's American Legion junior baseball team got off to a winning start yesterday when they defeated the Louisiana Training institute Pelicans, 9 to 3, at the institute diamond.

Stroud hurled for the Juniors and although he allowed nine hits, he kept them well scattered. It was the first game of the season for the legion club and they were not "bearing down" particularly.

The Juniors got to Henry and Harrington, L. T. I. hurlers, for 13 safeties. R. Ricks, Fontana, Stron, Inzina, Takewell and Stroud each getting two hits. Dedman and Haffey led the Pelican attack with two safeties each. Ricks hit two home runs and Takewall got one.

L. T. I. scored first, making one run in the second, but the Juniors went ahead with two tallies in the first of the third. After the Pelicans tied it up with a run in their half of the inning, the legion club scored twice in the fourth and they were never headed.

The Juniors turned in two double plays as fielding features.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

In the correct golf stroke the left arm becomes fully extended soon after the backswing gets under way. The arc of the swing being definitely limited by the effective length of the left arm, the complete extension of this member assures the broad sweep of the swing which means so much in power. Any shortening of the left arm, by bending at the elbow, must contract the arc of the swing and reduce the space in which speed may be built up on the way down.

But since golf is a two-handed game, what should the right arm be doing this while?

It is easy to say, "Keep it out," and in a sense this is good advice. That is, to try to keep it out. For the normal right-handed golfer is likely to suffer more from what he does with his right hand than from what he omits to do with it. By trying to keep it subdued he has his chance to use it properly.

Please note that in the correct method illustration A, the right arm above the elbow is still touching lightly against the side when the backswing has been more than half completed. It should never be clamped tightly against the ribs as in figure B nor allowed to move very far away from the side, as the wrong method C illustrates. The former mistake results in a swing that is cramped and far too flat, while the latter error shuts the face and makes impossible a true swing from the inside.

Keep Right Relaxed

The best means of handling the right is by maintaining it completely relaxed during the address and the early stages of the backswing. This is not difficult to do if one thinks of a light grip and of pushing the club back with the left side. At the point illustrated in A, the right hand has begun to render assistance in raising the club toward its top position but when it started to do so the left arm had already been pushed out to its full extension and the hip-turn had gotten nicely under way. In no case should the right hand be allowed to pick the club up from its first location behind the ball.

Some instructors use the expression, "Let the right elbow ride the right hip." This is quite a good way of putting it as long as one understands that this does not mean to hug the arm close. The perfectly relaxed right arm, accompanied by a correct body turn, will "ride" the right hip naturally and comfortably as the turn progresses.

When should you use an open stance? When a closed stance? Bobby Jones tells you in one of his latest leaflets: "Closed Stance vs. Open Stance." Write for this leaflet now, enclosing a stamped three-cent self-addressed envelope for reply.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers' questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World.

STECHER, ELITCH BOOKED FOR MAIN EVENT BOUT

SCISSORS EXPERT WILL MEET ROUGH GREEK WEDNESDAY

Long-Legged Nebraskan Fully Recovered From Recent Injury

Stecher, the clever Nebraskan who was injured in his match with Ernest Kelly here a week and a half ago, has fully recovered and will return to the stadium Wednesday night to carry on his local campaign against Nick Elitch, the Greek showman, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced yesterday. The bout will be the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium.

Stecher received a back injury when he hurtled through the ropes in the third fall of his spectacular match with Kelly. Each had won a fall and the long-legged Nebraskan apparently had the better of Kelly in the deciding stanza when the accident occurred. Several spectators lifted Stecher back into the ring but it was apparent that he was hurt, and Kelly had no trouble covering him for the fall. Stecher later was taken to the Clinic, where he received treatment for the injury.

Bruscato has lined up quite a program for the Wednesday show. Besides the main event and the usual semi-final bout, the promoter will present a wrestling royal between nine members of the Monroe Merchants baseball squad, with a cash prize of $35 going to the winner, Bruscato said. Principals have not been selected but it is expected that the huskiest diamond athletes on the squad will be picked to enter the ring. It will be the first time a wrestling royal has ever been staged here.

Bruscato said last night that he had not signed his two wrestlers for Wednesday's semi-final match.

Stecher will get a real test in his bout with Elitch. The Greek, besides being thoroughly versed in the rougher side of modern wrestling, is a clever performer who knows plenty of holds. He's tricky and fast, and the younger Stecher may find himself at a disadvantage at the start.

However, Stecher's scissor holds, made unusually effective by a pair of long legs, are likely to give Elitch plenty of trouble. The Nebraskan, who learned his business under the tutelage of his famous uncle, the former Champion Joe Stecher, is a youngster who has come along rapidly since entering the mat game and his record already includes victories over some of the better known heavyweights.

Bruscato said yesterday that he will attempt to bring Stecher and Kelly again in the local ring within the next couple of weeks. The promoter wanted to throw Stecher in there with Elitch first and then give him another crack at the popular Tennessean.

Both bouts will be the usual best two out of three falls, with a two-hour time limit on the main event and the semi-final limited to one hour. Officials who will handle the program have not been selected.

MAYOR INVITED TO ATTEND HORSE SHOW

Mayor Arnold Bernstein has received a letter from the Young Women's Christian association of Shreveport inviting him to attend the Society Week-End Horse show, to be held in Shreveport May 17-18. Mrs. Patrick J. White of the Y. W. C. A. will serve as general chairman and her organization will be assisted in presenting the show by the Shreveport Riding and Polo club.

The program for the show will include a polo game at 3 p.m. Friday between New Orleans and Shreveport teams; horse show and pageant in the coliseum at the fair grounds Friday night at 8 o'clock; a night club program at the pavilion at the fair grounds at 11 o'clock Friday night; a horse show and pageant at the fair grounds at 8 o'clock Saturday night, and a horse show ball at the country club at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

A part of the letter to Mayor Bernstein was as follows:

"We have prepared an elaborate program of entertainment and feel it a privilege to invite you to share it as our guest. We would appreciate your interesting your good friends and townspeople in this week-end gaiety and we extend each of your a cordial welcome."

UNIVERSITY, Ala., May 11.—(AP)—Five University of Alabama football players who helped the Crimson Tide down Stanford in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day are carrying on in the school's quest for further athletic laurels on the baseball diamond.

Alabama's team, with the aid of this quintet and Lefty Lee Rodgers, a brilliant young hurler who didn't play football but who has registered victories in his first seven starts, is well on its way to its second southeastern conference baseball crown.

One of the outstanding gridders who has donned baseball togs and is looking forward to entering professional ranks upon finishing school, is Don Hutson, the Arkansas speedster who was on the receiving end of many spectacular forward passes from the great Millard (Dixie) Howell.

Hutson performs in left field and is the Tide's leadoff man. He is a consistent hitter and one of the greatest outfielders ever to wear the Crimson and White. Howell left college this spring to join the Detroit Tigers, and has been farmed out to Birmingham of the Southern association. Hutson hopes for a tryout with a major league club next year.

Two of the five gridders on the team were regulars, but the other three saw action in the Rose Bowl game and are counted on as probable first string players next fall.

Hutson was selected widely as an all-America end because of his stellar performances in catching passes. He was a good defensive player. Jim Whatley, the other regular, was stationed at tackle and has another year for football. He is the Tide's first baseman.

Hillman Walker, a brother of Gerald, the Detroit outfielder, and of Hubbie, Toledo outfielder, was a substitute end on the grid team, but plays centerfield regularly and is one of Alabama's leading hitters, having a mark around .325.

Ben McLeod and Young Boozer, both substitute halfbacks on the 1934 championship eleven, are regulars on the baseball team. McLeod is a third baseman, while Boozer plays right field.

DIZZY WINS, PAUL LOSES

PHILADELPHIA, May 11.—(AP)—One half of the Dean boys of St. Louis was successful today, while the other half took a beating as the Cardinals and Phillies split a doubleheader.

Jerome (Dizzy) turned in a steady hurling performance as his mates hammered out 17 hits and the Cards won the opener 15 to 6. The other Dean, Paul (Daffy) fared not so well, and, despite Ducky Medwick's homer, took a 5 to 2 lacing in the nightcap.

Two home runs by Jimmy Collins featured the Cards' attack in the opener and made it easy for Dizzy Dean. In the second game, the Phils turned on Daffy in the fifth and pushed over three runs that settled the issue.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

In the correct golf stroke the left arm becomes fully extended soon after the backswing gets under way. The arc of the swing being definitely limited by the effective length of the left arm, the complete extension of this member assures the broad sweep of the swing which means so much in power. Any shortening of the left arm, by bending at the elbow, must contract the arc of the swing and reduce the space in which speed may be built up on the way down.

But since golf is a two-handed game, what should the right arm be doing this while?

It is easy to say, "Keep it out," and in a sense this is good advice. That is, to try to keep it out. For the normal right-handed golfer is likely to suffer more from what he does with his right hand than from what he omits to do with it. By trying to keep it subdued he has his chance to use it properly.

Please note that in the correct method illustration A, the right arm above the elbow is still touching lightly against the side when the backswing has been more than half completed. It should never be clamped tightly against the ribs as in figure B nor allowed to move very far away from the side, as the wrong method C illustrates. The former mistake results in a swing that is cramped and far too flat, while the latter error shuts the face and makes impossible a true swing from the inside.

Keep Right Relaxed

The best means of handling the right is by maintaining it completely relaxed during the address and the early stages of the backswing. This is not difficult to do if one thinks of a light grip and of pushing the club back with the left side. At the point illustrated in A, the right hand has begun to render assistance in raising the club toward its top position but when it started to do so the left arm had already been pushed out to its full extension and the hip-turn had gotten nicely under way. In no case should the right hand be allowed to pick the club up from its first location behind the ball.

Some instructors use the expression, "Let the right elbow ride the right hip." This is quite a good way of putting it as long as one understands that this does not mean to hug the arm close. The perfectly relaxed right arm, accompanied by a correct body turn, will "ride" the right hip naturally and comfortably as the turn progresses.

When should you use an open stance? When a closed stance? Bobby Jones tells you in one of his latest leaflets: "Closed Stance vs. Open Stance." Write for this leaflet now, enclosing a stamped three-cent self-addressed envelope for reply.

While Bobby Jones will be glad to answer as many readers' questions in this column as possible, it will be impossible for him to answer letters personally. Write your problems to him care of Monroe Morning World.

HARDIN EXPECTED TO SET NEW MARK IN LOW HURDLES

L. S. U. Star To Be Watched In Conference Meet At Birmingham

BATON ROUGE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Glenn "Slats" Hardin, Louisiana State University's world champion 400-meters hurdler, and national collegiate titleholder in the 440-yard dash and the 220-yards low hurdles, will break the world record for the 220-yard low sticks in the Southeastern conference championship track and field meet to be held in Birmingham, Ala., May 17 and 18.

That is the consensus of opinion among observers and experts who saw Hardin run the 200-meters low hurdles in 22.4 seconds, six-tenths of a second faster than they ever before were run by a human, in the Southern A. A. U. championships here on May 4.

Hardin's record-breaking time in the S. A. A. U. meet probably will not stand, since it agreed that a wind may have aided "Slats" in literally flying over the low sticks in 22.4. However, all observers and experts are agreed that on May 4 Hardin would have set a new world mark even if the wind had been against him instead of with him as it was.

"Along about next Saturday," said Coach Moore, of L. S. U., today, "Hardin will be ready for another record-breaking performance in the low hurdles. I figure that spectators at the Birmingham meet will see Hardin run the lows faster than any human ever has run them."

L. S. U. will have a strong team in the Southeastern conference meet and is favored to win the meet, which the Tigers took last year by scoring a team total of 74 1-6 points against 34 1-3 for the nearest opponent, Auburn. Besides Hardin, Coach Moore will enter John Sanders, two miler; Ted O'Neil, 880, and Nathan "Buddy" Blair, javelin thrower, all of whom are figured to win their specialties. Sanders may run both mile and two-mile races this year. He is defending champion in the two-mile run, which he won last year in 9:51.5. Other Tigers who are defending champions are Hardin and Blair. Hardin last year took the 440-yards dash in 46.8 and the low hurdles in 23.4. Blair won the javelin with a hurl of 199 feet 2 3-4 inches.

L. S. U.'s mile relay combination of Hardin, O'Neil, Clabo Roberts and E. A. Black, is favored to win the mile relay in the conference meet, and probably will better by about eight seconds the 3:22.6 recorded by the 1934 Tiger team in winning the conference championship in this event.

Kent, high jumper; Saxon, sprinter, Sullivan, broad jumper; Crass and Lester, weight men; Arthur Stevens, javelin; Roberts, high hurdler; Bryan, pole vaulter, and Newell, broad jumper and pole vaulter, are among the Tigers who will compete at Birmingham.

YANKS TRIM INDIANS

CLEVELAND, May 11.—(AP)—Tony Lazzeri, newly advanced to the post of cleanup hitter for the Yankees, smashed out two home runs today to give the Yankees a 10-to-4 victory over the Indians and shove Cleveland down into second place in the American league standing. The victory, combined with Cleveland's defeat by the New York Yankees, returned the White Sox to first place.

BROWNS DOWN A'S

ST. LOUIS, May 11.—(AP)—Jack Knott, who usually appears in a relief role, made his second start of the season today and pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 4-to-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics.

It was the Browns' second victory in 13 games, and ended a three-game series.

By Harry Grayson

LOUISVILLE, May 11. — Chance Sun's withdrawal from the Kentucky Derby was another striking example of the uncertainty of winter books for everybody but the bookmakers.

Pay or play means that you pay even if your horse doesn't get to the post. In the case of Chance Sun, those who made the white-faced son of Chance Shot the winter book favorite on the strength of his winning the rich Belmont Futurity in the mud, paid to the extent of something like $300,000.

The advantage of wagering on an animal in winter books presumably rests in the better price. Yet the odds seldom are fair in face of all the risk.

Chance Sun was quoted at 12-to-1 even before he was nominated, and at 8-to-1 when he was nominated. The price then should have been 20-to-1. It was dropped to 4-to-1 when Joseph E. Widener and his trainer, Pete Coyne, announced that the colt had come to hand very well.

One of the severest jolts suffered by winter book players in connection with a Kentucky Derby was dealt them a week before Burgoo King was booted to Colonel Edward Riley Bradley's third victory in the big number in the Bluegrass in 1932.

About $500,000 laid on what had been a flying filly the year before had beaten the odds down to 5-to-1 when Top Flight took a bid licking and was scratched.

Equipoise's Illness Costs Players Another $500,000

It was the second year in succession that a C. V. Whitney nominee cost winter book players a half million, Equipoise having taken sick the week of the previous derby with the price on him to prevail over Twenty Grand and Mate down to 3-to-1.

Players lost a considerable amount but were saved much more when Sarazen and Wise Counsellor were removed from the field a month before the Derby that went to brave little Black Gold in 1924.

Approximately $300,000 of winter book players' coin went out the window when Golden Broom broke down a fortnight before the running of the derby that was captured by Paul Jones in 1920.

Samuel D. Riddle could have had that derby for the nominating and starting fees. All he had in the way of a 3-year-old was Man o' War. But Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords, who sent Commonwealth to the post this year and who owned Golden Broom, happens to be Riddle's daughter. Riddle felt that she could win the derby with Golden Broom, and wanted to see her do it, so did not nominate Man o' War.

Winter book players dropped another $300,000 or so when Sun Briar went lame a couple of weeks before the derby of 1918. That didn't deter Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Sun Briar, however. He purchased Exterminator at the suggestion of his trainer, and Old Bones came down in front.

Pressed for Time, Coyne Drives Chance Sun Too Hard

Coyne gave Chance Sun plenty of time to get his growth, but it seems that the bad break in the weather caused him to overwork the brown and beautifully marked colt.

It takes 60 days or longer for a thoroughbred to get his legs, and Coyne was faced with the problem of sharpening up Chance Sun in a month. The horse was all right in minor breezes, but it was something else again when it was time to tighten up. Chance Sun simply was too tired to run.

A lot of things can happen to a horse between December, when the winter books are opened, and May, which the players so frequently learn to their sorrow. But they all come back for more. The lure of catching a good thing at a fat price is mighty attractive bait.

T. C. U. Man Will Head Southwest Conference

COLLEGE STATION, May 11.—(AP)—Dr. E. W. McDiarmid of Texas Christian university was elected president of the Southwest conference at a meeting today of faculty representatives of the schools.

Dr. McDiarmid had been acting president since the resignation of Dr. D. A. Penick of the University of Texas last December.

Dr. W. E. Metzenthin of the University of Texas was elected vice-president to succeed McDiarmid and J. T. McCants, Rice Institute, was re-elected secretary.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Week-end profit taking and the usual evening up of commitments held cotton futures today within a narrow range and at the end of the two hour trading period prices were 1 to 7 points lower.

May ended at 11.86 bid, July at 11.91, October at 11.73 and December at 11.80. After two days of advancing prices in the new crop positions longs were getting out of the market and taking profits.

Business was proceeding at a slow pace. The action of the government cotton pool was still the leading factor in the market and traders were worried about making commitments until further developments.

A forecast issued today by the weather bureau indicated that the belt would come in for showers during the week-end. Further rains were indicated for the east central and east gulf states and local showers were expected in the southern plains and western gulf states.

Goods markets, both in Worth Street and Manchester, were quiet.

Exports were 9,255.

Cottton futures closed steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank.

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Preferred utility and sugar company issues, together with scattered specialties, were in demand in today's brief stock market session. Most other groups were rather listless, however, and some of the recent gainers sagged under profit taking. The close was about steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speech of Chairman Jones of the RFC, interpreted in some quarters as a prediction of the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill apparently did not renew inflationary enthusiasm in the equities list although U. S. government securities continued to point downward. Most Wall street observers were still of the opinion the Patman "fiat money" measure will be vetoed.

Grains moved up on the bullish implications of the government's crop figures, but reacted later. Cotton was subjected to some realizing. Independent trends prevailed among bonds. Foreign exchanges were mixed, with sterling higher. Imported bar silver was raised 1 cent an ounce to 73 1-8 cents.

Shares of Public Service of New Jersey, 8 per cent preferred, jumped 11 points, and the preference issues of Electric Power and Light and American Power and Light were up around 1 to 3. Peoples Gas advanced more than 3. American Crystal Sugar preferred gained about 4 and Cuban American Sugar preferred firmed 2.

Late buying in American Can pushed this issue up 2 points, and Inland Steel, Du Pont, Union Pacific and Eastman Kodak improved 1 to around 2. Most of the rails did better near the finish, but American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, U. S. Smelting and the majority of the oils were a shade up and down.

Market conjectures were centered on the president's transportation message, expected to be delivered to congress next week, and on Secretary Morgenthau's scheduled address to the country Monday.

Few anticipated any inflationary spur from the Morgenthau talk in view of the fact that the treasury has extensive financing plans which call for "sound money" psychology rather than currency expansion ideas. At the same time, it was hoped the secretary might further clarify the administration's gold and silver policies.

Hope for bigger and broader markets was indicated in the sale of two stock exchange seats for $90,000 each, an advance of $2,000 over a transfer made yesterday and $25,000 above the 16-year low established early last month.

Various sugar stocks were brightened by announcement that refinery deliveries in the first four months of this year ran substantially ahead of those in the smilar 1934 period. A cheerful note was also sounded by the National Lumber Manufacturers association which reported lumber mill shipments for the week ended May 4, were the heaviest of any week since 1931.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Stocks steady; preferred issued in demand. Bonds irregular; U. S. government ease. Curb mixed; oils improve. Foreign exchanges uneven; sterling firm. Cotton quiet; local and foreign selling. Sugar steady; trade and Wall street buying. Coffee higher; European buying.

Chicago: Wheat weak; May liquidation augmented. Corn lower; sympathy with wheat. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs nominally steady; quotable top $9.25.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP)—Faced by an unexpected new reduction of the official government estimate of the 1935 domestic winter wheat yield, grain prices went upward early today. Opening 3-4-1 1-4 higher, July 95 7-8-96, wheat afterward reacted somewhat. Corn started at 1-4 to 5-8 gain, July 81 1-2 to 5-8, and then became easier.

Sugar

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firm and unchanged today at 3.25 for spots with no sales reported.

Futures held steady. There were early advances of 1 to 2 points on buying, some of which was believed to be for western account, but this was supplied and the market eased partially near the close. Sep. NE. sold off from 2.53 to 2.54 and Mar. from 2.41 to 2.32 with the market closing at the lower level. In the No. 1 contracts closing prices were unchanged to 2 higher. Sales were 17,550 tons in the No. 3 contracts and 4,400 in the No. 1.

Refined was unchanged at 5.25 for fine granulated with a good withdrawal demand reported.

Sugar futures No. 3, closed steady, 1 higher to 1 lower. Sales 17,550 tons. May 2.49A; July 2.47B; Sep. 2.54B; Dec. 2.59B; Jan. 2.41B; Mch. 2.39B.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

Investors Syndicate Institutes Educational Campaign Here

Money Management, an educational campaign sponsored by Investors Syndicate, was explained yesterday in an interview with Mrs. R. E. Allen, a representative of the company in the Monroe district.

"The United States and Canada have the greatest educational systems in the world. Yet despite all the learned minds, careful planning and millions of dollars that have been combined in the development of these great systems, there is a surprising lack of training offered in a subject that most vitally accepts the life of every individual and the collective life of society, namely—the profitable and wise management of money," Mrs. Allen said.

"Our school systems are designed today to aid our young people to acquire the ability to make money, in order to have the comforts and to enjoy the satisfaction of life. But we have overlooked the training in the usage of money that makes these objectives possible of achievement."

"The Investors Syndicate and its affiliated companies have recognized this great need in education for some time," Mrs. Allen continued, "and have recently endeavored to determine exactly what is being done regarding the teaching of Money Management in the schools of the United States and Canada. The company believes in teaching youth how to manage money.

"We find that the percentage of financial illiterates has not decreased since the end of the 19th century. Through the enormous investment of the school system throughout the country, illiteracy in the United States has been reduced to 4.3 per cent. Yet eminent authorities say that not two per cent of the population know how to handle money, know how to manage a dollar. That's a financial illiteracy of 98 per cent.

"During the last 20 years, the people of the United States and Canada have received a gross income of approximately twelve hundred billions of dollars. If they had been properly trained in the scientific handling of money, that tremendous sum would have enabled everyone to live in comfort and happiness, despite depressions.

"We have found that the teaching of Personal Money Management is an effective means of developing character, is an effective means of cultivating mental health and stability, is a direct preventive of debt and poverty in adulthood, is a direct preventive of crime and is a help in solving the taxpayers' problems."

That, of course, is touching only the highlights of this important campaign which Investors Syndicate is waging. The district office, under the direction of John S. Fox, is endeavoring to secure the services of Dr. L. Y. Brown, eminent lecturer, to present the plan in concrete form sometime this year before the educational bodies of Monroe.

It is theoretically possible for a pigeon breeder to start with a dozen pairs of birds and have 960 squabs at the end of 12 months.

CHEVROLET CARS WELL BALANCED

Engineer Tells What Really Constitutes Balanced Automobile

What is a balanced car?

Different answers are given by different authorities.

The mechanical expert says that a balanced car is one in which every rotating part is so accurately made that, even at high speeds, it does not tend to vibrate.

The expert stylist defines the balanced car as one in which all component parts and elements are so skillfully combined as to create the effect of unity of the whole.

The chassis engineer, however, holds that the balanced car is one in which all units are so carefully designed, each in relation to the others, that the car fulfills its purpose with the highest possible degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist.

Actually, according to James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor company, which presents its cars as truly balanced automobiles, all three definitions must be met before balance can be achieved.

"Some of the costliest and most delicate machines in our plants," Mr. Crawford said recently at a Detroit gathering of Chevrolet field men, "are those precision devices that are designed for balancing parts such as the crankshaft, or the clutch assembly, or the flywheel. But even if every rotating part of the car were in absolutely perfect balance, the car might not be a 'balanced automobile'—a term in which the word 'balanced' is used in a different sense.

"This other kind of balance is to be obtained only through the exercise of judgment and skill before the car or any part of it is built. It is the result of painstaking effort around the draughting board, and of the cooperation of engineers, body designers, stylists, and others whose judgment is reflected in the product.

"As an example of this second kind of balance, consider acceleration ability and economy. Most motorists want both these qualities; otherwise our task would be easy. We could build cars of still greater efficiency (as judged by miles per gallon) by sacrificing speed and acceleration and high-gear hill-climbing ability; so, too, we could build cars of increased performance powers, but these would bring us decreased economy. Actually, in designing a car, we must balance these two opposing factors to give the motoring public both economy and performance in the ratio that the public wants.

"Fortunately, most decisions nessessary to achieve a balanced car are not in the 'problem' class, but are made on the basis of certain knowledge of requirements. For example, a car must possess the proper balance between weight and power. Our Blue Flame engine possesses a maximum horsepower of 80, and its design is such that it develops its mixmum torque (or pulling power) at low engine speeds. A chassis too light would not stand up; a chassis too heavy would be wasteful and, of course, would affect performance. So there again we must effect a balance.

"Practically every element of the car is subject to this balancing. Brakes must achieve a balance with the weight and speed of the car, springs must be in balance with the load, goar ratios must effect a balance between power and load, tire sizes must balance with car weight, steering gear ratios must balance the resistance of the tires on the road.

"A balanced car, in brief, is one that fulfills its purpose with the highest degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist. In addition, it must possess visual balance—it must look its part. All its units must combine to make the entire car, through the proper balance of running gear, radiator, fenders, hood, sheet metal, and the various elements of the body, appear as a single unit rather than as separate elements fastened to each other."

FIRE SEASON IS ALWAYS AT HAND

Downes Says Hazards Less Now But Must Be Guarded Against

Every season brings its own fire hazards. In winter, heating equipment is apt to be the worst offender. And while the hazards of spring and summer are less than those of the colder months, they should be conscientiously guarded against, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., Ouachita Bank building.

Grass fires cause much unnecessary waste each year. Property owners possessing unused fields have a habit of putting off until tomorrow the scythe-work that should be done today—and conflagration is often the result. It will be remembered that the great Berkeley, California, fire of a few years ago began in a field of uncut, dry grass.

Most communities have ordinances designed to force property owners to keep grass cut. Unfortunately, these ordinances are often unenforced or half-heartedly enforced—and when that is the case, the town itself becomes as great an offender against the public safety as the careless property owner. Every community should have adequate laws to cover this hazard—and enforce them.

Still another important dry-weather hazard has to do with forest land. Each year millions of acres of timber are destroyed, because of the carelessness or ignorance of campers and others. Every person when in wooded country should remember that living timber will burn, and once it is dry enough, can literally explode at the touch of flame.

No season of the year is free from the fire menace. Carelessness in regard to fire is always hazardous. Keep your wits about you and your eyes open for the common dangers that pave the way for conflagrations.

Mrs. Mamie Heath Wall sold to Mrs. Camille Wall, yesterday, a tract of land on the Highway 80, 100 feet by 150 feet, located in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 28, township 18 north, range 3 east, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish court. The consideration was $500.

The tune of "We Won't Go Home Until Morning" was a favorite at the time of the Crusades, and the Crusaders often made it sound through old Jerusalem.

PONTIAC DEALER ADVISES SAFETY

Harbour Cites Many Accidents In Urging Care On The Highways

With a death roll of 36,000 people in a year and 954,000 persons injured, both as the result of 882,000 accidents in which motor vehicles were involved, it is no wonder that the attention of the entire country has been drawn to the efforts being made to control the situation.

Motor car manufacturers and car dealers are cooperating with the national, state and local safety authorities to reduce this appalling loss of life and property.

"We are trying to do our share," says Dewey Harbour of Union Motors, Inc. "Safety campaigns are no novelty, but in our Pontiac safety drive we have several unique points that it will benefit motorists to investigate.

"Do you know that over four-fifth of all the accidents caused by lack of service attention or improper attention can be traced to one of two things on the car—the lights or the brakes? That means your chances of having an accident are increased just that much if you drive knowing that your lights or your brakes are wrong.

"I believe that if every car owner realized just how important it is to drive a car that is kept in good operating order, the percentage of accidents would be materially reduced.

"After all, there are enough hazards on the road today without adding another in the shape of a car that is dangerously unsafe to drive, or in driving any car at a speed too great for the road conditions and the driver's personal reaction time.

"At this time, when owners are getting their cars ready for the spring and summer motoring season, we are making a special effort to have them get all five safety items checked and noted. We'll inspect them free for any car-owner, and consider it a privilege. Also, our men have been thoroughly trained on the many little details that driving experts know go into good safe driving. They can often make a few simple suggestions learned by professional drivers through many years' experience that will help our customers assure much greater safety in every-day driving."

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—Week-end profit taking and the usual closing up of commitments held cotton futures today within a narrow range and at the end of the two hour trading period prices were 1 to 7 points lower.

May ended at 11.86 bid, July at 11.91, October at 11.73 and December at 11.90. After two days of advancing prices in the new crop positions longs were getting out of the market and taking profits.

Business was proceeding at a slow pace. The action of the government cotton pool was still the leading factor in the market and traders were worried about making commitments until further developments.

A forecast issued today by the weather bureau indicated that the belt would come in for showers during the week-end. Further rains were indicated for the east central and east gulf states and local showers were expected in the southern plains and western gulf states.

Goods markets, both in Worth Street and Manchester, were quiet.

Exports were 9,255.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 1 to 7 points.

New York

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—With cotton displaying resistance around the 12-cent level for July and March contracts, the market backed and filled today over a range of 6 to 8 points. There was commission house and Ameria selling while the trade, local and government agencies were credited with buying. The market closed steady at net losses of 1 to 5 points.

Cotton futures closed steady, 1-5 lower.

By Victor Eubank.

NEW YORK, May 11.—(AP)—Preferred utility and sugar company issues, together with scattered specialties, were in demand in today's brief stock market session. Most other groups were rather listless, however, and some of the recent gainers sagged under profit taking. The close was about steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speech of Chairman Jones of the RFC interpreted in some quarters as a prediction of the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill apparently did not renew inflationary enthusiasm in the equities list although U. S. government securities continued to point downward. Most Wall street observers were still of the opinion the Patman "fiat money" measure will be vetoed.

Grains moved up on the bullish implications of the government's crop figures, but reacted later. Cotton was subjected to some realizing. Independent trends prevailed among bonds. Foreign exchanges were mixed, with sterling higher. Imported bar silver was raised 1 cent an ounce to 73 1-8 cents.

Shares of Public Service of New Jersey, 8 per cent preferred, jumped 11 points, and the preference issues of Electric Power and Light and American Power and Light were up around 1 to 3. Peoples Gas advanced more than 3. American Crystal Sugar preferred gained about 4 and Cuban American Sugar preferred firmed 2.

Late buying in American Can pushed this issue up 2 points, and Inland Steel, Du Pont, Union Pacific and Eastman Kodak improved 1 to around 2. Most of the rails did better near the finish, but American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Motors, U. S. Smelting and the majority of the oils were a shade up and down.

Market conjectures were centered on the president's transportation message, expected to be delivered to congress next week, and on Secretary Morgenthau's scheduled address to the country Monday.

Few anticipated any inflationary spur from the Morgenthau talk in view of the fact that the treasury has extensive financing plans which call for "sound money" psychology rather than currency expansion ideas. At the same time, it was hoped the secretary might further clarify the administration's gold and silver policies.

Hope for bigger and broader markets was indicated in the sale of two stock exchange seats for $90,000 each, an advance of $2,000 over a transfer made yesterday and $25,000 above the 16-year low established early last month.

Various sugar stocks were brightened by announcement that refinery deliveries in the first four months of this year ran substantially ahead of those in the similar 1934 period. A cheerful note was also sounded by the National Lumber Manufacturers association which reported lumber mill shipments for the week ended May 4, were the heaviest of any week since 1931.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, May 11.—(AP)—Faced by an unexpected new reduction of the official government estimate of the 1935 domestic winter wheat yield, grain prices went upward early today. Opening 3-4-1 1-4 higher, July 95 7-8-96, wheat afterward reacted somewhat. Corn started at 1-4 to 5-8 gain, July 81 1-2 to 5-8, and then became easier.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

Investors Syndicate Institutes Educational Campaign Here

Money Management, an educational campaign sponsored by Investors Syndicate, was explained yesterday in an interview with Mrs. R. E. Allen, a representative of the company in the Monroe district.

"The United States and Canada have the greatest educational systems in the world. Yet despite all the learned minds, careful planning and millions of dollars that have been combined in the development of these great systems, there is a surprising lack of training offered in a subject that most vitally accepts the life of every individual and the collective life of society, namely—the profitable and wise management of money," Mrs. Allen said.

"Our school systems are designed today to aid our young people to acquire the ability to make money, in order to have the comforts and to enjoy the satisfaction of life. But we have overlooked the training in the usage of money that makes these objectives possible of achievement."

"The Investors Syndicate and its affiliated companies have recognized this great need in education for some time," Mrs. Allen continued, "and have recently endeavored to determine exactly what is being done regarding the teaching of Money Management in the schools of the United States and Canada. The company believes in teaching youth how to manage money.

"We find that the percentage of financial illiterates has not decreased since the end of the 19th century. Through the enormous investment of the school system throughout the country, illiteracy in the United States has been reduced to 4.3 per cent. Yet eminent authorities say that not two per cent of the population know how to handle money, know how to manage a dollar. That's a financial illiteracy of 98 per cent.

"During the last 20 years, the people of the United States and Canada have received a gross income of approximately twelve hundred billions of dollars. If they had been properly trained in the scientific handling of money, that tremendous sum would have enabled everyone to live in comfort and happiness, despite depressions.

"We have found that the teaching of Personal Money Management is an effective means of developing character, is an effective means of cultivating mental health and stability, is a direct preventive of debt and poverty in adulthood, is a direct preventive of crime and is a help in solving the taxpayers' problems."

That, of course, is touching only the highlights of this important campaign which Investors Syndicate is waging. The district office, under the direction of John S. Fox, is endeavoring to secure the services of Dr. L. Y. Brown, eminent lecturer, to present the plan in concrete form sometime this year before the educational bodies of Monroe.

It is theoretically possible for a pigeon breeder to start with a dozen pairs of birds and have 960 squabs at the end of 12 months.

CHEVROLET CARS WELL BALANCED

Engineer Tells What Really Constitutes Balanced Automobile

What is a balanced car?

Different answers are given by different authorities.

The mechanical expert says that a balanced car is one in which every rotating part is so accurately made that, even at high speeds, it does not tend to vibrate.

The expert stylist defines the balanced car as one in which all component parts and elements are so skillfully combined as to create the effect of unity of the whole.

The chassis engineer, however, holds that the balanced car is one in which all units are so carefully designed, each in relation to the others, that the car fulfills its purpose with the highest possible degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist.

Actually, according to James M. Crawford, chief engineer of the Chevrolet Motor company, which presents its cars as truly balanced automobiles, all three definitions must be met before balance can be achieved.

"Some of the costliest and most delicate machines in our plants," Mr. Crawford said recently at a Detroit gathering of Chevrolet field men, "are those precision devices that are designed for balancing parts such as the crankshaft, or the clutch assembly, or the flywheel. But even if every rotating part of the car were in absolutely perfect balance, the car might not be a 'balanced automobile'—a term in which the word 'balanced' is used in a different sense.

"This other kind of balance is to be obtained only through the exercise of judgment and skill before the car or any part of it is built. It is the result of painstaking effort around the draughting board, and of the cooperation of engineers, body designers, stylists, and others whose judgment is reflected in the product.

"As an example of this second kind of balance, consider acceleration ability and economy. Most motorists want both these qualities; otherwise our task would be easy. We could build cars of still greater efficiency (as judged by miles per gallon) by sacrificing speed and acceleration and high-gear hill-climbing ability; so, too, we could build cars of increased performance powers, but these would bring us decreased economy. Actually, in designing a car, we must balance these two opposing factors to give the motoring public both economy and performance in the ratio that the public wants.

"Fortunately, most decisions nessessary to achieve a balanced car are not in the 'problem' class, but are made on the basis of certain knowledge of requirements. For example, a car must possess the proper balance between weight and power. Our Blue Flame engine possesses a maximum horsepower of 80, and its design is such that it develops its mximum torque (or pulling power) at low engine speeds. A chassis too light would not stand up; a chassis too heavy would be wasteful and, of course, would affect performance. So there again we must effect a balance.

"Practically every element of the car is subject to this balancing. Brakes must achieve a balance with the weight and speed of the car, springs must be in balance with the load, goar ratios must effect a balance between power and load, tire sizes must balance with car weight, steering gear ratios must balance the resistance of the tires on the road.

"A balanced car, in brief, is one that fulfills its purpose with the highest degree of efficiency and satisfaction to the motorist. In addition, it must possess visual balance—it must look its part. All its units must combine to make the entire car, through the proper balance of running gear, radiator, fenders, hood, sheet metal, and the various elements of the body, appear as a single unit rather than as separate elements fastened to each other."

FIRE SEASON IS ALWAYS AT HAND

Downes Says Hazards Less Now But Must Be Guarded Against

Every season brings its own fire hazards. In winter, heating equipment is apt to be the worst offender. And while the hazards of spring and summer are less than those of the colder months, they should be conscientiously guarded against, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc., Ouachita Bank building.

Grass fires cause much unnecessary waste each year. Property owners possessing unused fields have a habit of putting off until tomorrow the scythe-work that should be done today—and conflagration is often the result. It will be remembered that the great Berkeley, California, fire of a few years ago began in a field of uncut, dry grass.

Most communities have ordinances designed to force property owners to keep grass cut. Unfortunately, these ordinances are often unenforced or half-heartedly enforced—and when that is the case, the town itself becomes as great an offender against the public safety as the careless property owner. Every community should have adequate laws to cover this hazard—and enforce them.

Still another important dry-weather hazard has to do with forest land. Each year millions of acres of timber are destroyed, because of the carelessness or ignorance of campers and others. Every person when in wooded country should remember that living timber will burn, and once it is dry enough, can literally explode at the touch of flame.

No season of the year is free from the fire menace. Carelessness in regard to fire is always hazardous. Keep your wits about you and your eyes open for the common dangers that pave the way for conflagrations.

Mrs. Mamie Heath Wall sold to Mrs. Camille Wall, yesterday, a tract of land on the Highway 80, 100 feet by 150 feet, located in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 28, township 18 north, range 3 east, it was learned at the office of the clerk of parish court. The consideration was $500.

The tune of "We Won't Go Home Until Morning" was a favorite at the time of the Crusades, and the Crusaders often made it sound through old Jerusalem.

PONTIAC DEALER ADVISES SAFETY

Harbour Cites Many Accidents In Urging Care On The Highways

With a death roll of 36,000 people in a year and 954,000 persons injured, both as the result of 882,000 accidents in which motor vehicles were involved, it is no wonder that the attention of the entire country has been drawn to the efforts being made to control the situation.

Motor car manufacturers and car dealers are cooperating with the national, state and local safety authorities to reduce this appalling loss of life and property.

"We are trying to do our share," says Dewey Harbour of Union Motors, Inc. "Safety campaigns are no novelty, but in our Pontiac safety drive we have several unique points that it will benefit motorists to investigate.

"Do you know that over four-fifth of all the accidents caused by lack of service attention or improper attention can be traced to one of two things on the car—the lights or the brakes? That means your chances of having an accident are increased just that much if you drive knowing that your lights or your brakes are wrong.

"I believe that if every car owner realized just how important it is to drive a car that is kept in good operating order, the percentage of accidents would be materially reduced.

"After all, there are enough hazards on the road today without adding another in the shape of a car that is dangerously unsafe to drive, or in driving any car at a speed too great for the road conditions and the driver's personal reaction time.

"At this time, when owners are getting their cars ready for the spring and summer motoring season, we are making a special effort to have them get all five safety items checked and noted. We'll inspect them free for any car-owner, and consider it a privilege. Also, our men have been thoroughly trained on the many little details that driving experts know go into good safe driving. They can often make a few simple suggestions learned by professional drivers through many years' experience that will help our customers assure much greater safety in every-day driving."

CHURCH TO HOLD SPECIAL SERVICE

Monroe Methodists Will Pay Honor To Mothers Today

Services at the First Methodist church today will be held in observance of Mother's day. Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor, will speak at the morning worship hour, 11 o'clock, on "Jesus' Attitude Toward Woman," and other features of Mother's day will be carried out through the afternoon.

Special music by the congregation will be a feature of the morning service and Mrs. C. V. Sanders will sing the solo, "Mother's Day."

The young people of the church will keep open house at the church for all mothers from 5 until 6 o'clock this afternoon, and all persons are invited to bring their mothers to this social hour. Special music will be had for this occasion and young ladies will preside at the punch tables.

At six p. m., the guests will repair to the church auditorium for vesper service which will be arranged to pay honor to the mothers.

"Behold Thy Mother" will be Rev. Scott's theme for the evening service. The choir will sing "Where Mother Is, Home Is."

At the conclusion of the message by the pastor a simple pageant will be presented in which the relationship between mothers and their sons and daughters will be emphasized.

Grant Tire Service Is Name Of New Concern

The partnership of West & Grant Tire company has been dissolved and is to be known hereafter as Grant Tire service, Mr. Grant having purchased the interest of Leroy West, his partner.

The reorganized company will feature Fisk tires, Magnolia gas and oil. The Grant Tire service will remain open all night as well as all day and will feature repair of "flat tires" and gas throughout the 24 hours.

Location of Grant Tire service is easily accessible at 1111 DeSiard street.

MURPHY IS NAMED LIONS CLUB HEAD

Officers Elected At Meeting Of Farmerville Civic Group

FARMERVILLE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Sheriff F. W. Murphy has just been elected president of the Farmerville Lions club, succeeding M. S. Baughman. Dr. J. D. Miller has been elected tail-twister to succeed Fred Preaus. The newly-elected officers will take office in July.

Sheriff Murphy and J. W. Stancil, Jr., past president, were both awarded a Lion's "key" in recognition of their services in securing two new members.

A LEGAL REVUE—PRODUCED BY EARL CARROLL

Earl Carroll (center), noted producer of pulchritudinous revues, brought to court in New York fifty-six beautiful arguments, some of whom are shown with him, for an injunction against the Scenic Artists union, which has refused to prepare scenery for his new show until he pays $6,000 allegedly due since 1932. Judge Bernard L. Sheintag, with a front row seat at this exhibition of beauty, put off his decision until another day when a second performance, with union representatives in the cast, could be given.

Interest Steadily Growing In River Craft Development

Three Young Men Responsible For Flourishing Boat Landing

Two young men who were unemployed in 1932, created their own jobs in the building and operation of a boat landing on the Ouachita river—an enterprise in which others had failed here through the years—and since that start made three years ago their enterprise has flourished and is now considered the most successful of its kind ever conducted here.

Recently, a third young man who established and successfully operated another boat dock here, combined his equipment with that of the former two.

Now, the expanded enterprise is the only one of its kind here.

It is known as the Monroe landing, located opposite Riverfront, near the municipal natatorium.

The two who started the enterprise are Stanley Burton and Bill Smith. The other is Howard Griffin.

At the start, Burton and Smith built 100 feet of dock, or floating platform landing. Now, they have 250 feet of landing, a storage dock 30 feet by 50 feet in dimensions and an electric light system over the entire premises. They have purchased for their own living quarters a 66-foot houseboat. It is equipped with natural gas for cooking and heating purposes.

The two men have their own cook and housekepeer, a negro, and have several part-time negro helpers with the general work about the premises.

Soon after starting their enterprise, the young men who refused to remain unemployed were given the caretaking of boats owned by Milling Bernstein, Fred Millsaps, A. H. Salisbury, Hugh Lennon and W. J. Riley. Later, other boat owners, Clem Dickard, Dick Daughtry, George Gunby, Alden Shotwell, Tom Davenport, Bunn Beasley, Brock Lewis, the Brown Paper Mill and Henry Biedenharn, who gave the landing keepers custory of their craft, which are cruising houseboats and cabin cruisers, and, in differentiation with outboard motorboats, inboard boats.

Owners of outboard motorboats, Jim Cox, Howard Griffin, Robert Faulk, "Bud" Hood, Henry Bernstein, Jr., and Brunswig Sholars, placed their craft in the custody of the landing keepers.

In the near future, as the hot weather season nears, many more owners of outboard craft are expected to have their boats kept at the landing. Among these are A. V. Miller and W. L. Presley.

Victor F. Sackett's new boat will soon be completed and will be kept at the landing.

Newspaper editorials have occasionally pointed out that people here accept as a matter of fact the location here of the Ouachita river, and that the interest shown in boating is small in comparison with what it might be. The scenic beauty of the river, in comparison with rivers of other sections, the possibility of boat races being held here, and other features have been pointed out.

The keepers of the Monroe landing are well aware of the potentialities of the river as a pleasure center. They anticipate one of the greatest summers on the river in the history of the Twin Cities.

And, judging from the growth of their depression-born enterprise, Monroe has made a definite step towards becoming river-minded.

MISSION INSTITUTE HELD IN CHOUDRANT

CHOUDRANT, La., May 11.—(Special)—Many new features characterized the program given at the Baptist church here when the quarterly missionary study institute was held under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Hamilton, associational chairman.

The program was as follows: Song, "We've a Story to Tell the Border," devotional, Mrs. Fred Hamilton; first chapter of "Winning the Border" was given by Mrs. Stewart of Temple church; second chapter by Mrs. J. L. White of Dubach; third chapter, Mrs. David Cook, Cook's chapel; prayer, Mrs. White; luncheon; reports of committees; fourth chapter by Mrs. T. B. Alderson of Choudrant; fifth chapter by Mrs. F. D. Bachman.

One of the interesting features of the day was the exhibit of curios brought from Mexico such as tapestry, weaving, pottery, needlework and stalactites from Carlsbad cavern.

2 Baccalaureate Sermons Will Be Given By Hastings

Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church, will preach two baccalaureate sermons today. The first will be for the Linville high school this afternoon and the second that of the Spearsville high school tonight. This will be the third time he has preached a similar sermon during as many years for the Linville high school and the second time for the Spearsville high school.

In the absence of the pastor, at the evening service at the First Baptist church, Rev. L. R. Morgan, field secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, will occupy the pulpit.

Patient Who Suffered Hiccoughs Taken Home

Mrs. J. M. Rogers, of 218 Hoover street, West Monroe, who underwent an operation 10 days ago at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, after suffering hiccoughs for more than four months, was removed to her home yesterday. She was pronounced completely cured of the rare ailment.

TEN-YEAR CLUB PLANS FOR SHOW

Luncheon Is Held At Noon Saturday In Methodist Church Annex

Thirty-seven members and guests of the Ten-Year club attended a meeting and luncheon Saturday at noon in the First Methodist church annex, for the purpose of discussing plans for the flower and vegetable show to be held here June 8. The show is being sponsored by the Ten-Year club and the Kiwanis club, but it is intended to obtain entries from all of the home demonstration clubs in the parish.

Mrs. J. B. Filhiol, president of the Ten-Year club, presided and singing was led by Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, member at large. Invocation was asked by S. A. Moss, representing the Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, home demonstration agent, discussed general plans for the flower and vegetable show and Mr. Moss discussed the part the Kiwanis club will play in the exposition. H. Flood Madison also spoke on behalf of the Kiwanis club.

Commenting on the part the men of the various communities may play in presenting the show, E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, J. B. Filhiol and Fred Huenefeld made short talks.

One of the most important actions of the meeting was the appointing of two committees to make arrangements for the show. The committee in charge of decorating the building is composed of Mrs. Landreaux, Miss Wilma Britton, Mrs. Billy Luton and Mrs. Mack Naff. Those composing the entry committee are Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mrs. Wayne McDonald, Mrs. L. Holly, Mrs. J. R. Frantom and Mrs. L. Case.

It was decided to stage a parade of decorated floats at noon on the day of the exposition and Mr. Moss, representing the Missouri Pacific railroad, promised the Missouri Pacific band would participate in the parade.

Entries for the show will be received between 8 and 11 o'clock on the morning of June 8. All must be in by 11 o'clock, so that judging may begin at that time. The building will be open to the public between 2 and 8 p.m. on that day.

Decision was made at the meeting to make club booths a part of the exposition. In this way the clubs from the different communities will compete against each other for prizes. There will also be commodity exhibits, with best displays of different commodities in different booths.

Premium lists will be mailed out to all members of home demonstration clubs and also may be obtained by anyone else who is interested.

Modern woman depends largely on the mineral kingdom for her beauty aids; the base of face powder is talc, titanium oxide makes the powder stick, rouge is made from a pure iron ore known as hematite, mud packs come from volcanic ash, garment dyes and perfumes embody coal tar, tin is in her silk stockings, and chromium is used in tanning her shoes.

MEETING IS HELD BY ELECTRICIANS

Talk Made By Mayor Bernstein To North Louisiana Inspectors

The monthly meeting of the International Association of Electrical inspectors of north Louisiana was held here Friday night at the city hall, where a discussion of electrical appliances to prevent fire hazards was held and talks were made by Mayor Arnold Bernstein, George Welman, electrical engineer of the Louisiana Rating and Fire Prevention bureau; and Charles Cobb of Shreveport.

Representatives from all over north Louisiana were present at the meeting, which was the first to be held here in over a year. Next month's meeting will be held at Homer.

Frank Camus, district chairman, presided over the meeting in the absence of Emile O. Harder, Jr. W. S. Adcock, of Monroe, opened the meeting wth the introduction of Mayor Bernstein, who welcomed the association and gave a short talk on the "Duties of the Official to the Public, His Fellow Workers and Himself."

Mr. Cobb gave the concluding talk of the program on the "Power Factors of Induction Motors." He showed several diagrams and equations showing his findings on several jobs.

The discussion of electrical appliances, which took up most of the meeting, was conducted by Mr. Welman who answered all questions put to him pertaining to electrical work.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS VISIT LOCAL PARK

Members of the Monroe Camp Fire girls, in charge of the various group guardians, pursued their weekly trips of study and exploration yesterday, this time going to Bernstein park.

A study of the animals in the zoo, the birds, flowers and trees comprised the chief part of the study.

When noon came they had a picnic lunch under the trees of the park.

In previous Saturdays the girls have visited the city hall and courthouse, the Brown paper mill, and the Sterlington super-power plant. Notebooks and snapshots will be prepared to illustrate the trips and birthday honors will be awarded to those whose books and views excel.

CHURCH TO HOLD SPECIAL SERVICE

Monroe Methodists Will Pay Honor To Mothers Today

Services at the First Methodist church today will be held in observance of Mother's day, Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor, will speak at the morning worship hour, 11 o'clock, on "Your Attitude Toward Woman," and other features of Mother's day will be carried out through the afternoon.

Special music by the congregation will be a feature of the morning service and Mrs. C. V. Sanders will sing the solo, "Mother's Day."

The young people of the church will keep open house at the church for all mothers from 5 until 6 o'clock this afternoon, and all persons are invited to bring their mothers to this social hour. Special music will be had for this occasion and young ladies will preside at the punch tables.

At six p. m., the guests will repair to the church auditorium for vesper service which will be arranged to pay honor to the mothers.

"Behold Thy Mother" will be Rev. Scott's theme for the evening service. The choir will sing "Where Mother Is, Home Is."

At the conclusion of the message by the pastor a simple pageant will be presented in which the relationship between mothers and their sons and daughters will be emphasized.

Grant Tire Service Is Name Of New Concern

The partnership of West & Grant Tire company has been dissolved and is to be known hereafter as Grant Tire service, Mr. Grant having purchased the interest of Leroy West, his partner.

The reorganized company will feature Fisk tires, Magnolia gas and oil. The Grant Tire service will remain open all night as well as all day and will feature repair of "flat tires" and gas throughout the 24 hours.

Location of Grant Tire service is easily accessible at 1111 DeSiard street.

MURPHY IS NAMED LIONS CLUB HEAD

Officers Elected At Meeting Of Farmerville Civic Group

FARMERVILLE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Sheriff F. W. Murphy has just been elected president of the Farmerville Lions club, succeeding M. S. Baughman. Dr. J. D. Miller has been elected tail-twister to succeed Fred Preaus. The newly-elected officers will take office in July.

Sheriff Murphy and J. W. Stancil, Jr., past president, were both awarded a Lion's "key" in recognition of their services in securing two new members.

A LEGAL REVUE—PRODUCED BY EARL CARROLL

Earl Carroll (center), noted producer of pulchritudinous revues, brought to court in New York fifty-six beautiful arguments, some of whom are shown with him, for an injunction against the Scenic Artists union, which has refused to prepare scenery for his new show until he pays $6,000 allegedly due since 1932. Judge Bernard L. Sheintag, with a front row seat at this exhibition of beauty, put off his decision until another day when a second performance, with union representatives in the cast, could be given.

Interest Steadily Growing In River Craft Development

Three Young Men Responsible For Flourishing Boat Landing

Two young men who were unemployed in 1932, created their own jobs in the building and operation of a boat landing on the Ouachita river—an enterprise in which others had failed here through the years—and since that start made three years ago their enterprise has flourished and is now considered the most successful of its kind ever conducted here.

Recently, a third young man who established and successfully operated another boat dock here, combined his equipment with that of the former two.

Now, the expanded enterprise is the only one of its kind here.

It is known as the Monroe landing, located opposite Riverfront, near the municipal natatorium.

The two who started the enterprise are Stanley Burton and Bill Smith. The other is Howard Griffin.

At the start, Burton and Smith built 100 feet of dock, or floating platform landing. Now, they have 250 feet of landing, a storage dock 30 feet by 50 feet in dimensions and an electric light system over the entire premises. They have purchased for their own living quarters a 66-foot houseboat. It is equipped with natural gas for cooking and heating purposes.

The two men have their own cook and housekeeper, a negro, and have several part-time negro helpers with the general work about the premises.

Soon after starting their enterprise, the young men who refused to remain unemployed were given the caretaking of boats owned by Milling Bernstein, Fred Millsaps, A. H. Salisbury, Hugh Lennon and W. J. Riley. Later, other boat owners, Clem Dickard, Dick Daughtry, George Gunby, Alden Shotwell, Tom Davenport, Bunn Beasley, Brock Lewis, the Brown Paper Mill and Henry Biedenharn, who gave the landing keepers custory of their craft, which are cruising houseboats and cabin cruisers, and, in differentiation with outboard motorboats, inboard boats.

Owners of outboard motorboats, Jim Cox, Howard Griffin, Robert Faulk, "Bud" Hood, Henry Bernstein, Jr., and Brunswig Sholars, placed their craft in the custody of the landing keepers.

In the near future, as the hot weather season nears, many more owners of outboard craft are expected to have their boats kept at the landing. Among these are A. V. Miller and W. L. Presley.

Victor F. Sackett's new boat will soon be completed and will be kept at the landing.

Newspaper editorials have occasionally pointed out that people here accept as a matter of fact the location here of the Ouachita river, and that the interest shown in boating is small in comparison with what it might be. The scenic beauty of the river, in comparison with rivers of other sections, the possibility of boat races being held here, and other features have been pointed out.

The keepers of the Monroe landing are well aware of the potentialities of the river as a pleasure center. They anticipate one of the greatest summers on the river in the history of the Twin Cities.

And, judging from the growth of their depression-born enterprise, Monroe has made a definite step towards becoming river-minded.

MISSION INSTITUTE HELD IN CHOUDRANT

CHOUDRANT, La., May 11.—(Special)—Many new features characterized the program given at the Baptist church here when the quarterly missionary study institute was held under the supervision of Mrs. Fred Hamilton, associational chairman.

The program was as follows: Song, "We've a Story to Tell the Border," devotional, Mrs. Fred Hamilton; first chapter of "Winning the Border" was given by Mrs. Stewart of Temple church; second chapter by Mrs. J. L. White of Dubach; third chapter, Mrs. David Cook, Cook's chapel; prayer, Mrs. White; luncheon; reports of committees; fourth chapter by Mrs. T. B. Alderson of Choudrant; fifth chapter by Mrs. F. D. Bachman.

One of the interesting features of the day was the exhibit of curios brought from Mexico such as tapestry, weaving, pottery, needlework and stalactites from Carlsbad cavern.

2 Baccalaureate Sermons Will Be Given By Hastings

Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist church, will preach two baccalaureate sermons today. The first will be for the Linville high school this afternoon and the second that of the Spearsville high school tonight. This will be the third time he has preached a similar sermon during as many years for the Linville high school and the second time for the Spearsville high school.

In the absence of the pastor, at the evening service at the First Baptist church, Rev. L. R. Morgan, field secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Children's home, will occupy the pulpit.

Patient Who Suffered Hiccoughs Taken Home

Mrs. J. M. Rogers, of 311 Hoover street, West Monroe, who underwent an operation 10 days ago at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, after suffering hiccoughs for more than four months, was removed to her home yesterday. She was pronounced convalescent at the time although

TEN-YEAR CLUB PLANS FOR SHOW

Luncheon Is Held At Noon Saturday In Methodist Church Annex

Thirty-seven members and guests of the Ten-Year club attended a meeting and luncheon Saturday at noon in the First Methodist church annex, for the purpose of discussing plans for the flower and vegetable show to be held here June 8. The show is being sponsored by the Ten-Year club and the Kiwanis club, but it is intended to obtain entries from all of the home demonstration clubs in the parish.

Mrs. J. B. Filhiol, president of the Ten-Year club, presided and singing was led by Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, member at large. Invocation was asked by S. A. Moss, representing the Kiwanis club.

Mrs. Jewel L. McQuiller, home demonstration agent, discussed general plans for the flower and vegetable show and Mr. Moss discussed the part the Kiwanis club will play in the exposition. H. Flood Madison also spoke on behalf of the Kiwanis club.

Commenting on the part the men of the various communities may play in presenting the show, E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, J. B. Filhiol and Fred Huenefeld made short talks.

One of the most important actions of the meeting was the appointing of two committees to make arrangements for the show. The committee in charge of decorating the building is composed of Mrs. Landreaux, Miss Wilma Britton, Mrs. Billy Luton and Mrs. Mack Naff. Those composing the entry committee are Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mrs. Wayne McDonald, Mrs. L. Holly, Mrs. J. R. Frantom and Mrs. L. Case.

It was decided to stage a parade of decorated floats at noon on the day of the exposition and Mr. Moss, representing the Missouri Pacific railroad, promised the Missouri Pacific band would participate in the parade.

Entries for the show will be received between 8 and 11 o'clock on the morning of June 8. All must be in by 11 o'clock, so that judging may begin at that time. The building will be open to the public between 2 and 8 p.m. on that day.

Decision was made at the meeting to make club booths a part of the exposition. In this way the clubs from the different communities will compete against each other for prizes. There will also be commodity exhibits, with best displays of different commodities in different booths.

Premium lists will be mailed out to all members of home demonstration clubs and also may be obtained by anyone else who is interested.

Modern woman depends largely on the mineral kingdom for her beauty aids; the base of face powder is talc, titanium oxide makes the powder stick, rouge is made from a pure iron ore known as hematite, mud packs come from volcanic ash, garment dyes and perfumes embody coal tar, tin is in her silk stockings, and chromium is used in tanning her shoes.

MEETING IS HELD BY ELECTRICIANS

Talk Made By Mayor Bernstein To North Louisiana Inspectors

The monthly meeting of the International Association of Electrical inspectors of north Louisiana was held here Friday night at the city hall, where a discussion of electrical appliances to prevent fire hazards was held and talks were made by Mayor Arnold Bernstein, George Welman, electrical engineer of the Louisiana Rating and Fire Prevention bureau, and Charles Cobb of Shreveport.

Representatives from all over north Louisiana were present at the meeting, which was the first to be held here in over a year. Next month's meeting will be held at Homer.

Frank Camus, district chairman, presided over the meeting in the absence of Emile O. Harder, Jr. W. S. Adcock, of Monroe, opened the meeting wth the introduction of Mayor Bernstein, who welcomed the association and gave a short talk on the "Duties of the Official to the Public, His Fellow Workers and Himself."

Mr. Cobb gave the concluding talk of the program on the "Power Factors of Induction Motors." He showed several diagrams and equations showing his findings on several jobs.

The discussion of electrical appliances, which took up most of the meeting, was conducted by Mr. Welman who answered all questions put to him pertaining to electrical work.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS VISIT LOCAL PARK

Members of the Monroe Camp Fire girls, in charge of the various group guardians, pursued their weekly trips of study and exploration yesterday, this time going to Bernstein park.

A study of the animals in the zoo, the birds, flowers and trees comprised the chief part of the study.

When noon came they had a picnic lunch under the trees of the park.

In previous Saturdays the girls have visited the city hall and courthouse, the Brown paper mill, and the Sterlington super-power plant. Notebooks and snapshots will be prepared to illustrate the trips and birthday honors will be awarded to those whose books and views excel.

Today Dedicated To Mothers Of America

By EVE C. BRADFORD

MOTHER'S DAY! . . . A day of poetry . . . mother's chair; mother's Bible; mother's religion; mother's knee, the first altar of the race; mother's bosom, the wall against which every wave of sorrow breaks. . . . Today, as we lift our brimming cup to the mothers of Monroe, we speculate: If there were no mothers . . . who would keep the light burning through the night . . . who would furnish the strongest ties in all the world, the apron strings? . . . Some day when the illustrious throngs gather, all will be there, the Jane Austins of literature, the Rosa Bonheurs of art, the Madame Curies of science, the Carrie Jacob Bonds of music—and each will present her particular contribution to the age in which she lives, a book, a painting, a piece of music, a bit of radium . . . brilliant achievements! . . . But they will all pale into insignificance beside yours—the gift of a human life. . . . After all, what would be the need of books, paintings and music, if no hand turns the pages . . . no eye views the canvasses and no voice sings the melodies? . . . Remember, mothers of Monroe, if the day is long and the duties many, that it is you who model the future of mankind. . . . If this is not a worthy cause, if it is not a big enough career, then life itself is but an empty gesture. . . .

Do we hear some one say, in the vernacular of the street, "Make it snappy, for heaven's sake, and have done with it!" . . .Well, here is some news that will electrify you and make you quite green with envy . . . We can't divulge names at this writing but a certain fond father has just given his daughter a gorgeous ermine cape for her trousseau (the engagement will be announced next month). . . . Travel news comes drifting in. . . . Edith Meyer and her daughter, Violet, will pack their toothbrushes again next month and dash away for a summer of sublime content at Lake Placid. . . . Yes, that beautiful home in Fairview will be shuttered, but, thanks to Edith's immaculate soul, stray papers and other debris that clutters up yards when the owners are away for the summer will not mar the landscape. . . . Charlie and Mabel Wallace will throw their duds into suitcases and whirl along the highway for a month's visit in California. . . . Here's hoping they do not encounter the fog over Frisco that obstructed our vision when we sailed into the Golden Gate last summer. . . . Joe and Viola Washburn are the envy of all their friends at the present moment. . . . Junetime will find them in Mexico with that gallant company of Rotarians from every section of the globe. . . . After a whirlwind courtship that swept Nellie Bubb quite off her feet, she is now honeymooning with her handsome doctor husband in Mexico. . . . Characteristic of Dr. Walke's thoughtfulness was the telephone call to Nellie's mother a few days ago informing her that Mother's day would be spent right by her side . . . they are hurrying home now across the desert sands. Of course you know how perfectly stunning Nellie looks in white . . . she was wearing a white evening dress the night Dr. Walke came into her life. . . . Mary Katherine Pennuell in diaphanous pink chiffon added the charm of her personality to the Musical Coterie concert Friday night. . . . Mary Katherine has one of the greatest charms given to woman, a most beautiful speaking voice with all the lovely modulations . . . she read the program notes.

The sight of Nantelle Mitchiner bending over the piano keys is something to store away in the chamber of memory and bring lovingly out from time to time. . . . If Nantelle is the type of artist turned out into the world from the conservatory of music of Northeast Center, then we can rest assured that we have arrived—at last Monroe is a musical center. . . . Another young artist leaving the conservatory this year is Mary Tanner . . . sublime music drips from the bow of her violin. . . . Monroe's waterfront grows more fascinating every day . . . boats of every type now bob up and down on the sleepy Ouachita. . . . One of the nattiest and newest is the new cabin cruiser just launched by the Henry Biedenharns. . . . So nautical minded have they grown of late a cruise along the Gulf coast is now in the offing. . . . Of course this means their friends also get a whiff of salt air from time to time. Henry and Bessie are among the most considerate and thoughtful humans in the world, where their friends are concerned. . . .

Breezes from the airway . . . no less a personage than the son of former vice-president, General Charles Dawes, dropped down out of the clouds at Selman field the other day. . . . Girls don't let the green-eyed monster devour you when you find out that Mary Thompson flew over the city with Charles Dawes, Jr., in his own plane. . . .

Enthusiasm that bubbles like a mountain spring—a gift for inexhaustible talk—energy as tireless as the tides—a certain indifference to class distinction—all of these, when summed up, are characteristics of Monroe's Junior Charity League members. . . . Where the babies in their free Clinic are concerned, no task is too difficult for them. . . . You will realize this on the thirtieth of May when their special edition of the Monroe News-Star comes from the press. . . .

Heard such a clever remark the other day and of coure we are eager to pass it on to you. . . . "Good men treat women like pipes and become more attached to them the older they become—when the flame is burnt out they still look after them, knock them gently but lovingly and care for them always—no man ever shares his pipe."

—Portraits by Griffin Studio.

The beautiful gardens in Fairview can always be relied upon to supply the society photographer with interesting material. The three charming young mothers caught in informal poses in their gardens are Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick and two lovely daughters, Martha Clayton and Nancy Jane. (Left). Mrs. Carl McHenry is seen here with her two beautiful daughters, Cornelia and Mary Wilton. (Right). Mrs. H. S. Stevens in the lower picture is enjoying an animated conversation with her cunning little daughter, Lelia, who has not yet learned to walk.

The annual banquet and dance for members of the St. Matthew's senior and junior classes will be held on May 23 at Frances hotel. Parents of seniors and juniors and members of the alumni association who wish to make reservations are requested to call Mrs. Paul Keller or Mrs. J. W. Spohrer not later than the eighteenth of May.

Dancing Party

The spacious ballroom of Lakeside Country club was the scene of a gay throng of dancers Thursday night when officials of the Brown Paper Mill company were the genial hosts. This affair, one of a series sponsored by this company of gentlemen, proved so successful and so thoroughly enjoyable, announcement was made of a continuation during the early summer months.

The dancers were entertained by Frank Williams and his complany of musicians.

Luncheon For Miss Haas At Frances Hotel

Pink Radiance roses, blue forget-me-nots and graceful, flowery sprays of blue delphinium formed a plaque of unusual artistry for the luncheon table presided over by two charming hostesses, Mrs. Louis Masur and Mrs. Herman Rosenheim, in the private dining room of the Frances hotel Friday at 1 o'clock.

This lovely affair, of bridal significance, was complimentary to Miss Shirley Haas, whose marriage in June to Mr. David Snyder of Bastrop is claiming the attention of social Monroe at the present moment. Miss Haas was gowned in smart pink silk pique with all accessories of the same lovely shade.

A delectable five-course luncheon of impeccable serving was enjoyed by 14 guests, including the charming mother of the guest of honor, Mrs. Aubrey Haas.

Social Hour Enjoyed

A pleasant social hour was a distinct feature of the regular monthly meeting of the T. E. L. class of the West Monroe First Baptist church Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Conrad Cage, Jr., with Mrs. W. M. Mitchell and Mrs. William R. Gates co-hostesses.

Mrs. Luther Neal, the president, led the devotional and presided during the business session. Mrs. Clyde Howard was elected third vice president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. Aubrey Dumas. New group captains were appointed as follows: Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. G. B. Folds, Mrs. Hoyett Smith, Mrs. Herman Eady, Mrs. W. M. Thomas and Mrs. W. J. Mills. Mrs. P. E. Pilcher gave an interesting talk on "Class Loyalty."

For diversion during the afternoon games reminiscent of Mother's day were introduced. The reception suite was adorned with fragrant white roses, and the class colors, green and white, were reflected in the serving of the plate lunch, consisting of salad refreshments. Daity corsages of white sweet peas and daisies were presented to each guest. Those present were Mrs. P. E. Pilcher, Mrs. J. E. Grandstaff, Mrs. Herman Eady, Mrs. Hoyett Smith, Mrs. W. J. Mills, Mrs. Luther Neal, Mrs. Clyde Howard, Mrs. Bernice Latham, Mrs. J. H. Hammock, Mrs. G. B. Folds, Mrs. H. B. Miles, Mrs. Harry Burdeaux, Mrs. Fay Burdeaux, Mrs. Aubrey Dumas, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. W. M. Thomas, Mrs. John Young, Mrs. T. O. Traywick, Mrs. Elmer Kennedy, Mrs. A. L. DeLoach, Mrs. W. F. O'Neal, Mrs. C. C. Tatum, Mrs. R. F. Richardson, Mrs. J. A. Rainboat, Mrs. George Austin and the hostesses.

So nautical minded have they grown of late a cruise along the Gulf coast is now in the offing. . . . Of course this means their friends also get a whiff of salt air from time to time. Henry and Bessie are among the most considerate and thoughtful humans in the world, where their friends are concerned. . . .

Breezes from the airway . . . no less a personage than the son of former vice-president, General Charles Dawes, dropped down out of the clouds at Selman field the other day. . . . Girls don't let the green-eyed monster devour you when you find out that Mary Thompson flew over the city with Charles Dawes, Jr., in his own plane. . . .

Enthusiasm that bubbles like a mountain spring—a gift for inexhaustible talk—energy as tireless as the tides—a certain indifference to class distinction—all of these, when summed up, are characteristics of Monroe's Junior Charity League members. . . . Where the babies in their free Clinic are concerned, no task is too difficult for them. . . . You will realize this on the thirtieth of May when their special edition of the Monroe News-Star comes from the press. . . .

Heard such a clever remark the other day and of coure we are eager to pass it on to you. . . . "Good men treat women like pipes and become more attached to them the older they become—when the flame is burnt out they still look after them. Knock them gently but lovingly and care for them always—no man ever shares his pipe."

The beautiful gardens in Fairview can always be relied upon to supply the society photographer with interesting material. The three charming young mothers caught in informal poses in their gardens are Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick and two lovely daughters, Martha Clayton and Nancy Jane. (Left). Mrs. Carl McHenry is seen here with her two beautiful daughters, Cornelia and Mary Wilton. (Right). Mrs. H. S. Stevens in the lower picture is enjoying an animated conversation with her cunning little daughter, Lelia, who has not yet learned to walk.

The annual banquet and dance for members of the St. Matthew's senior and junior classes will be held on May 23 at Frances hotel. Parents of seniors and juniors and members of the alumni association who wish to make reservations are requested to call Mrs. Paul Keller or Mrs. J. W. Spohrer not later than the eighteenth of May.

Luncheon For Miss Haas At Frances Hotel

Pink Radiance roses, blue forget-me-nots and graceful, flowery sprays of blue delphinium formed a plaque of unusual artistry for the luncheon table presided over by two charming hostesses, Mrs. Louis Masur and Mrs. Herman Rosenheim, in the private dining room of the Frances hotel Friday at 1 o'clock.

This lovely affair, of bridal significance, was complimentary to Miss Shirley Haas, whose marriage in June to Mr. David Snyder of Bastrop is claiming the attention of social Monroe at the present moment. Miss Haas was gowned in smart pink silk plique with all accessories of the same lovely shade.

A delectable five-course luncheon of impeccable serving was enjoyed by 14 guests, including the charming mother of the guest of honor, Mrs. Aubrey Haas.

Social Hour Enjoyed

A pleasant social hour was a distinct feature of the regular monthly meeting of the T. E. L. class of the West Monroe First Baptist church Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Conrad Cage, Jr., with Mrs. W. M. Mitchell and Mrs. William R. Gates co-hostesses.

Mrs. Luther Neal, the president, led the devotional and presided during the business session. Mrs. Clyde Howard was elected third vice president to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. Aubrey Dumas. New group captains were appointed as follows: Mrs. George Austin, Mrs. G. B. Folds, Mrs. Hoyett Smith, Mrs. Herman Eady, Mrs. W. M. Thomas and Mrs. W. J. Mills. Mrs. P. E. Pilcher gave an interesting talk on "Class Loyalty."

For diversion during the afternoon games reminiscent of Mother's day were introduced. The reception table was adorned with fragrant white roses, and the class colors, green and white, were reflected in the serving of the plate lunch, consisting of salad refreshments. Dainty corsages of white sweet peas and daisies were presented to each guest. Those present were Mrs. P. E. Pilcher, Mrs. J. E. Grandstaff, Mrs. Herman Eady, Mrs. Hoyett Smith, Mrs. W. J. Mills, Mrs. Luther Neal, Mrs. Clyde Howard, Mrs. Bernice Latham, Mrs. Hammock, Mrs. G. B. Folds, Mrs. B. Miller, Mrs. Harry Burroughs, Mrs. Fay Burgeaur, Mrs. Aubrey Dumas, Mrs. John Lewis, Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. John Young, Mrs. [illegible] Mrs. Elmer K[illegible] J. Deloach, Mrs. W. [illegible] G. Dancing Party

The spacious ballroom of Lakeside Country club was the scene of a gay throng of dancers Thursday night when officials of the Brown Paper Mill company were the genial hosts. This affair, one of a series sponsored by this company of gentlemen, proved so successful and so thoroughly enjoyable, announcement was made of a continuation during the early summer months.

The dancers were entertained by Frank Williams and his combination of musicians.

SOCIETY

Friendship Is Cemented Among Club Women By Gracious Hospitality

A deep glow of satisfaction was experienced by 50 charming women of McGehee, Ark., over the reception they received at the hands of the Missouri Pacific Women's club of this city last Friday when they spent the entire day in Monroe. Arriving here at 9 o'clock in the morning, they were whirled around the city by motor, visiting all the garden spots and places of civic interest. At noon luncheon was served at the Masonic temple.

The luncheon hour was delightful with the guests of honor and their hostesses gathered around the flower banked tables where conversation flowed freely during the serving of the delicious viands. In the absence of Mayor Arnold Bernstein, Mr. Henry Haas gave a welcoming address and Mrs. Ross White the response. A short address by Superintendent H. E. Rell was enjoyed, also the remarks made by Mrs. G. W. Bruce, president of the club. Mr. W. Wicker and Mr. W. D. Wyeth of McGehee, spoke of the pleasure derived from this friendly visit and the knitting of stronger bonds of friendship as a result. Mr. E. G. Waring and Mr. S. A. Moss also spoke briefly and stressed the need of unity and friendliness.

The program during the luncheon hour was diversified by a clever dance number featuring Mrs. Harry Rice and Mr. James Cavaness. Mr. Frank Campbell contributed a beautiful song number.

Mrs. S. A. Moss, past president of the Missouri Pacific Women's club, and one of the most generally beloved characters in club circles in this city, radiated friendliness and created the feeling of genuine hospitality that existed on this occasion.

The afternoon was spent in the comfortable club rooms where the following program was enjoyed with Mrs. George Bruce presiding:

The Why of a Missouri Pacific Women's club, Mrs. R. L. Armstrong.

Parliamentary law, Mrs. Virginia Newman.

Address, Mr. Fred Wililamson.

Solo, Mrs. C. W. Oseland.

Readings, Mrs. Emma Alexander.

Tap dance, Joyce Bernhardt.

Tap dance, Betty Ann Taylor.

Baby jazz dance, Janet Voorhies.

Group toe, Ida Davidson, Jackie Voorhies, Betty Jane Wilder, Pauline Breard, Mary Lynn O'Kelly, pupils of Armandine Renaud.

Solo, Mrs. P. J. Newman.

The day was brought to a glorious climax with a boating party on board the "Noe's Ark" with Mr. James A. Noe the host.

Among the visitors from McGehee were noted: Mrs. J. O. Lee, Mrs. Leo Malwar, Mrs. C. W. Kissel, Mrs. G. R. Cruse, Mrs. M. J. Burrell, Mrs. A. A. Voge, Mrs. W. O. McClellan, Mrs. J. M. Mercer, Mrs. C. Members Of Camel Club Are Hosts At A Dancing Party On Colorful Cherokee Terrace

Beautiful girls in diaphanous frocks and young men in white linens danced away the hours on the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances hotel Friday night to the lilting strains of Glenn Hudson's orchestra. Members of the Camel club were hosts on this occasion and, as customary, were responsible for one of the most delightful dancing parties of the season.

Mr. Earl Stevenson, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced the entertainers who staged a "snappy" floor show, not only for the dancers, but for the pleasure of those who watched from the sidelines. Miss Edna Nolan injected her own charming personality into two popular song numbers, "Moon Glow" and "An Ear Full of Music." An interpretative dance number, by Miss Eleanor Bennett and Jack Cornett, was greatly enjoyed, as was the tap dance number contributed by Miss Helen Adams. A song number, "Blue Moon," by Hilton Johnson, and a skillful acrobatic dance number by Miss Lorraine Peddy completed the show.

On the dance floor were noted: Miss Tib Kornegay and Mr. John Liles, Miss Eleanor Bennett and Mr. Jack Cornett, Miss Katherine Knox and Mr. Garland Knox, Miss Jo Combs and Mr. L. W. Melancon, Miss Rachel Haynes and Mr. Durwood Griffin, Miss Edna Nolan and Mr. Cecil Hill, Miss Mildred Cohen and Mr. R. D. Farr, Miss Jane Warren and Mr. Earl Cobb, Miss Georgine Murphy and Mr. John Devereux, Miss Louise Wood and Mr. Kurl Stevenson, Miss Helen Sproles and Mr. George Copeland, Miss Helena Hayward and Mr. Eddie Lutz, Miss Lela Mae Nelson and Mr. Alvin LeBlanc, Miss Rusty Hunt and Mr. Bill McClary, Miss Polly Cole and Mr. Dawson Kennedy, Miss Mildred Johnson and Mr. Boyd Arnold, Miss Hulda Tillman and Mr. John Renwick, Miss Diana Hollingsworth and Mr. Steve Gibson, Miss Winnifred Marony and Mr. Frankie Bono, Miss Nellie Breard and Mr. Jimmie Larkin, Miss Edith Nell Haynes and Mr. Leon McHenry, Miss Miriam McGimsey and Mr. Gordon Cain, Miss Minnie Cole and Mr. Billy Trimble, Miss Alyce Daniel and Mr. Jord Hamm, Miss Louise Anawaty and Mr. J. A. Norris, Miss Dorothy Bennett and Mr. Ulmer Doyle McDonald, Miss Dorothy Nolan and Mr. Brown, Miss Frances Browning and Mr. Bruff Folse, Miss Mildred Breard and Mr. Jack Nolan, Miss Francis Nolan and Mr. Ira Portis, Miss Hilda Ann Haire and Mr. George Haire, and Messrs. Edward Stroud, Julius Cahn, Jr., Newell Leadbetter, Risdon Wood, Eugene Paxton, William V. Turpin, Woodrow Barham, Gene Loftin, John M. Smith, H. J. Hundley, Earl Stevenson, Steve Gibson of Oak Ridge, John Wheatley of Oak Ridge, J. J. Fitch of Oak Ridge, Grey Barham of Oak Ridge; Earl Heckley, Marion Olmstead, Howard Howell, Bruff Folse of Bastrop, Frank Parker, Charles Fields, Henry C. Spillar of Lake Charles, Fluitt Hundley, Sam McClary, Truman Staples, Monroe Trimble, Bob Staples, Carter Bockel, E. C. Files of Oak Ridge, A. Dochla, J. C. Nettles, Jack Mosley, F. C. Eason, Frank Mullen, Mr. Gresham, Hilton Johnson and Benny Rogers, and many others.

Chaperons were Mrs. Charles G. Bennett, Mrs. W. C. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stevenson and Mr. Mires R. Jackson.

Monroe Will Be Mecca For Business And Professional Women During Coming Week

Business and Professional Women of the state Friday will close their desks, cover their typewriters and speed by motor, train and bus to Monroe for the annual state convention to be held in this city on the seventeenth of May. They will forget the problems that have created furrows in their brows during the past year and for three blissful days enjoy a brimming program arranged for their pleasure.

Monroe has so many forms of recreation and entertainment to offer that members of the committee found it rather difficult to concentrate on anything specific. However they knew that the program would not be complete without a boating party on the beautiful Ouachita. Sunday morning following breakfast at the club house, boats will plow up the river to picturesque Pine Top where luncheon will be enjoyed al fresco. The banquet Saturday night at Lakeside Country club will be a distinct feature of the convention program in addition to the social affairs at the handsome club house on Jackson street.

Delegates will register at the Monroe hotel Friday night at 6:30. The executive board will meet for supper at the club house at 8 o'clock, followed by an informal social evening. Business sessions will take up considerable time on Saturday with an al fresco luncheon at 12:30 in the gardens in the rear of the club house. The banquet Saturday night at 8 o'clock will be held at Lakeside Country club and promises to be an event of unusual brilliance. Judge Grace Miles of Independence, Kansas, juvenile membership chairman of the National Business and Professional Federation, will be a distinguished guest and the main speaker of the evening. Miss Ella Quigg of El Dorado, national officer, will also be a prominent figure. Dr. Mabel F. Wood will preside over the business sessions held at the club house.

Sunday morning, breakfast will be enjoyed on the beautiful roof garden of the Virginia hotel with a boating party and luncheon at Pine Top, climaxing the three days of pleasure.

Miss Haas Is Guest Of Honor In Glenn Home

In the melodious symphony of early summer, there is nothing lovelier than luncheon tables arranged for brides and presided over by gracious hostesses.

One luncheon table in particular, with Mrs. Jonas Selig, hostess, complimentary to Miss Shirley Haas, reflected the spirit of summer gardens in the flowers, in all the glorious pastel tints, glorifying the center of the lace draped oval table. Beautiful china and silver added to the perfection of table appointments.

Miss Haas wore on this occasion a charming white corduroy ensemble, with accessories of golden brown.

Following the serving of the five-course luncheon, bridge was introduced and held the interest of the guests during the afternoon hours. Present, in addition to Miss Haas, were Misses Bertha Marie Masur, Gerta Oberlander, Nanette Selig, Polly Heninger, Suzanne Hirsch, Fannie Wexler, Harriet Hirsch, Mildred Gotlieb, Mrs. Aubrey Haas, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. M. L. Gill, Mrs. L. Cohen, Mrs. Julius Cahn, Mrs. David Kaplan, Mrs. Sylvan Masur.

Miro Delphian Chapter Nears End Of Year

Mrs. W. A. Whitfield talked on the subject of "Poetry' at the regular meeting of the Miro Delphian chapter. She said in part:

Efforts to define poetry never cease but one point practically all commentators are agreed that poetry is an emotional record of experience.

Closely connected with mood or emotional content is the form of the poem. The essential musical element of our poetry is rythm. For the phrases in music we have the line of poetry, and we may say approximately, that the stanza corresponds to the musical form. The artistic purpose of meters, verses and stanzas is the same as that of various musical forms —to convey the musical or poetical idea better. The poet used sound to reinforce the mood of his thought.

The consideration which determine the poet's selection of a verse pattern or a stanza pattern are numerous. The pattern for a song, which is almost purely an expression of a mood, will not be the same as the pattern for a romance or an epic. Ballads are generally written in simple patterns, because they are compositions to be sung by the crowds.

We have poets who specialize in sound effects. Tennyson advised a young poet to "keep the geese out of the boat," by which he meant to avoid the hissings as much as possible.

Shelley's poetry is at once highly lyrical, profoundly philosophical and instinctive with an imagination of unusual power and originality. Wordsworth found a spirit of life in all things and so did Shelley, but shelley's spirit was something quite different from Wordsworth's.

Hardy's poetry is not popular with the masses, in spite of its simplicity, its beauty and its profound pity, for it is not only sad, but it offers none of the "repose," that compensation, which the human heart craves. But Hardy sees only an impersonal law or blind chance controlling human destiny.

It is, of course, with his poetic art which we are concerned, rather than his philosophy. But a man's philosophy is, after all, a determining force in his tyle. Browning's terse, vivid style, so packed with meaning, is an expression of his abundant spiritual life, and his unquenchable optimism.

Tennyson's style is equally characteristic of his outlook. He avoided the great issues of his day by concentrating on the admirable features of Victorian civilization. So his style clothes with beauty ideas which are true as far as they go, but which are not particularly deep.

Shelly was a creature of fire, and light and air, it was Shelly and his style is at once as clear as sunlight and almost as hard to grasp.

Hardy, like most of the Victorians, looked with a seeing eye upon the world of nature. Browning and Wordsworth saw a spirit meaning in natural law. Hardy found none. Like the old Greeks he saw man at the mercy of unthinking fate. Like those old Greeks, too, Hardy never sentimentalizes, never exclaims, "Oh the pity of it!" He tells the story and lets the pathos take care of itself."

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

Those of you who know of Gladys Rhodes' many accomplishments, will be surprised, we are willing to wager, at the way she can sing! You can't afford to miss her rendition of "Tea For Two," in the Noel Coward comedy "Hay Fever," which we are planning to present as our last offering of the season Tuesday, May 14, at 8:15 p.m. at the auditorium of the Central Grammar school.

Gladys has done a fine job in her interpretation of Clara, Judith's dresser and maid of all work. She is bound to draw a large and appreciative audience—in fact, we have heard countless people say, "I wouldn't miss seeing Gladys Rhodes for anything!"

As a decided contrast to the sloppy Clara, is Richard Greatham, the suave, polished diplomatist, whom Sorel has become enamoured of. The role is cleverly portrayed by John Daniel, who makes his initial appearance on the stage in Little Theater circles of Monroe. The same fine, sincere interest that John has shown whenever there was any hard work to be done for the group, is displayed in his interpretation of the role of Richard. Richard needs all the diplomacy he can muster to meet the erratic Blisses, and John carries on with a debonair air that is delightful.

Won't you help us have a full house for this play? Non-members are cordially invited to attend for a small consideration, and we particularly urge that you attend so that you will want to join the group for next season.

Haddad-Correro—

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Rose Lillian Correro, daughter of Mrs. A. Correro and Mr. Joseph Haddad, son of Mr. A. Haddad, Saturday morning, May the eleventh.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Haddad left for a honeymoon in Florida. Upon their return will be at home in this city, where Mr. Haddad is in business.

Marriage Of Miss King And Mr. John Matthews Is Lovely Event Of The Month Of May

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Henry King of Ferriday and Mr. John Matthews of Tallulah was a brilliant event of May the sixth and claimed the interest of friends from this section of the state.

The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Catholic church, with Reverend Father Plotz of Lake Providence, officiating.

Gorgeous Ascension lilies, luxuriant palms and southern smilax formed the background and banked the chancel rail and choir loft. While the guests were assembling a prenuptial concert was rendered by Miss Pauline Neal with Mrs. A. J. Hodges, soloist. The Bridal chorus from Lohengrin was used for the entrance of the bridal party walking down a candlelit aisle. The bridesmaids, Misses Martha Fleming and Lucille Chambers of Ferriday, Mrs. J. M. Doyle, Jr., of Marksville and Miss Charlie Henry of Natchez, Miss., wore exquisite poudre blue point de espirit with drop shoulders edged with ruching. Ruching also edged the long full skirts. Smart blue silk net veils were held in place with garlands of pink roses. They carried Colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and blue for-get-me-nots.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Godchaux, wore a bouffant model of pastel blue point de espirit with wide brimmed hat of the same color. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

The groomsmen were: Mr. Sam Pasterneck, Dr. John Harvey Johnson and Mr. John Lohan of Ferriday and Mr. Mandeville Kell of Tallulah.

The ushers were Mr. Robert Russell, Mr. Edward Price, Mr. William Mayer and Mr. Brenhem Crothers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore brides' flesh mousseline de soi, robe de style with a short cape of the same material edged with narrow ruffle. The wide flaring skirt was ruffled in graduated widths from hips to the hem line where it fell into a short train. A misty veil of illusion was worn close to the head with a circle of orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of Briercliff roses and valley lilies.

The bride and groom knelt in the dim candlelight to receive the benediction.

The bride changed her wedding raiment following the ceremony, for a smart brown boucle ensemble and left with Mr. Matthews for a honeymoon in Tennessee. They will be at home in Tallulah after the fifteenth of May.

Mrs. Matthews is a young woman of unusual charm and radiant personality. She is a graduate of Bellhaven college, Mississippi, and Lindenwood college, Missouri.

Women Have Found Repose In The Click Of Knitting Needles Through The Ages

If our knowledge of French history is correct, the women of revolutionary fame attended public executions and clicked their knitting needles to the accompaniment of the executioner's hatchet. The women of ancient Greece had their knitting looms and the women of today have their knitting needles. "If we could peek through the telescopes and see the inhabitants of Mars going about their daily tasks no doubt we'd find the women pearling one and dropping two.

It seems, according to the philosophers, the click of the needles lulls a woman's soul and soothes her nerves. Madame LaFarge and the other women of the French revolution counted their stitches as they counted the heads that fell from the bloody guillotine into the basket. The American revolution was fought to the click of the ladies' needles, and during the World war knitting amounted to almost a frenzy with women of the whole world.

In Monroe, knitting is second only to bridge as a feminine pastime. Women have found that knitting induces a mood of repose and what could be more important in these days of chance and change? Even the Prince of Wales finds peace from speechmaking and steeplechasing in knitting. If our dynamic First Lady were to have her needles taken from her who knows but what she would have to consult a psychiatrist. There's a creative urge in every human being. Fashioning sweaters and dresses from lovely colored zephyrs or making hooked rugs must be balm to a woman.

We all need quiet moments for reflecting, for dreaming. John Cowper Powys, in his little book, "The Art of Happiness," shows that man can sometimes catch woman dreaming. "The happy woman," he says, "must have scope to live to herself, which means the building up out of herself and the house she lives in of a subtle and highly stylized work of art—a work of art which surrounds her like a mother-of-pearl shell." According to this author, woman needs man in her microcosm, but she doesn't want him clumping around in her charmed circle.

If the present vogue for knitting means that in this fevered present women are finding repose, who shall frown on the practice?

SHOPPING FLASHES Picked Up Around Town

—By Irene—

HELLO, everybody! . . . There have been so many wonderful days to shop for . . . Baby week, Cotton week . . . Mother's day, and now, graduation! The Monroe shops are ready with the most sensible gifts you ever heard of and some you never heard of . . . for the boy and girl graduate.

ON MY way to shop yesterday morning, I noticed many vegetable gardens. Yes, full of plants drooping over from too much rain, and yet, the owners have spent countless hours as well as money to raise those vegetables. From actual experience, you can't raise vegetables as cheap as you can buy them at Jitney Jungles. Just stop a moment and figure your cost from seed, gardener and your time. The answer to everything good to eat at the cheapest possible prices are always on display in the Jitney Jungle stores. In fact, you'll find your own little garden in its freshest state there. You know, you always save a nickle on a quarter at Jitney Jungle's.

HAVE you noticed those lovely photographs in Stefan's window? . . . Oh! I mean Monroe's newest photographer! . . . "The master of portraits." There were many lovely pictures of Monroe mothers and Monroe babies. Say, graduates, if you want something really fine in portraits, Stefan has the new "moonlight" photographs (something Monroe has never had before) . . . and oh, so beautiful! . . . You know Stefan has experienced the thrill of photographing some of our most beautiful movie stars. This studio is located 108 St. John street.

MEN, women and the younger set! . . . Time to get out those linens! You know the Monroe Steam Laundry uses enough water to wash an elephant when they laundry your clothes. Every member of their organization is especially trained in handling fabrics, and believe me, your washables seem to take a new lease on life when they get that invigorating bath at the Monroe Steam Laundry. But, after you consider this Monroe institution has had more than 40 years' experience in handling fabrics and with all the necessary equipment, it would be more than just good judgment to trust your linen suits, swagger suits as well as your finer fabrics to them. Phone 102 and 103 . . . Their service is "Instant."

EUNICE Lee Beauty Shop scores again! . . . This shop is forever giving us a new and useful service in "Beauty" . . . She told me yesterday when I got one of those good looking Shelton oil waves, that she had purchased the Paramount Hair Dryers from California . . . Monroe has never had anything like it before in the beauty field, although every woman who has experienced that awful heat that goes along with the ordinary hair dryer has automatically dreamed of a possibility of one being designed by some smart manufacturer that would eliminate the hot air. This has at last been accomplished in the Paramount Hair Dryers. They will be installed within the next 10 days she tells me. Then, milady can have her hair dryed with all ease and coolness. Phone 2070 for an appointment.

OH graduates! . . . Go to Penney's . . . What a thrill that new material called "corded nets" will give you when you see how lovely it will drape over satin. Why its the last word in materials for graduation dresses in the white and you'll find the pastel shades for the baccalaureate sports. Priced at $1.49 yard, 38 to 40 inches wide. Yes, and that gorgeous crossed dyed matelasse crepe will make beautiful sport dresses priced $1.39 yard. By all means, see the new "Cloky" cloth for your cotton sport frock. Fast colors in pastels and white only 79c yard. Or, you'll find lovely frocks in the light and dark shades already made on Penney's second floor at $5.88. The men will find fine white linens for graduation for the low price of $7.77. There are so many appropriate graduation gifts in the Penney store also.

AFTER all, what graduate doesn't adore receiving "R. & A." jewelry for a gift. "Jewelry is a gift today and an heirloom tomorrow!" I found many shoppers in the R. & A. selecting lovely jewelry gifts for some lucky graduate. There are new compacts with smart dangling chains, diamonds in the streamline settings . . . ear clasps that are worn so much now . . . pens . . . and exquisite watches in all shapes. Belt buckles and clasp sets in that new brocaded green gold . . . Listen, men love initial rings, don't they, and R & A has a new shipment . . . See them first by all means. There are so many things I can't name them all . . . but a visit will not only prove economical, but most interesting.

I PURCHASED a new living room suite and rug and some new tables at the Dixie Bedding & Furniture company this past week. I never ran into such a bargain . . . really, out of the ordinary. You should shop there and prove to yourself that the furniture market in this section is headed toward . . . Dixie . . . I was simply fascinated with the new streamlined lawn and porch furniture . . . You will be too, when you see that they are so much less in price than most places. There is plenty of parking space and their salesmen are trained to help you in every selection.

HERE'S a tip, friends! . . . I saw some of Monroe's new graduates in Ferd Levi Stationery company yesterday admiring that array of lovely gifts . . . Should you not be able to decide just what Mary or Johnnie would like, why don't you ask at Levi's. This institution is always in close touch with the graduates because they supply so many items that they are forever needing . . . Here are some of the gifts that would delight their hearts . . . Portable typewriters which can be bought on easy terms . . . Personal stationery . . . kodak books . . . memory books . . . desk sets . . . desk light and loads of novelties that girls as well as boys delight in owning. By all means, give a fountain pen set . . . it's such a wanted and sensible gift.

THE new Dodge has a protection of "solid steel" for the motorist is one reason so many people are buying the 1935 Dodge this season. This fine automobile has beauty that even the lazy eye cannot miss. Beauty of unbroken roof line and flowing contour, to crown and complete the smooth streamlining of 1935 design. It has comfort of a new and desirable kind . . . a warmth in winter, a coolness in summer, an insulated quiet sturdy strength to serve you the whole year round. It seems that the "safety alone" would be enough to dictate the Dodge as your choice of a car. Phone 436 and ask for a demonstration . . . learn what a fine automobile Dodge offers. The Monroe Automobile Supply company has a splendid sales staff who will explain its every feature.

WELL, graduates, brides and others . . . seem to flock always to the Powder Box Beauty Shop . . . They have a number of beauty tricks there that are only found in shops of their quality. I saw a most becoming hair-dress Saturday from this shop . . . It actually changed the appearance of the person so that I hardly recognized her . . . Why don't you go to this shop and get one of the new "Personality" hair-dresses . . . one of their lovely permanents . . . and walk out a brand new person? . . . It is absolutely possible you know. Phone 64 . . . the Powder Box Beauty Shop is most gracious about their work.

SOCIETY

Friendship Is Cemented Among Club Women By Gracious Hospitality

A deep glow of satisfaction was experienced by 80 charming women of McGehee, Ark., over the reception they received at the hands of the Missouri Pacific Women's club of this city last Friday when they spent the entire day in Monroe. Arriving here at 9 o'clock in the morning they were whirled around the city by motor, visiting all the garden spots and places of civic interest. At noon luncheon was served at the Masonic temple.

The luncheon hour was delightful with the guests of honor and their hostesses gathered around the flower banked tables where conversation flowed freely during the serving of the delicious viands. In the absence of Mayor Arnold Bernstein, Mr. Henry Haas gave a welcoming address and Mrs. Ross White the response. A short address by Superintendent H. E. Rell was enjoyed, also the remarks made by Mrs. G. W. Bruce, president of the club. Mr. W. Wicker and Mr. W. D. Wyeth of McGehee, spoke of the pleasure derived from this friendly visit and the knitting of stronger bonds of friendship as a result. Mr. E. G. Waring and Mr. S. A. Moss also spoke briefly and stressed the need of unity and friendliness.

The program during the luncheon hour was diversified by a clever dance number featuring Mrs. Harry Rice and Mr. James Cavaness. Mr. Frank Campbell contributed a beautiful song number.

Mrs. S. A. Moss, past president of the Missouri Pacific Women's club, and one of the most generally beloved characters in club circles in this city, radiated friendliness and created the feeling of genuine hospitality that existed on this occasion.

The afternoon was spent in the comfortable club rooms where the following program was enjoyed with Mrs. George Bruce presiding:

The Why of a Missouri Pacific Women's club, Mrs. R. L. Armstrong.

Parliamentary law, Mrs. Virginia Newman.

Address, Mr. Fred Williamson.

Solo, Mrs. C. W. Ogeland.

Readings, Mrs. Emma Alexander.

Tap dance, Joyce Bernhardt.

Tap dance, Betty Ann Taylor.

Baby jazz dance, Janet Voorhies.

Group toe, Ida Davidson, Jackie Voorhies, Betty Jane Wilder, Pauline Breard, Mary Lynn O'Kelly, pupils of Armandine Renaud.

Solo, Mrs. P. J. Newman.

The day was brought to a glorious climax with a boating party on board the "Noe's Ark" with Mr. James A. Noe the host.

Among the visitors from McGehee were noted: Mrs. J. O. Lee, Mrs. Leo Malwar, Mrs. C. W. Kissel, Mrs. G. R. Cruse, Mrs. M. J. Burrell, Mrs. A. A. Voge, Mrs. W. O. McClellan, Mrs. J. M. Mercer, Mrs. C. Miro Delphian Chapter Nears End Of Year

Mrs. W. A. Whitfield talked on the subject of "Poetry" at the regular meeting of the Miro Delphian chapter. She said in part:

Efforts to define poetry never cease but one point practically all commentators are agreed that poetry is an emotional record of experience.

Closely connected with mood or emotional content is the form of the poem. The essential musical element of our poetry is rythm. For the phrases in music we have the line of poetry, and we may say approximately, that the stanza corresponds to the musical form. The artistic purpose of meters, verses and stanzas is the same as that of various musical forms—to convey the musical or poetical idea better. The poet used sound to reinforce the mood of his thought.

The consideration which determine the poet's selection of a verse pattern or a stanza pattern are numerous. The pattern for a song, which is almost purely an expression of a mood, will not be the same as the pattern for a romance or an epic. Ballads are generally written in simple patterns, because they are compositions to be sung by the crowds.

We have poets who specialize in sound effects. Tennyson advised a young poet to "keep the geese out of the boat," by which he meant to avoid the hissings as much as possible.

Shelley's poetry is at once highly lyrical, profoundly philosophical and instinctive with an imagination of unusual power and originality. Wordsworth found a spirit of life in all things and so did Shelley, but shelley's spirit was something quite different from Wordsworth's.

Hardy's poetry is not popular with the masses, in spite of its simplicity, its beauty and its profound pity, for it is not only sad, but it offers none of the "repose," that compensation, which the human heart craves. But Hardy sees only an impersonal law or blind chance controlling human destiny.

It is, of course, with his poetic art which we are concerned, rather than his philosophy. But a man's philosophy is, after all, a determining force in his tyle. Browning's terse, vivid style, so packed with meaning, is an expression of his abundant spiritual life, and his unquenchable optimism.

Tennyson's style is equally characteristic of his outlook. He avoided the great issues of his day by concentrating on the admirable features of Victorian civilization. So his style clothes with beauty ideas which are true as far as they go, but which are not particularly deep.

Shelly was a creature of fire, and light and air, it was Shelly and his style is at once as clear as sunlight and almost as hard to grasp.

Hardy, like most of the Victorians, looked with a seeing eye upon the world of nature. Browning and Wordsworth saw a spirit meaning in natural law. Hardy found none. Like the old Greeks he saw man at the mercy of unthinking fate. Like those old Greeks, too, Hardy never sentimentalizes, never exclaims, "Oh the pity of it!" He tells the story and lets the pathos take care of itself."

LITTLE THEATER NOTES

Those of you who know of Gladys Rhodes' many accomplishments, will be surprised, we are willing to wager, at the way she can sing! You can't afford to miss her rendition of "Tea For Two," in the Noel Coward comedy "Hay Fever," which we are planning to present as our last offering of the season Tuesday, May 14, at 8:15 p.m. at the auditorium of the Central Grammar school.

Gladys has done a fine job in her interpretation of Clara, Judith's dresser and maid of all work. She is bound to draw a large and appreciative audience—in fact, we have heard countless people say, "I wouldn't miss seeing Gladys Rhodes for anything!"

As a decided contrast to the sloppy Clara, is Richard Greatham, the suave, polished diplomatist, whom Sorel has become enamoured of. The role is cleverly portrayed by John Daniel, who makes his initial appearance on the stage in Little Theater circles of Monroe. The same fine, sincere interest that John has shown whenever there was any hard work to be done for the group, is displayed in his interpretation of the role of Richard. Richard needs all the diplomacy he can muster to meet the erratic Blisses, and John carries on with a debonair air that is delightful.

Won't you help us have a full house for this play? Non-members are cordially invited to attend for a small consideration, and we particularly urge that you attend so that you will want to join the group for next season.

Haddad-Correro—

Of interest to friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Rose Lillian Correro, daughter of Mrs. A. Correro and Mr. Joseph Haddad, son of Mr. A. Haddad, Saturday morning, May the eleventh.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Haddad left for a honeymoon in Florida. Upon their return will be at home in this city, where Mr. Haddad is in business.

Marriage Of Miss King And Mr. John Matthews Is Lovely Event Of The Month Of May

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Henry King of Ferriday and Mr. John Matthews of Tallulah was a brilliant event of May the sixth and claimed the interest of friends from this section of the state.

The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Catholic church, with Reverend Father Plotz of Lake Providence, officiating.

Gorgeous Ascension lilies, luxuriant palms and southern smilax formed the background and banked the chancel rail and choir loft. While the guests were assembling a prenuptial concert was rendered by Miss Pauline Neal with Mrs. A. J. Hodges, soloist. The Bridal chorus from Lohengrin was used for the entrance of the bridal party walking down a candlelit aisle. The bridesmaids, Misses Martha Fleming and Lucille Chambers of Ferriday, Mrs. J. M. Doyle, Jr., of Marksville and Miss Charlie Henry of Natchez, Miss., wore exquisite poudre blue point de espirit with drop shoulders edged with ruching. Ruching also edged the long full skirts. Smart blue silk net veils were held in place with garlands of pink roses. They carried Colonial bouquets of pink rosebuds and blue for-get-me-nots.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Henry Godchaux, wore a bouffant model of pastel blue point de espirit with wide brimmed hat of the same color. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

The groomsmen were: Mr. Sam Pasterneck, Dr. John Harvey Johnson and Mr. John Lohan of Ferriday and Mr. Mandeville Kell of Tallulah.

The ushers were Mr. Robert Russell, Mr. Edward Price, Mr. William Mayer and Mr. Brenhem Crothers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore brides' flesh mousseline de sol, robe de style with a short cape of the same material edged with narrow ruffle. The wide flaring skirt was ruffled in graduated widths from hips to the hem line where it fell into a short train. A misty veil of illusion was worn close to the head with a circle of orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bouquet of Briercliff roses and valley lilies.

The bride and groom knelt in the dim candlelight to receive the benediction.

The bride changed her wedding raiment following the ceremony, for a smart brown boucle ensemble and left with Mr. Matthews for a honeymoon in Tennessee. They will be at home in Tallulah after the fifteenth of May.

Mrs. Matthews is a young woman of unusual charm and radiant personality. She is a graduate of Bellhaven college, Mississippi, and Lindenwood college, Missouri.

Women Have Found Repose In The Click Of Knitting Needles Through The Ages

If our knowledge of French history is correct, the women of revolutionary fame attended public executions and clicked their knitting needles to the accompaniment of the executioner's hatchet. The women of ancient Greece had their knitting looms and the women of today have their knitting needles. "If we could peek through the telescopes and see the inhabitants of Mars going about their daily tasks no doubt we'd find the women pearling one and dropping two.

It seems, according to the philosophers, the click of the needles lulls a woman's soul and soothes her nerves. Madame LaFarge and the other women of the French revolution counted their stitches as they counted the heads that fell from the bloody guillotine into the basket. The American revolution was fought to the click of the ladies' needles, and during the World war knitting amounted to almost a frenzy with women of the whole world.

In Monroe, knitting is second only to bridge as a feminine pastime. Women have found that knitting induces a mood of repose and what could be more important in these days of chance and change? Even the Prince of Wales finds peace from speechmaking and steeplechasing in knitting. If our dynamic First Lady were to have her needles taken from her who knows but what she would have to consult a psychiatrist. There's a creative urge in every human being. Fashioning sweaters and dresses from lovely colored zephyrs or making hooked rugs must be balm to a woman.

We all need quiet moments for reflecting, for dreaming. John Cowper Powys, in his little book, "The Art of Happiness," shows that man can sometimes catch woman dreaming. "The happy woman," he says, "must have scope to live to herself, which means the building up out of herself and the house she lives in of a subtle and highly stylized work of art—a work of art which surrounds her like a mother-of-pearl shell." According to this author, woman needs man in her microcosm, but she doesn't want him clumping around in her charmed circle.

If the present vogue for knitting means that in this fevered present women are finding repose, who shall frown on the practice?

SHOPPING FLASHES
Picked Up Around Town
—By Irene—

HELLO everybody! . . . There have been so many wonderful days to shop for . . . Baby week, Cotton week . . . Mother's day, and now, graduation! The Monroe shops are ready with the most sensible gifts you ever heard of and some you never heard of . . . for the boy and girl graduate.

ON MY way to shop yesterday morning, I noticed many vegetable gardens. Yes, full of plants drooping over from too much rain, and yet, the owners have spent countless hours as well as money to raise those vegetables. From actual experience, you can't raise vegetables as cheap as you can buy them at Jitney Jungles. Just stop a moment and figure your cost from seed, gardener and your time. The answer to everything good to eat at the cheapest possible prices are always on display in the Jitney Jungle stores. In fact, you'll find your own little garden in its freshest state there. You know, you always save a nickle on a quarter at Jitney Jungle's.

HAVE you noticed those lovely photographs in Stefan's window? . . . Oh! I mean Monroe's newest photographer! . . . "The master of portraits." There were many lovely pictures of Monroe mothers and Monroe babies. Say, graduates, if you want something really fine in portraits, Stefan has the new "moonlight" photographs (something Monroe has never had before) . . . and oh, so beautiful . . . You know Stefan has experienced the thrill of photographing some of our most beautiful movie stars. This studio is located 108 St. John street.

MEN, women and the younger set . . . Time to get out those linens! You know the Monroe Steam Laundry uses enough water to wash an elephant when they laundry your clothes. Every member of their organization is especially trained in handling fabrics, and believe me, your washables seem to take a new lease on life when they get that invigorating bath at the Monroe Steam Laundry. But, after you consider this Monroe institution has had more than 40 years' experience in handling fabrics and with all the necessary equipment, it would be more than just good judgment to trust your linen suits, swagger suits as well as your finer fabrics to them. Phone 102 and 103 . . . Their service is "Instant."

OH graduates! . . . Go to Penney's . . . What a thrill that new material called "corded nets" will give you when you see how lovely it will drape over satin. Why its the last word in materials for graduation dresses in the white and you'll find the pastel shades for the baccalaureate sports. Priced at $1.49 yard, 38 to 40 inches wide. Yes, and that gorgeous crossed dyed matelasse crepe will make beautiful sport dresses priced $1.39 yard. By all means, see the new "Cloky" cloth for your cotton sport frock. Fast colors in pastels and white only 79c yard. Or, you'll find lovely frocks in the light and dark shades already made on Penney's second floor at $5.88. The men will find fine white linens for graduation for the low price of $7.77. There are so many appropriate graduation gifts in the Penney store also.

AFTER all, what graduate doesn't adore receiving "R. & A." jewelry for a gift. "Jewelry is a gift today and an heirloom tomorrow!" I found many shoppers in the R. & A. selecting lovely jewelry gifts for some lucky graduate. There are new compacts with smart dangling chains, diamonds in the streamline settings . . . ear clasps that are worn so much now . . . pens . . . and exquisite watches in all shapes. Belt buckles and clasp sets in that new brocaded green gold . . . Listen, men love initial rings, don't they, and R & A has a new shipment . . . See them first by all means. There are so many things I can't name them all . . . but a visit will not only prove economical, but most interesting.

I PURCHASED a new living room suite and rug and some new tables at the Dixie Bedding & Furniture company this past week. I never ran into such a bargain . . . really, out of the ordinary. You should shop there and prove to yourself that the furniture market in this section is headed toward . . . Dixie . . . I was simply fascinated with the new streamlined lawn and porch furniture . . . You will be too, when you see that they are so much less in price than most places. There is plenty of parking space and their salesmen are trained to help you in every selection.

HERE'S a tip, friends! . . . I saw some of Monroe's new graduates in Reed Levi Stationery company yesterday admiring that array of lovely gifts . . . Should you not be able to decide just what Mary or Johnnie would like, why don't you ask at Levi's. This institution is always in close touch with the graduates because they supply so many items that they are forever needing . . . Here are some of the gifts that would delight their hearts . . . Portable typewriters which can be bought on easy terms . . . Personal stationery . . . kodak books . . . memory books . . . desk sets . . . desk light and loads of novelties that girls as well as boys delight in owning. By all means, give a fountain pen set . . . it's such a wanted and sensible gift.

THE new Dodge has a protection of "solid steel" for the motorist is one reason so many people are buying the 1935 Dodge this season. This fine automobile has beauty that even the lazy eye cannot miss. Beauty of unbroken roof line and flowing contour, to crown and complete the smooth streamlining of 1935 design. It has comfort of a new and desirable kind . . . a warmth in winter, a coolness in summer, an insulated quiet sturdy strength to serve you the whole year round. It seems that the "safety alone" would be endugh to dictate the Dodge as your choice of a car. Phone 436 and ask for a demonstration . . . learn what a fine automobile Dodge offers. The Monroe Automobile Supply company has a splendid sales staff who will explain its every feature.

WELL, graduates, brides and others . . . seem to flock always to the Powder Box Beauty Shop . . . They have a number of beauty tricks there that are only found in shops of their quality. I saw a most becoming hair-dress Saturday from this shop . . . It actually changed the appearance of the person so that I hardly recognized her . . . Why don't you go to this shop and get one of the new "Personality" hair-dresses . . . one of their lovely permanents . . . and walk out a brand new person? . . . It is absolutely possible you know. Phone 64 . . . the Powder Box Beauty Shop is most gracious about their work.

Members Of Camel Club Are Hosts At A Dancing Party On Colorful Cherokee Terrace

Beautiful girls in diaphanous frocks and young men in white linens danced away the hours on the Cherokee Terrace of the Frances hotel Friday night to the lilting strains of Glenn Hudson's orchestra. Members of the Camel club were hosts on this occasion and, as customary, were responsible for one of the most delightful dancing parties of the season.

Mr. Earl Stevenson, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced the entertainers who staged a "snappy" floor show, not only for the dancers, but for the pleasure of those who watched from the sidelines. Miss Edna Nolan injected her own charming personality into two popular song numbers, "Moon Glow" and "An Ear Full of Music." An interpretative dance number, by Miss Eleanor Bennett and Jack Cornett, was greatly enjoyed, as was the tap dance number contributed by Miss Helen Adams. A song number, "Blue Moon," by Hilton Johnson, and a skillful acrobatic dance number by Miss Lorraine Peddy completed the show.

On the dance floor were noted: Miss Tib Kornegay and Mr. John Liles, Miss Eleanor Bennett and Mr. Jack Cornett, Miss Katherine Knox and Mr. Garland Knox, Miss Jo Combs and Mr. L. W. Melancon, Miss Rachel Haynes and Mr. Durwood Griffin, Miss Edna Nolan and Mr. Cecil Hill, Miss Mildred Cohen and Mr. R. D. Farr, Miss Jane Warren and Mr. Earl Cobb, Miss Georgine Murphy and Mr. John Devereux, Miss Louise Wood and Mr. Kurl Stevenson, Miss Helen Sproles and Mr. George Copeland, Miss Helena Hayward and Mr. Eddie Lutz, Miss Lela Mae Nelson and Mr. Alvin LeBlanc, Miss Rusty Hunt and Mr. Bill McClary, Miss Polly Cole and Mr. Dawson Kennedy, Miss Mildred Johnson and Mr. Boyd Arnold, Miss Hulda Tillman and Mr. John Renwick, Miss Diana Hollingsworth and Mr. Steve Gibson, Miss Winnifred Marony and Mr. Frankie Bono, Miss Nellie Breard and Mr. Jimmie Larkin, Miss Edith Nell Haynes and Mr. Leon McHenry, Miss Miriam McGimsey and Mr. Gordon Cain, Miss Minnie Cole and Mr. Billy Trimble, Miss Alyce Daniel and Mr. Jord Hamm, Miss Louise Anawaty and Mr. J. A. Norris, Miss Dorothy Bennett and Mr. Ulmer Doyle McDonald, Miss Dorothy Nolan and Mr. Brown, Miss Frances Browning and Mr. Bruff Folse, Miss Mildred Breard and Mr. Jack Nolan, Miss Francis Nolan and Mr. Ira Portis, Miss Hilda Ann Haire and Mr. George Haire, and Messrs. Edward Stroud, Julius Cahn, Jr., Newell Leadbetter, Risdon Wood, Eugene Paxton, William V. Turpin, Woodrow Barham, Gene Loftin, John M. Smith, H. J. Eason, Frank Mullen, Mr. Gresham, Hilton Johnson and Benny Rogers, and many others.

Chaperons were Mrs. Charles G. Bennett, Mrs. W. C. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stevenson and Mr. Mires R. Jackson.

Monroe Will Be Mecca For Business And Professional Women During Coming Week

Business and Professional Women of the state Friday will close their desks, cover their typewriters and speed by motor, train and bus to Monroe for the annual state convention to be held in this city on the seventeenth of May. They will forget the problems that have created furrows in their brows during the past year and for three blissful days enjoy a brimming program arranged for their pleasure.

Monroe has so many forms of recreation and entertainment to offer that members of the committee found it rather difficult to concentrate on anything specific. However they knew that the program would not be complete without a boating party on the beautiful Ouachita. Sunday morning following breakfast at the club house, boats will plow up the river to picturesque Pine Top where luncheon will be enjoyed al fresco. The banquet Saturday night at Lakeside Country club will be a distinct feature of the convention program in addition to the social affairs at the handsome club house on Jackson street.

Delegates will register at the Monroe hotel Friday night at 6:30. The executive board will meet for supper at the club house at 8 o'clock, followed by an informal social evening. Business sessions will take up considerable time on Saturday with an al fresco luncheon at 12:30 in the gardens in the rear of the club house. The banquet Saturday night at 8 o'clock will be held at Lakeside Country club and promises to be an event of unusual brilliance. Judge Grace Miles of Independence, Kansas, juvenile membership chairman of the National Business and Professional Federation, will be a distinguished guest and the main speaker of the evening. Miss Ella Quigg of El Dorado, national officer, will also be a prominent figure. Dr. Mabel F. Wood will preside over the business sessions held at the club house.

Sunday morning, breakfast will be enjoyed on the beautiful roof garden of the Virginia hotel with a boating party and luncheon at Pine Top, climaxing the three days of pleasure.

Miss Haas Is Guest Of Honor In Glenn Home

In the melodious symphony of early summer, there is nothing lovelier than luncheon tables arranged for brides and presided over by gracious hostesses.

One luncheon table in particular, with Mrs. Jonas Selig, hostess, complimentary to Miss Shirley Haas, reflected the spirit of summer gardens in the flowers, in all the glorious pastel tints, glorifying the center of the lace draped oval table. Beautiful china and silver added to the perfection of table appointments.

Miss Haas wore on this occasion a charming white corduroy ensemble, with accessories of golden brown.

Following the serving of the five-course luncheon, bridge was introduced and held the interest of the guests during the afternoon hours. Present, in addition to Miss Haas, were Misses Bertha Marie Masur, Gerta Oberlander, Nanette Selig, Folly Heninger, Suzanne Hirsch, Fannie Wexler, Harriet Hirsch, Mildred Gotlieb, Mrs. Aubrey Haas, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mrs. M. L. Gill, Mrs. L. Cohen, Mrs. Julius Cahn, Mrs. David Kaplan, Mrs. Sylvan Masur.

I Love Old Mothers

I love old mothers—mothers with white hair,
And kindly eyes, and lips grown softly sweet
With murmured blessings over sleeping babes.
There is something in their quiet grace
That speaks the calm of Sabbath afternoons;
A knowledge in their deep, unfaltering eyes
That far outstretches all philosophy.
Time, with caressing touch, about them weaves
The silver-threaded fairy shawl of age,
While all the echoes of forgotten songs
Seem joined to lend a sweetness to their speech.
Old mothers! As they pass with slow-timed step,
Their trembling hands cling gently to youth's strength.
Sweet mothers! As they pass, one sees again
Old garden walks, old roses and old loves.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER SPEAKS

(Nobody knows his identity. His race, creed and regiment are unknown. All we know about him is that he was a member of the A. E. F., and that countless mothers pray over his grave at Arlington. Each thinks he is her own boy who never came back from the war. We ran this poem last Armistice Day and are reprinting it for "Mother's Day," as the result of numerous requests. The whole world is talking war. Mothers are the real victims of war. Hush! The Unknown Soldier is speaking!)

"You think I've slept for years, but you are wrong,
For every Spring I hear the robin's song.
I see the flowers bloom and fade away,
And feel the tears of mothers as they pray.

"There is an Irish mother who believes
That I'm the warrior son for whom she grieves.
A Jewish mother names me in her prayers,
And other mothers think of me as theirs.

"I like to feel that I belong to all,
For I was a waif, abandoned in a hall.
I never knew a mother . . . think what joy
Is mine, when over me they cry "My boy!"

"And thus, in death, from pulsing life I steal
That which it stole from me, when life was real—
A mother's love, so tender and profound . . .
And tears that keep me warm the year around."

Sunday Will Be Day Of Rest For Every Mother

Part of the joy of Mother's day is lost if poor mother has to spend a lot of precious time in the kitchen, making ready a feast in her own honor, according to Mary Meade in the Chicago Tribune. She says:

For that reason we've been pondering over a rather festive Sunday dinner menu that may be flipped together in no time, and one that might be prepared by the children of the family, if they're old enough to be turned loose by themselves. Even father might lend a hand without having to break into his Sunday golf. (If your family seems qualified to turn out a simple dinner like this one, mothers, we'd suggest leaving the paper unfolded where some one will be sure to notice this tip).

For a first course we'd suggest having a clear, thin, sparkling soup. No, not one that means spending Saturday morning over a soup kettle, but one of the delicious ones that come in cans and ask only an opener and a sauce pan. Most youngsters over 12 can accomplish the trick of this, and of scrubbing celery and radishes to serve cold with it. They may even enjoy turning the radishes into pretty little roses and the celery into intriguing curls.

For meat, perhaps pan-broiled lamb chops. Oven-broiled ones may be a little harder for young cooks to manage. The way to pan-broil them is first to heat a heavy skillet exceedingly hot. Lay in the chops, cut about an inch thick, and brown them quickly on both sides. Then turn the heat down low and let them finish cooking. Inch thick chops will take between 10 and 15 minutes to cook. Season them with salt and pepper just before serving.

New potatoes are easy to cook, along with the chops. Put them in salted, boiling water with their skins right on and peel them in a jiffy after they're tender. With them, perhaps, new peas. Even the tiny tots can be pressed into service shelling peas, with a little judicious advice from the older children. One pound of unshelled peas will serve two or three people. Cook them in boiling water, with the lid off, so that they'll keep their nice green color, and serve them and the potatoes unadorned except for a little melted butter and salt and pepper.

For a salad, how about a crisp spring combination, with slices of rosy tomatoes on crisp shredded lettuce, and a topping of cool sliced cucumbers? Or maybe the head of the house has his own special salad, prepared in a bowl at the table. If so, here's a grand time to exhibit his skill.

For dessert nothing could be better than plain ice cream (via the corner drug store) in cheerful layers with crushed, slightly sweetened strawberries, served in tall parfait glasses or footed tumblers. Crunchy sweet wafers out of a package, and coffee, and there's a perfectly delightful dinner!

If your family does decide to take the cooking responsibility off your shoulders for the day, here's a bit of advice—unnecessary, perhaps, but worthy of repetition. Join into the spirit of things and, by all means, don't unless your advice actually is sought or some major complication, even stick your nose in the kitchen! Maybe the potatoes will be a little hard or the salad a little smeary, but any supervision on your part may turn the whole gay experience of "getting dinner for mother" into "having to help in the kitchen."

Fashionable Sands Will See Shorts, Slacks And Rompers

WHITE linen splashed with red and blue flags makes these beach shorts which Maggy Rouff designs for wear on fashionable sands this summer. The blouse lacing and belt are of blue yarn rope. A long cape of navy blue jersey completes the costume.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS.—(AP)—Harem trousers, childish rompers and sportsman's slacks will appear on the beaches in fashionable resorts this summer.

Designers of the new 1935 sand styles are out with novel and sometimes startling costume ideas for the hours smart women will spend on sun-drenched beaches.

Harem trousers are the most surprising and talked of among the lot. They are fashioned of soft wool jersey made in the swathed bifurcated cut which resembles the trousers once seen behind harem doors. They are worn with a little jersey brassiere leaving an expanse of epidermis exposed to view between.

Slacks Replace Pajamas

Slacks are being shown too for the hours of lolling on southern sands. They are made of linen, jersey or glazed chintz on a straight mannish cut and take the place of the pajamas which flapped their way to oblivion several seasons ago. A straight little mannish jacket over them and a bathing suit under them, will complete a beach outfit for many a fashionable woman this summer.

Shorts, trunks and brief knee-length trousers combined with a short sleeved blouse are big favorites in sun suits this year. They come in all kinds of fabrics—white cottons splashed with red and blue flags, gray flannel or henna linen—and are generally finished with such rustic accessories as straw belts and rope ties.

In Taffeta And Jersey

Romper bathing suits are something new this season. One designer makes them in taffeta with short sleeved tops and full romper lower sections. Other bathing suits are fashioned in the wool jersey so long a favorite for swimming. They are accompanied by many different gadgets to make them ready for lounging on beaches.

Swagger-backed, knee-length coats in yellow jersey, wrap around linen skirts which button at the side back, and divided skirts topped by short jackets are the accessories which accompany bathing suits.

The things worn on the head are a story in themselves. Schiaparelli makes beach "dunce caps" of glazed chintz printed to look like a newspaper. She makes other beach hats on a cartwheel design almost a yard in diameter, fashioned of braided paper strips.

Worth likes plain leather bands buckled around the head to keep stray locks in place, while other designers favor wide-brimmed beach hats in linen.

Sandals are generally simple, cork-soled affairs strapped to the feet with hemp or linen bands.

Fashionable Sands Will See Shorts,. Slacks And Rompers

WHITE linen splashed with red and blue flags makes these beach shorts which Maggy Rouff designs for wear on fashionable sands this summer. The blouse lacing and belt are of blue yarn rope. A long cape of navy blue jersey completes the costume.

By Adelaide Kerr

PARIS.—(AP)—Harem trousers, childish rompers and sportsman's slacks will appear on the beaches in fashionable resorts this summer.

Designers of the new 1935 sand styles are out with novel and sometimes startling costume ideas for the hours smart women will spend on sun-drenched beaches.

Harem trousers are the most surprising and talked of among the lot. They are fashioned of soft wool jersey made in the swathed bifurcated cut which resembles the trousers once seen behind harem doors. They are worn with a little jersey brassiere leaving an expanse of epidermis exposed to view between.

Slacks Replace Pajamas

Slacks are being shown too for the hours of lolling on southern sands. They are made of linen, jersey or glazed chintz on a straight mannish cut and take the place of the pajamas which flapped their way to oblivion several seasons ago. A straight little mannish jacket over them and a bathing suit under them, will complete a beach outfit for many a fashionable woman this summer.

Shorts, trunks and brief knee-length trousers combined with a short sleeved blouse are big favorites in sun suits this year. They come in all kinds of fabrics—white cottons splashed with red and blue flags, gray flannel or henna linen—and are generally finished with such rustic accessories as straw belts and rope ties.

In Taffeta And Jersey

Romper bathing suits are something new this season. One designer makes them in taffeta with short sleeved tops and full romper lower sections. Other bathing suits are fashioned in the wool jersey so long a favorite for swimming. They are accompanied by many different gadgets to make them ready for lounging on beaches.

Swagger-backed, knee-length coats in yellow jersey, wrap around linen skirts which button at the side back, and divided skirts topped by short jackets are the accessories which accompany bathing suits.

The things worn on the head are a story in themselves. Schiaparelli makes beach "dunce caps" of glazed chintz printed to look like a newspaper. She makes other beach hats on a cartwheel design almost a yard in diameter, fashioned of braided paper strips.

Worth likes plain leather bands buckled around the head to keep stray locks in place, while other designers favor wide-brimmed beach hats in linen.

Sandals are generally simple, cork-soled affairs strapped to the feet with hemp or linen bands.

Old Monroe Families United When Miss Speakman Weds Mr. William Wallace Cherry

Of interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Naomi Speakman, beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lloyd Speakman, and Mr. William Wallace Cherry, son of the late W. R. Cherry and Mrs. Cherry of Evansville, Indiana, which was solemnized Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m. at Grace Episcopal church, with Reverend E. F. Hayward, rector, officiating. In the dim recesses of Grace church, the impressive double ring ceremony was witnessed by relatives and a few friends.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a smart spring model of poudre blue Caltee crepe with accessories of pink, and a becoming wide-brimmed felt hat of pastel pink. A corsage of Pink rose buds completed her distinctive costume. A note of sentiment was expressed in the wearing of an antique heavily carved gold bracelet which has been in the family for many years and which had been worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day. Miss Kathleen Baldwin, a close friend since kindergarten days, was her only attendant. Miss Baldwin wore a lovely Caltee crepe ensemble of canary yellow, with corsage of cornflowers. Mr. George Hargus, business associate and college mate of Mr. Cherry, was groomsman. Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Cherry left by automobile for Hot Springs, where they will be guests of the Arlington hotel during their honeymoon. Upon their return, they will be at home at 118 South Fifth street.

The bride, who was born and reared in Monroe, possesses a lovely personality that has endeared her to a large coterie of friends. On the maternal side, she is decended from old Natchitoches families prominent in the affairs of its early history. She is the great, great grandfather of Joseph E'zernack and Josephine de la Cerda Le Fluer and a great niece of the late Odalie E'zernack, well known educator, writer and lecturer at the time of the establishment of Louisiana State Normal college. Mrs. Cherry is a graduate of the Monroe City high school and of Port Arthur college, Port Arthur, Texas, and is an accomplished musician. For the past two years she has been an assistant in the office of Mayor Arnold Bernstein.

Mr. Cherry is a prominent young business man, manager of the American National Insurance company, with offices in the Bernhardt building. His father, the late W. R. Cherry, was for years a well known figure in business circles. After graduation from Monroe City high school, Mr. Cherry attended Sewanee and Louisiana State university and is a charter member of Delta Sigma. His college fraternity is Kappa Sigma.

Buffet Supper In The Glenn Home Brings Few Congenials Together On Thursday Night

The supper hour Thursday found a congenial company of guests enjoying refreshing aperitifs in the flower banked home of Mr. and Mrs. Walker Glenn with Miss Shirley Haas and her fiance, Mr. David Snyder, the central figures. Miss Haas was a vibrant flame in crimson chiffon evening model with crimson slippers. Mrs. Glenn wore a lovely pink chiffon evening model.

The serving of delectable hors d'oeuvres and canapes in the reception suite was followed by the buffet supper in the dining room. The table, covered with handsome Venitian lace, was aglow with color, vibrating from the central epergne overflowing with pink carnations, orchid sweet peas and Briercliff roses. Silver compotes and salvers held a delicious variety of congealed salads, cold turkey, relishes, assorted sweetmeats and other viands. Coffee was poured by the hostess from a handsome silver service.

Accepting this gracious hospitality, in addition to Miss Haas and Mr. Snyder, were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kahn, Mrs. Charles Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. David Kaplan, Mr. and Mrs. Mires Jackson, Miss Suzanne Hirsch, Mr. Sol Snyder, Mr. Herbert Levy and Mr. Walker Glenn, Jr.

The regular meeting of the Ladies auxiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post No. 1809, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was held Thursday night at their club rooms on Hall and Harrison streets. The junior vice president, Mrs. Dick Daughtry, presided.

A report was made showing the auxiliary's quota for the tobacco fund had been raised and it was voted that the tobacco be purchased, each package stamped with the auxiliary stamp and mailed to the department hospital chairman, Mrs. Flora Wilson, of Alexandria, to be distributed on Sunday to the veterans at the Veterans hospital in Alexandria.

Plans were discussed for the approaching buddy poppy sale. After a short business session the meeting adjourned and the evening was devoted to entertainment, the post members being guests of the auxiliary for this occasion. Interesting games were enjoyed. Prizes went to Mrs. Sam Blackwell and Mr. Frank Pineda. Refreshments were served.

CHAPTER XIII

Millicent, holding herself flat against the floor boards of the automobile trying to make herself as nearly invisible as possible, held her breath and listened.

She heard someone moving about, heard the sound of a starting motor whirring into throbbing life. Then a car swept out in a streak of fast motion. She heard the clash of gears as someone shifted hurriedly from reverse to low, and then the roar of the motor and the car swept on down the driveway.

Lights were still on in the garage, but Millicent took a chance on discovery to find out who had taken out that car.

She jumped to the cement floor of the garage, ran to the door and looked down the driveway.

A cabriolet, very racy and stylish, which had been in the garage and which she had intuitively placed as belonging to Norman Happ, was gliding smoothly down the driveway. As it turned into the street Millicent noticed that it was running without lights.

Evidently someone else had decided to follow the woman in the black ermine coat.

Millicent ran to the two remaining cars—a big sedan and a coupe. There were ignition keys in the coupe, and she jumped behind the wheel, turned the switch and pressed the starter. The motor throbbed to life.

So nervous with excitement that her hands were trembling, Millicent backed the car out of the garage, put it in gear and raced out of the driveway.

After she hit the street she ran for several blocks without lights, trying to keep the cabriolet ahead of her in view, but she was unable to do so and finally switched on the lights.

With the headlights she was able to pick up the speeding cabriolet. Occasionally the tail light reflected a red gleam, or her headlights glittered back in dazzling brilliance from the windshield. Once or twice she glimpsed the big sedan ahead, which the cabriolet was undoubtedly following.

The cars were traveling at high speed and Millicent was forced to use all her skill as a driver to keep in the procession. She wondered if the driver of the cabriolet suspected that she was following him, wondered if that driver were, perhaps, Norman Happ. With the thought she felt once more that strange pounding of the pulse in her temple, a sudden surge of emotion which seemed to choke up her blood stream.

Whether he knew he was being pursued or not, the driver of the cabriolet did not deviate from his course.

Suddenly Millicent caught her breath with a gasp of apprehension.

The motor coughed, sputtered, died, coughed to life again, ran smoothly, then missed and stopped.

She depressed the throttle and got no results. She pulled out the choke and, for a moment, the car responded. Then once more it died. Her eyes rested apprehensively on the gasoline gauge. It showed that the tank was empty.

The car was barely moving now, and Millicent kicked out the clutch and piloted the car into the curb. The big sedan and the speed cabriolet had swept on out of sight.

Millicent was so mad she could have cried with sheer anger. The idea of leaving a car in a garage with an empty gasoline tank—of all the fool things for a person to do . . .! She supposed that would be Robert Case, brilliant, irresponsible, flighty. She looked at the registration certificate and found her surmise had been right. The car was registered in the name of Robert Case.

Millicent found herself thinking that Norman Happ never would have done anything like that. Norman Happ had a sense of responsibility His car would have been filled with gas, oil and water. The tires would have been in perfect condition—but the ignition key wouldn't have been in the lock. The very break that gave her an opportunity to use the car in the first place was in one way directly connected with her inability to accomplish anything with it after she had borrowed it.

Millicent switched off the lights, hesitated a moment, then locked the car and slipped the key container into the pocket of her fur coat.

It was a leather key container and there were seven or eight keys on it.

"Well," she said to herself, "I presume I've got to get back, and I guess there's no way for me to go except to walk."

There were no cabs cruising along these streets and, even had she encountered one, she had no money with which to pay for it.

With dogged determination she started walking back down the deserted avenue, her little heels clickclacking spiritedly upon the echoing cement.

Rain fell intermittently—at times in hissing torrents, at times in a cold drizzle. Millicent's skirt, ankles and shoes were soaking wet. Her fur coat glistened with moisture.

At length, weary, tired and chilled, she saw the big house looming before her. It was now only about 75 yards away and so tired was she that she was counting the steps.

Automobile headlights danced along the wet pavement, sending reflections shivering against the sides of the building. Instinctively she stepped to one side, flattening herself against a wrought-iron fence.

The machine, a cabriolet, passed her, this time running with lights. She could see the form of the driver, noticed that the collar of his overcoat was turned up around his neck and a soft felt hat pulled low on his forehead.

She heard the hiss of the tires on the wet pavement, then saw the red lights on the rear glare into brilliance as the driver applied brakes. The car swung wide for a turn and entered the driveway of Jarvis Happ's house.

Millicent forgot that she was tired. Whoever had followed the woman in the ermine coat had returned, and she wanted to talk with him. She speeded up her steps.

She was still in the driveway when she heard the sliding doors of the garage roll shut. After that there was no sound save that of her own feet on the wet driveway. She reached the garage and found the door was closed and locked. She looked up at the house. It was dark and somber, except for the dull brilliance of the hall windows in which the night lights were still burning.

It was then that Millicent realized the full extent of her predicament. She was locked out. It would be necessary to arouse someone in the household in order to enter the house.

She tried the garage door once more, then walked wearily around the house, wet feet squishing moisture at every step. She tried a side door. It, too, was locked. She tried the front door with no more success.

A wicker chair offered her aching feet some respite, and she dropped wearily into it, surveying the gloomy darkness of the porch, listening to the steady drip, drip of the rain as it dropped down from the eaves of the porch. She sat there for several minutes and then realized that she was taking cold. Somehow she must effect an entrance to the house.

She had circled around one side of the house. She wondered whether, perhaps, there might be a door on the other side. She was cold and cramped now, and fully appreciated the extent of her predicament. She walked around the house. There was one door and she tried it, but it, too, was locked. She came to the back of the house and suddenly caught her breath with a throbbing intake of quick hope.

There was a separate building at the back, the lower floor of which was used as a storage place for the gardener's tools. The upper floor was occupied, and she remembered hearing someone say it was where the chauffeur had his quarters.

Lights glowed from the windows of this upper room, and Millicent suddenly remembered Norman had told her Jarvis Happ had commissioned his chauffeur to shadow the woman in the black ermine coat when next she came to the house.

Harry Felding, then, must have been the one who drove that cabriolet. He had shadowed the woman in the black ermine coat, and doubtless knew where she lived. Perhaps Felding would give her the information. Perhaps he could let her into the house or find some place where she could spend the night—some place where she could divest herself of her wet garments.

She crossed the strip of yard, climbed the stairs which led to the upper room. Her knuckles knocked gently against the door. When there was no answer she knocked more loudly, and then, still receiving no response, she twisted the knob of the door.

The door was unlocked. She opened it and took a step through the doorway into the room.

The light streamed upon her features. For a moment her eyes were dazzled by the brilliance. Then they came to focus upon the room.

A startled scream was wrung from her pallid lips at the sight which met her eyes.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Judge Grace A. Miles of Independence, Kansas, will be an interesting visitor in the city during the Business and Professional Women's convention on May 17, 18 and 19. Judge Miles will be the guest speaker at the banquet Saturday night at Lakeside Country club.

Enpassant

Mrs. George Holmes, Mrs. Walter J. Meyer and Miss Violet Meyer spent a few delightful days in New Orleans last week. Returning home they motored through the beautiful Teche country.

Miss May Read is spending the week-end in New Orleans with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Wilks, who is receiving medical attention in Touro infirmary.

Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mrs. Frederick Millsaps, Mrs. William Gladney and Mrs. Joseph Washburn will form a congenial party motoring to Shreveport on Tuesday for the golf and bridge tournament at the Shreveport Country club. Mrs. A. L. Harrington will also motor over with a party of friends.

A delightful musical offering for Mother's day will be the chorus of male voices broadcast from Loyola station at New Orleans tonight at 10 o'clock. Members of the Louisiana Federated Music clubs are sponsoring this program.

Gustav Freden Will Address Men's Club

Dr. Gustav Freden, dean of the department of education, at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston, will address the members of the Ouachita Business Men's club Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the civil court room at the courthouse. The professor's theme will be "Applying Mental Hygiene to Everyday Business."

Doctor Freden's message is intended to instruct and broaden the business vision of his hearers, according to those who heard a similar lecture delivered before a Shreveport club recently.

Unique invitations have been sent to all members of the club urging them to bring from three to five business men each to hear the speaker and enjoy the hospitality of the club.

The lecture will be open to the public.

A total of $27,267,600 was paid to France for the Louisiana Purchase. This amount included accrued interest and payment of the French spoliation claims.

MOTHER'S DAY

Whatever mercenary and selfish thoughts may animate our people in their usual outlook on life, yet a very tender motive on their part has created the annual observance of Mother's Day. Through all the coarsening experiences of life, men preserve this warm and generous affection. It is a kind of beacon star in their lives, guiding them toward the better pathways.

CHAPTER XIII

Millicent, holding herself flat against the floor boards of the automobile trying to make herself as nearly invisible as possible, held her breath and listened.

She heard someone moving about, heard the sound of a starting motor whirring into throbbing life. Then a car swept out in a streak of fast motion. She heard the clash of gears as someone shifted hurriedly from reverse to low, and then the roar of the motor and the car swept on down the driveway.

Lights were still on in the garage, but Millicent took a chance on discovery to find out who had taken out that car.

She jumped to the cement floor of the garage, ran to the door and looked down the driveway.

A cabriolet, very racy and stylish, which had been in the garage and which she had intuitively placed as belonging to Norman Happ, was gliding smoothly down the driveway. As it turned into the street Millicent noticed that it was running without lights.

Evidently someone else had decided to follow the woman in the black ermine coat.

Millicent ran to the two remaining cars—a big sedan and a coupe. There were ignition keys in the coupe, and she jumped behind the wheel, turned the switch and pressed the starter. The motor throbbed to life.

So nervous with excitement that her hands were trembling, Millicent backed the car out of the garage, put it in gear and raced out of the driveway.

After she hit the street she ran for several blocks without lights, trying to keep the cabriolet ahead of her in view, but she was unable to do so and finally switched on the lights.

With the headlights she was able to pick up the speeding cabriolet. Occasionally the tail light reflected a red gleam, or her headlights glittered back in dazzling brilliance from the windshield. Once or twice she glimpsed the big sedan ahead, which the cabriolet was undoubtedly following.

The cars were traveling at high speed and Millicent was forced to use all her skill as a driver to keep in the procession. She wondered if the driver of the cabriolet suspected that she was following him, wondered if that driver were, perhaps, Norman Happ. With the thought she felt once more that strange pounding of the pulse in her temple, a sudden surge of emotion which seemed to choke up her blood stream.

Whether he knew he was being pursued or not, the driver of the cabriolet did not deviate from his course.

Suddenly Millicent caught her breath with a gasp of apprehension. The motor coughed, sputtered, died, coughed to life again, ran smoothly, then missed and stopped.

She depressed the throttle and got no results. She pulled out the choke and, for a moment, the car responded. Then once more it died. Her eyes rested apprehensively on the gasoline gauge. It showed that the tank was empty.

The car was barely moving now, and Millicent kicked out the clutch and piloted the car into the curb. The big sedan and the speed cabriolet had swept on out of sight.

Millicent was so mad she could have cried with sheer anger. The idea of leaving a car in a garage with an empty gasoline tank—of all the fool things for a person to do . . .! She supposed that would be Robert Case, brilliant, irresponsible, flighty. She looked at the registration certificate and found her surmise had been right. The car was registered in the name of Robert Case.

Millicent found herself thinking that Norman Happ never would have done anything like that. Norman Happ had a sense of responsibility His car would have been filled with gas, oil and water. The tires would have been in perfect condition—but the ignition key wouldn't have been in the lock. The very break that gave her an opportunity to use the car in the first place was in one way directly connected with her inability to accomplish anything with it after she had borrowed it.

Millicent switched off the lights, hesitated a moment, then locked the car and slipped the key container into the pocket of her fur coat.

It was a leather key container and there were seven or eight keys on it.

"Well," she said to herself, "I presume I've got to get back, and I guess there's no way for me to go except to walk."

There were no cabs cruising along these streets and, even had she encountered one, she had no money with which to pay for it.

With dogged determination she started walking back down the deserted avenue, her little heels clickclacking spiritedly upon the echoing cement.

Rain fell intermittently—at times in hissing torrents, at times in a cold drizzle. Millicent's skirt, ankles and shoes were soaking wet. Her fur coat glistened with moisture.

At length, weary, tired and chilled, she saw the big house looming before her. It was now only about 75 yards away and so tired was she that she was counting the steps.

Automobile headlights danced along the wet pavement, sending reflections shivering against the sides of the building. Instinctively she stepped to one side, flattening herself against a wrought-iron fence.

The machine, a cabriolet, passed her, this time running with lights. She could see the form of the driver, noticed that the collar of his overcoat was turned up around his neck and a soft felt hat pulled low on his forehead.

She heard the hiss of the tires on the wet pavement, then saw the red lights on the rear glare into brilliance as the driver applied brakes. The car swung wide for a turn and entered the driveway of Jarvis Happ's house.

Millicent forgot that she was tired. Whoever had followed the woman in the ermine coat had returned, and she wanted to talk with him. She speeded up her steps.

She was still in the driveway when she heard the sliding doors of the garage roll shut. After that there was no sound save that of her own feet on the wet driveway. She reached the garage and found the door was closed and locked. She looked up at the house. It was dark and somber, except for the dull brilliance of the hall windows in which the night lights were still burning.

It was then that Millicent realized the full extent of her predicament. She was locked out. It would be necessary to arouse someone in the household in order to enter the house.

She tried the garage door once more, then walked wearily around the house, wet feet squishing moisture at every step. She tried a side door. It, too, was locked. She tried the front door with no more success.

A wicker chair offered her aching feet some respite, and she dropped wearily into it, surveying the gloomy darkness of the porch, listening to the steady drip, drip of the rain as it dropped down from the eaves of the porch. She sat there for several minutes and then realized that she was taking cold. Somehow she must effect an entrance to the house.

She had circled around one side of the house. She wondered whether, perhaps, there might be a door on the other side. She was cold and cramped now, and fully appreciated the extent of her predicament. She walked around the house. There was one door and she tried it, but it, too, was locked. She came to the back of the house and suddenly caught her breath with a throbbing intake of quick hope.

There was a separate building at the back, the lower floor of which was used as a storage place for the gardener's tools. The upper floor was occupied, and she remembered hearing someone say it was where the chauffeur had his quarters.

Lights glowed from the windows of this upper room, and Millicent suddenly remembered Norman had told her Jarvis Happ had commissioned his chauffeur to shadow the woman in the black ermine coat when next she came to the house.

Harry Felding, then, must have been the one who drove that cabriolet. He had shadowed the woman in the black ermine coat, and doubtless knew where she lived. Perhaps Felding would give her the information. Perhaps he could let her into the house or find some place where she could spend the night—some place where she could divest herself of her wet garments.

She crossed the strip of yard, climbed the stairs which led to the upper room. Her knuckles knocked gently against the door. When there was no answer she knocked more loudly, and then, still receiving no response, she twisted the knob of the door.

The door was unlocked. She opened it and took a step through the doorway into the room.

The light streamed upon her features. For a moment her eyes were dazzled by the brilliance. Then they came to focus upon the room.

A startled scream was wrung from her pallid lips at the sight which met her eyes.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Judge Grace A. Miles of Independence, Kansas, will be an interesting visitor in the city during the Business and Professional Women's convention on May 17, 18 and 19. Judge Miles will be the guest speaker at the banquet Saturday night at Lakeside Country club.

Enpassant

Mrs. George Holmes, Mrs. Walter J. Meyer and Miss Violet Meyer spent a few delightful days in New Orleans last week. Returning home they motored through the beautiful Teche country.

Miss May Read is spending the week-end in New Orleans with her sister, Mrs. J. S. Wilks, who is receiving medical attention in Touro infirmary.

Mrs. Travis Oliver, Mrs. Frederick Millsaps, Mrs. William Gladney and Mrs. Joseph Washburn will form a congenial party motoring to Shreveport on Tuesday for the golf and bridge tournament at the Shreveport Country club. Mrs. A. L. Harrington will also motor over with a party of friends.

A delightful musical offering for Mother's day will be the chorus of male voices broadcast from Loyola station at New Orleans tonight at 10 o'clock. Members of the Louisiana Federated Music clubs are sponsoring this program.

Gustav Freden Will Address Men's Club

Dr. Gustav Freden, dean of the department of education, at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston, will address the members of the Ouachita Business Men's club Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the civil court room at the courthouse. The professor's theme will be "Applying Mental Hygiene to Everyday Business."

Doctor Freden's message is intended to instruct and broaden the business vision of his hearers, according to those who heard a similar lecture delivered before a Shreveport club recently.

Unique invitations have been sent to all members of the club urging them to bring from three to five business men each to hear the speaker and enjoy the hospitality of the club.

The lecture will be open to the public.

A total of $27,267,600 was paid to France for the Louisiana Purchase. This amount included accrued interest and payment of the French spoliation claims.

Season Of Recitals Is Now At Hand With Mrs. Davis The First To Present Her Pupils

MOTHER'S DAY

Whatever mercenary and selfish thoughts may animate our people in their usual outlook on life, yet a very tender motive on their part has created the annual observance of Mother's Day. Through all the coarsening experiences of life, men preserve this warm and generous affection. It is a kind of beacon star in their lives, guiding them toward the better pathways.

Pulsing Plot, Gay Tunes In "George White's '35 Scandals"

Ten Stars In 'Musical' At Paramount

200 Dancing Beauties, New Songs Highlight New Smash-Hit

SLIP us a ton of dynamite adjectives! Then maybe we can do justice to the scintillant gayety, "George White's 1935 Scandals," which plays for the last times today at the Paramount theater.

Here's the last triumphant word in screen entertainment, a splendid sunburst of comedy and music that sustains the reputation of George White as prince of showmen.

It more than surpases expectations, and is just about 365 times more brilliant than its "Scandal" sister of last year.

The second annual edition, sponsored by Fox Films, has everything. Here are ten top-rung stars: Alice Faye, James Dunn, Ned Sparks, Lyda Roberti, Cliff Edwards, Arline Judge, Eleanor Powell, Emma Dunn, Benny Rubin and George White, who conceived, produced and directed the entire show.

Brilliantly kaleidoscopic in their 1,000 eye-teasing costumes designed by Charles LeMaire (he designs for Paris, besides for Broadway's shows) are the 200 glamorous dancing beauties.

The story, strong enough to stand alone, concerns a producer who stumbles on home-grown talent in a tank town, whisks them off to Broadway and Hollywood stardom, and when the bright lights get too strong for simple romance, whisks back home a pair of lovers.

Among the 200 beauties are 30 girls who won beauty contests. One and all were picked, groomed and trained by White, whose reputation for selecting beauties and skyrocketing them to stardom needs no mention here.

Opulence succeeds opulence in the show. The dancing numbers delight the eye! The humor is infectious! The story engrossing!

But that's not all! For look, here are six bright lilting songs, already being hummed throughout town.

What songs! They are by Jack Yellen, Cliff Friend and Joseph Meyer with additional lyrics by Herb Magidson; and are called, "According to the Moonlight," "It's An Old Southern Custom," "Hunkadola," 'Oh, I Didn't Know (You'd Get That Way)," 'I was Born Too Late," and "I Got Shoes You Got Shoeies."

"George White's 1935 Scandals" is super-entertainment!

It sparkles with the joy of living, and delights young and old!

"GOIN' TO TOWN"

As Cleo Borden, a dance hall girl, Mae West decides after inheriting a cattle rustler's fortune that she wants to be a lady so she can win the attentions of a certain man.

That, in a sentence, is the whole plot of Mae West's newest, now called "Goin' To Town," but filmed—for publicity purposes—as "I'm A Lady Now." With her considerable millions, the over-dressed Cleo starts out to get into society, which she accomplishes by marrying, on a business basis, a young socialite whose bankroll is badly dented.

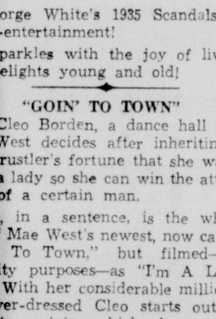

Eventually, of course, she wins the man (Paul Cavanaugh) and discovers to her great joy that he is a titled Englishman. Whereupon she actually becomes a "lady."

Like previous West films, characters, situations and dialog are but props for the star herself. If it were not for Mae, there wouldn' be any movie.

Pictorial Review Of The Week's Screen Attractions At Two Local Theater Houses

Richard Barthelmess, above left, is the star at the Capitol theater today, appearing in Paramount's "4 Hours to Live." The story of an escaped convict who steals time away from the hangman to destroy the man that has squealed on him, the picture is said to be a thriller. Above, in the center, are Alice Faye, James Dunn and two of the 200 dancing girls who appear in the Fox musical film, "George White's 1935 Scandals," showing at the Paramount for the last times today. At the right above are Elliott Humphrey, director of the Seeing Eye Foundation, and Cary Grant, who plays the lead with Myrna Loy in "Wings in the Dark," showing at the Capitol on Thursday. Mr. Humphrey occupied a technical position in the filming of Paramount's exciting story of aviation. The dog "Lightning" also occupies an important part in the picture.

Thrill Film Now Playing At Capitol

Barthelmess' Dramatic Portrayal Highspot Of '4 Hours To Kill'

SOMETHING in the nature of a revelation awaits you at the Capitol theater where Paramount's "Four Hours to Kill!" now occupies the screen. In the starring role is Richard Barthelmess, one of the most competent actors to survive the calamitous advent of the talkies, but such a Barthelmess as you have never seen before!

Cast as Tony Mako, the hard, cruel and ruthless desperado who steals time away from the noose to get the man who squealed on him, Barthelmess renders a screen portrait that is a breath-taking contrast to his usual suave and amiable performances. It is the most powerful and emotionally dramatic role the screen has ever granted him, and Barthelmess plays it with such insight that you wonder why the screen was so long in giving him his chance.

Adapted from the hit play, "Small Miracle," "Four Hours to Kill!" is a fascinating cross-section of the melodrama that occurs in a New York theater, where a criminal lurks in hiding for his victim.

Against the background of the criminal's story, other minor dramas are played. One is that of the rich woman who plans to elope with her sweetheart; another is that of the checkroom boy who has stolen and faces jail. And, for comedy relief, we have the expectant father, also instrumental in bringing the story to its climax.

The drama of all these life stories is focussed on that of Barthelmess when he steps from his hiding place to shoot down the man he hates most in the world.

Inspired directing by Mitchell Leisen, one of the most able and imaginative of Hollywood's younger directors, undoubtedly has much to do with the results in "Four Hours to Kill!" And the supporting cast, headed by Joe Morrison, Helen Mack, Gertrude Michael, Roscoe Karns and Ray Milland are superbly fitted to their roles.

The poet laureate of England holds his job for life and is not affected by any change in political parties.

Hollywood Close-Ups

By DAN THOMAS, NEA STAFF WRITER

"For the first time in my life I'm being treated like a regular guy—and I like it."

Prince Sigvard Bernadotte, grandson of the king of Sweden, was speaking, with just a trace of an accent marking his words.

The prince, who renounced his claim to the throne to marry a commoner, now is working in a minor capacity in the movies. He's an assistant director on "Tarzan and the Vampires."

And he's treated like an assistant director, not a prince. He has to be on the job in the morning fully half an hour before the director or any of the players, to make sure everything is ready for the shooting to start the moment they step on the set. He remains at the studio an hour after they have gone home, preparing for the next day's work.

The entire company addresses him as plain "Siggie." He eats lunch perched on a stool in the studio commissary, or sitting on the floor of the set with some of the crew.

In fact, as far as Hollywood is concerned, he isn't a prince. That's exactly what he wants. He no longer is a prince in his own mind either.

Not Real London, But—

Where Jack London alive today he might not recognize his own story in the screen version of "The Call of the Wild." The human element has been built up too much. But he would admit that it's a darn good picture. And, after all, you can't make players like Clark Gable, Loretta Young, and Jack Oakie secondary to a dog.

Previewed here a few nights ago, the film got a deservedly enthusiastic response from as many persons as could crowd into the theater. They liked its speed, its drama, and the fact that it didn't wind up with the usual clinch. It will get that same response everywhere unless I miss my guess.

Bridge Champions

There's no argument now as to who are Hollywood's leading bridge addicts. They are Ralph Bellamy and his wife. The other night they were playing bridge when a water pipe burst and literally flooded their living room. While Mrs. Bellamy was calling a plumber, the water caused a short circuit and the lights went out. So, while they were waiting for the plumber to arrive, they retired to the garage and finished the rubber by the lights from Ralph's car.

Nancy Carroll and George Murphy will be teamed again for "Song of the Damned." This will be their third film together, but the first in which both will be called upon to dance.

Pulsing Plot, Gay Tunes In "George White's '35 Scandals"

200 Dancing Beauties, New Songs Highlight New Smash-Hit

SLIP us a ton of dynamite adjectives! Then maybe we can do justice to the scintillant gayety, "George White's 1935 Scandals," which plays for the last times today at the Paramount theater.

Here's the last triumphant word in screen entertainment, a splendid sunburst of comedy and music that sustains the reputation of George White as prince of showmen.

It more than surpases expectations, and is just about 365 times more brilliant than its "Scandal" sister of last year.

The second annual edition, sponsored by Fox Films, has everything. Here are ten top-rung stars: Alice Faye, James Dunn, Ned Sparks, Lyda Roberti, Cliff Edwards, Arline Judge, Eleanor Powell, Emma Dunn, Benny Rubin and George White, who conceived, produced and directed the entire show.

Brilliantly kaleidoscopic in their 1,000 eye-teasing costumes designed by Charles LeMaire (he designs for Paris, besides for Broadway's shows) are the 200 glamorous dancing beauties.

The story, strong enough to stand alone, concerns a producer who stumbles on home-grown talent in a tank town, whisks them off to Broadway and Hollywood stardom, and when the bright lights get too strong for simple romance, whisks back home a pair of lovers.

Among the 200 beauties are 30 girls who won beauty contests. One and all were picked, groomed and trained by White, whose reputation for selecting beauties and skyrocketing them to stardom needs no mention here.

Opulence succeeds opulence in the show. The dancing numbers delight the eye! The humor is infectious! The story engrossing!

But that's not all! For look, here are six bright lilting songs, already being hummed throughout town.

What songs! They are by Jack Yellen, Cliff Friend and Joseph Meyer with additional lyrics by Herb Magidson, and are called, "According to the Moonlight," "It's An Old Southern Custom," "Hunkadola," 'Oh, I Didn't Know (You'd Get That Way)," 'I was Born Too Late," and "I Got Shoes You Got Shoeies."

"George White's 1935 Scandals" is super-entertainment!

It sparkles with the joy of living, and delights young and old!

"GOIN' TO TOWN"

As Cleo Borden, a dance hall girl, Mae West decides after inheriting a cattle rustler's fortune that she wants to be a lady so she can win the attentions of a certain man.

That, in a sentence, is the whole plot of Mae West's newest, now called "Goin' To Town," but filmed—for publicity purposes—as "I'm A Lady Now." With her considerable millions, the over-dressed Cleo starts out to get into society, which she accomplishes by marrying, on a business basis, a young socialite whose bankroll is badly dented.

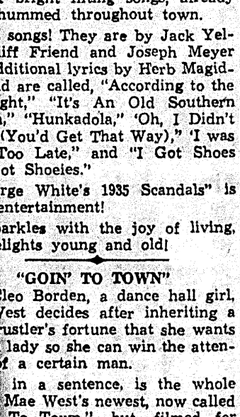

Eventually, of course, she wins the man (Paul Cavanaugh) and discovers to her great joy that he is a titled Englishman. Whereupon she actually becomes a "lady."

Like previous West films, characters, situations and dialog are but props for the star herself. If it were not for Mae, there wouldn' be any movie.

Pictorial Review Of The Week's Screen Attractions At Two Local Theater Houses

Richard Barthelmess, above left, is the star at the Capitol theater today, appearing in Paramount's "4 Hours to Live." The story of an escaped convict who steals time away from the hangman to destroy the man that has squealed on him, the picture is said to be a thriller. Above, in the center, are Alice Faye, James Dunn and two of the 200 dancing girls who appear in the Fox musical film, "George White's 1935 Scandals," showing at the Paramount for the last times today. At the right above are Elliott Humphrey, director of the Seeing Eye Foundation, and Cary Grant, who plays the lead with Myrna Loy in "Wings in the Dark," showing at the Capitol on Thursday. Mr. Humphrey occupied a technical position in the filming of Paramount's exciting story of aviation. The dog "Lightning" also occupies an important part in the picture.

Thrill Film Now Playing At Capitol

SOMETHING in the nature of a revelation awaits you at the Capitol theater where Paramount's "Four Hours to Kill!" now occupies the screen. In the starring role is Richard Barthelmess, one of the most competent actors to survive the calamitous advent of the talkies, but such a Barthelmess as you have never seen before!

Cast as Tony Mako, the hard, cruel and ruthless desperado who steals time away from the noose to get the man who squealed on him, Barthelmess renders a screen portrait that is a breath-taking contrast to his usual suave and amiable performances. It is the most powerful and emotionally dramatic role the screen has ever granted him, and Barthelmess plays it with such insight that you wonder why the screen was so long in giving him his chance.

Adapted from the hit play, "Small Miracle," "Four Hours to Kill!" is a fascinating cross-section of the melodrama that occurs in a New York theater, where a criminal lurks in hiding for his victim.

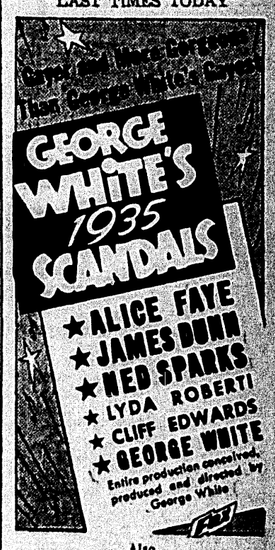

Against the background of the criminal's story, other minor dramas are played. One is that of the rich woman who plans to elope with her sweetheart; another is that of the checkroom boy who has stolen and faces jail. And, for comedy relief, we have the expectant father, also instrumental in bringing the story to its climax.

The drama of all these life stories is focussed on that of Barthelmess when he steps from his hiding place to shoot down the man he hates most in the world.

Inspired directing by Mitchell Leisen, one of the most able and imaginative of Hollywood's younger directors, undoubtedly has much to do with the results in "Four Hours to Kill!" And the supporting cast, headed by Joe Morrison, Helen Mack, Gertrude Michael, Roscoe Karns and Ray Milland are superbly fitted to their roles.

The poet laureate of England holds his job for life and is not affected by any change in political parties.

By DAN THOMAS, NEA STAFF WRITER

"For the first time in my life I'm being treated like a regular guy—and I like it."

Prince Sigvard Bernadotte, grandson of the king of Sweden, was speaking, with just a trace of an accent marking his words.

The prince, who renounced his claim to the throne to marry a commoner, now is working in a minor capacity in the movies. He's an assistant director on "Tarzan and the Vampires."

And he's treated like an assistant director, not a prince. He has to be on the job in the morning fully half an hour before the director or any of the players, to make sure everything is ready for the shooting to start the moment they step on the set. He remains at the studio an hour after they have gone home, preparing for the next day's work.

The entire company addresses him as plain "Siggie." He eats lunch perched on a stool in the studio commissary, or sitting on the floor of the set with some of the crew.

In fact, as far as Hollywood is concerned, he isn't a prince. That's exactly what he wants. He no longer is a prince in his own mind either.

Not Real London, But—

Where Jack London alive today he might not recognize his own story in the screen version of "The Call of the Wild." The human element has been built up too much. But he would admit that it's a darn good picture. And, after all, you can't make players like Clark Gable, Loretta Young, and Jack Oakie secondary to a dog.

Previewed here a few nights ago, the film got a deservedly enthusiastic response from as many persons as could crowd into the theater. They liked its speed, its drama, and the fact that it didn't wind up with the usual clinch. It will get that same response everywhere unless I miss my guess.

Bridge Champions

There's no argument now as to who are Hollywood's leading bridge addicts. They are Ralph Bellamy and his wife. The other night they were playing bridge when a water pipe burst and literally flooded their living room. While Mrs. Bellamy was calling a plumber, the water caused a short circuit and the lights went out. So, while they were waiting for the plumber to arrive, they retired to the garage and finished the rubber by the lights from Ralph's car.

Nancy Carroll and George Murphy will be teamed again for "Song of the Damned." This will be their third film together, but the first in which both will be called upon to dance.

Victor Schirtzinger, Grace Moore's favorite director, always carries an ivory baton with him when he's working. It was given to him by Victor Herbert.

A Page for BUILDERS and HOME OWNERS!

LUMBER CUT AS IT IS REQUIRED

Width, Thickness, Length Of Material Are All Now Standardized

The home owner interested in modernizing his home or building a new one is now able to obtain almost any kind of lumber standardized as to width, thickness, and length, as well as material for interior woodwork having distinct individuality in color, texture, grain, pattern and design.

Beautiful and distinctive interior woodwork to meet individual requirements and tastes is possible because of the natural variations that occur in tree growth. There is considerable variation in the color effects and growth characteristics of different kind of woods. Some woods have a very open texture, while others are very fine textured. Others have no pores at all. Marked variations are often visible as a result of a difference in the appearance of the spring-wood and summer-wood growth in each annual ring of growth. Even differences in the rate of growth as shown by the width of the annual rings make for individuality.

The various methods of cutting logs also account for charming and distinctive woodwork. Veneers may be cut by the rotary process, in which the knife cuts the log in long thin ribbons of practically any desired width or thickness. This kind of veneer usually displays grain and textural variations in large patterns. In other cases veneers are made by slicing a log with a large knife or sawing it with a large thin saw. These methods usually produce veneers having beautiful but subdued patterns of growth. The angle of the cut brings out very definite growth variations.

When boards are sawed from a log they are plain-sawed on a tangent to the circumference or quarter-sawed so that the saw cut approximates the radius of the log. This latter method produces different grain effects, such as the beautiful silver flecks noted in quarter-sawed white oak and the narrow stripes in edge-grain yellow pine and Douglas fir.

Then, of course, there are the beautiful variations in textural appearance which occur as a result of twisted or wavy growth in wood, such as is noted in bird's-eye maple and curly birch.

Other beautiful effects are obtainable by different surface treatments of the wood as a result of variations in hardness between summer-wood and spring-wood growth, such as may be noted in sugi cypress, sand-blasted fir and redwood, and chemically treated oak beams.

Among the beautiful natural variations in tree growth are those which occur in knotty pine and antique chestnut.

With all the natural variations in different kind of woods, the expert cabinet maker obtains additional varieties in interior woodwork through different color combinations, such as using walnut and maple together. Then the cabinet maker often matches pieces for grain and texture to obtain ribbon designs, diamond effects, crotchwood variations, and the like. Wood inlays of various patterns are sometimes used.

Because of the numerous variations and the differences in price between the many kinds of wood, any home owner may obtain interior woodwork to meet his individual requirements and have effects most pleasing to him. Many of the repairs and improvements he would like to make using wood may be financed by modernization credit available through private financial institutions approved by and cooperating with the federal housing administration, which is insuring such loans under the national housing act.

An illuminated house-number plate installed where readily visible from the street is a great convenience at night. It will assist visitors in locating your home and probably eliminate the annoyance often caused by persons ringing the doorbell to ascertain the location of some other house number.

NEW HOME FOR MONROE

The above architect's drawing shows the front elevation of a six-room English-type home, to be built for R. C. Sparks, Jr., in Fairview addition. Designs for the house were made by J. W. Smith and Associates, architects. The exterior will be of brick veneer. A feature will be the living porch. Construction is expected to begin this week. Three low bids on the work were opened last Thursday evening from the following: A. G. McBride, Bastrop, $6,799; L. D. Davis, West Monroe, $6,800; Home Construction company, Monroe, $6,926.75. Revised bids will be opened Monday evening, after which the contract will be awarded.

BASE FOR POSTS

When installing a wood-bearing post in a basement, it is good practice to rest it on a base that extends above the level of the basement floor. The base may be of concrete, metal, rock, or similar hard, durable material. If the base is pervious to water, it is good practice to dampproof it. This will assist in keeping floor dampness and water from the post, and it will remain dry and sound.

HOW SMALL REPAIR JOB WAS INCREASED TO COVER A HOUSE

GLEN ELLYN, Ill.—J. R. Buell, a leading citizen of this city, expanded an original intention of completing a $300 modernization job into a $6,000 rejuvenation of his property, according to the district director of the federal housing administration for northern Illinois.

Twenty men were given employment on the Buell project.

Mr. Buell, in a desire to cooperate, signed a pledge for $300 after a call by one of the better housing canvassers. Several men immediately found work remodeling the porch of the Buell residence. Results were so satisfactory to Mr. Buell when the porch was completed that he decided to remodel the hallway next. This was only the beginning.

After he remodeled the hallway, he enclosed the entrance porch and transformed it into a modern sun room. These striking improvements made the out-moded living room look shabby in contrast. So Mr. Buell decided to double the size of the living room by extending the house some 60 feet. This process continued until virtually the entire floor was modernized. His enthusiasm next led him into the basement where he built a billiard room, a play room, and finally a bar. The bathroom took on new charm, being remodeled in copenhagen blue and black. Mr. Buell built the play room and furnished it as his children directed.

While this one-man modernization program was financed by private capital, it is an excellent example, according to the director, of how a small beginning frequently leads to extensive activity.

Celotex Meets A Wide Demand For Economical Construction Material

Celotex products are used throughout America and in many foreign countries. They are manufactured in The Celotex Company's mills at Marrero, near New Orleans, Louisiana, where more than one billion square feet of Celotex has been produced. Installations have been made in about 500,000 buildings, representing every type of construction and for every kind of service. In Monroe Celotex is sold by the Parlor City Lumber company.

In the manufacture of Celotex, long tough fibres of bagasse (cane) are properly refined, thoroughly sterilized, effectively waterproofed, firmly felted and securely interwoven to produce large boards of maximum strength consistent with the light weight necessary to assure high heat-stopping value.

Celotex shuts out the bitter cold on the rim of the arctic circle; shields the homes in the equatorial zones from the fience heat of the tropical sun. It makes cevery type of building more healthful, comfortable, cheerful. Inexpensive, it nevertheless adds materially to the valuation of property.

Natural unpainted Celotex possesses sound absorbing properties which lend an atmosphere of quiet in rooms of all types.

Dry rot, fungas growth and termites are causing damage to buildings amounting to millions of dollars annually. Rural and urban areas alike are infested, in temperate as well as in tropical climates.

Just as the steel industry has perfected stainless steel, the kind that is proof against the ravages of rust, so has The Celotex company, after years of research, developed the Ferox Process (patented) which effectively protects Celotex from these destroyers of property.

LUMBER CUT AS IT IS REQUIRED

Width, Thickness, Length Of Material Are All Now Standardized

The home owner interested in modernizing his home or building a new one is now able to obtain almost any kind of lumber standardized as to width, thickness, and length, as well as material for interior woodwork having distinct individuality in color, texture, grain, pattern and design.

Beautiful and distinctive interior woodwork to meet individual requirements and tastes is possible because of the natural variations that occur in tree growth. There is considerable variation in the color effects and growth characteristics of different kind of woods. Some woods have a very open texture, while others are very fine textured. Others have no pores at all. Marked variations are often visible as a result of a difference in the appearance of the spring-wood and summer-wood growth in each annual ring of growth. Even differences in the rate of growth as shown by the width of the annual rings make for individuality.

The various methods of cutting logs also account for charming and distinctive woodwork. Veneers may be cut by the rotary process, in which the knife cuts the log in long thin ribbons of practically any desired width or thickness. This kind of veneer usually displays grain and textural variations in large patterns. In other cases veneers are made by slicing a log with a large knife or sawing it with a large thin saw. These methods usually produce veneers having beautiful but subdued patterns of growth. The angle of the cut brings out very definite growth variations.

When boards are sawed from a log they are plain-sawed on a tangent to the circumference or quarter-sawed so that the saw cut approximates the radius of the log. This latter method produces different grain effects, such as the beautiful silver flecks noted in quarter-sawed white oak and the narrow stripes in edge-grain yellow pine and Douglas fir.

Then, of course, there are the beautiful variations in textural appearance which occur as a result of twisted or wavy growth in wood, such as is noted in bird's-eye maple and curly birch.

Other beautiful effects are obtainable by different surface treatments of the wood as a result of variations in hardness between summer-wood and spring-wood growth, such as may be noted in sugi cypress, sand-blasted fir and redwood, and chemically treated oak beams.

More BUILDING Necessary for Entire Nation!

NEW BUILDING TOPS REPAIRS DURING MARCH

Residential Projects Soar, Labor Bureau Says In Its Report

Washington, D. C.—New residential construction took the lead over modernization during March for the first time since the Federal Housing Administration began to function, while building activity in general reached the highest figure for March within the past 4 years, the Administration has been informed by the Bureau of Labor Statistice, Department of Labor.

Reports from 770 cities to the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that permits for new residential construction in March totaled $20,350,706, while modernization work, exclusive of equipment installations, totaled $17,786,448.

Residential construction gained 103.2 percent last month over the preceding month and 130.9 percent over the same month last year. Modernization work gained 40.2 percent over the preceding month and 48.0 percent over the same month last year.

Building Under Way

This is taken as conclusive evidence by the Administration that new residential construction under the better-housing program is getting well under way, as the increases in building activity for the past several months have depended largely on modernization alone.

South Atlantic States reported the amazing increase in new residential construction over the same month last year of 563.1 percent. Atlanta, Ga., led with permits totaling $2,156,877, against $9,075 for March 1934.

All other sections of the country showed gains in residential construction over the same month last year in the following percentages: New England, 20.2; Middle Atlantic, 129.6; East North Central, 133.4; West North Central, 75.6; East South Central, 269.1; West South Central, 48; Mountain 168.5; Pacific, 63.7.

Other Cities

In addition to Atlanta, five cities went over the half-million mark last month in the residential-construction field. New York, $1,424,300, against $293,250 for the same month last year; Washington, $883,410, against $298,775; Los Angeles, $862,813, against $515,543; Detroit, $536,080, against $165,800; Philadelphia $508,000, against $387,900.

Every section of the country also showed a gain over the same month last year in modernization work, exclusive of equipment installations. The percentages follow: New England 0.3; Middle Atlantic, 48.9; East North Central, 75.5; West North Central, 61.4; South Atlantic, 89.5; East South Central, 43.7; West East South Central, 43.7; West South Central, 47.9; Mountain, 34.4; Pacific, 36.5.

New York City was far in the lead in modernization work, including equipment, with $4,036,209; Los Angeles was second with $943,783, while Columbus, Ohio, leaped into third place with the surprising volume of $731,201. Washington, D. C., continued the tremendously accelerated pace of the past several months with $617,765.

CASH PRIZES FOR ESSAYS ON HOUSING

Industrial Committee Offers Awards And Medals In National Contest

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Cash prizes and eight gold medals for national winners, have been arranged by the Industries Award Committee of the National Educational Better Housing Contest open to all high school boys and girls in continental United States. All contestants will prepare and deliver an essay on the subject "Better Housing and the Home."

The contest, under the sponsorship of the Federal Housing Administration, has been launched to focus the attention of the youth of America on the better housing program.

The prizes:

To the national boy winner, $1,000 and a gold medal. To the national girl winner, $1,000 and a gold medal.

Second prize, $500 and a gold medal. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in each place to a boy and to a girl.

Fourth prize, $250 and a gold medal.

Scholarships

In localities where high school students are not allowed to accept cash awards, scholarships will supplant the money prizes.

Silver medals will be awarded to winners of state contests, including the District of Columbia. Certificates of merit will be awarded by the Federal Housing Administration to the boy and the girl winner in each high school participating. In many sections of the country local better housing committee chairmen and women's division chairmen are arranging for additional local awards.

Announcement of the prizes was made by Ernest T. Trigg, chairman of the Industries Award Committee and president of the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer Association. Every major industrial group in the nation is represented on the award committee.

6-Minute Limit

The contest will be based on an essay written in such form that it will not require more than 6 minutes to deliver orally. Subject matter, literary quality and effective delivery will be taken into consideration by the judges.

Eliminations will be made by districts. Two students, a boy and a girl, will be selected in each school contest. These in turn will compete in district eliminations. State finalists will be determined from district winners in each state. Eliminations for the national finals will follow.

Detailed rules and regulations have been sent to all better housing committee headquarters. Chairmen have been instructed to cooperate with high schools in their respective localities in conducting the contests for school, district, and state winners.

FEDERAL BODY SEES NEED FOR HOME REPAIRS

Report Includes Power Rate Figures For Cities Of The Nation

Washington, D. C.—A recent report of the Federal Power Commission shows the great need of the modernization of homes, the Federal Housing Administration, which is insuring such loans under the National Housing Act, announced recently.

The preliminary report of the Commission gives information on domestic and residential electric rates in effect on January 1, 1935, in cities of 50,000 population and over.

An analysis of electric uses by 20,000,000 customers shows that only a relatively small percentage are equipped with major electrical equipment desirable for a high standard of living and home convenience.

There are only 320,000 customers using electricity for all power, including lighting, cooking, and water heating. Of the total number of customers, 13,350,000 use electricity only for lighting and small appliances. Less than one-third, or 6,500,000 customers, have electric refrigeration. Only 1,340,000 are properly equipped for electric cooking.

Housing Act Helps

It is expected that succeeding reports will present similar information on electric use in all the thousands of communities which receive service, as well as information on commercial, industrial, and rural use. The survey only covered users in the larger cities, which, because of density of population, are probably the best equipped with electric service. It is quite likely, therefore, that when the data for the more sparsely settled sections of the country are included the need for the modernization of homes will be even more apparent.

The National Housing Act is resulting in loans for modernization work being more readily available, because they are insurable by the Federal Housing Administration. Under the Administration's modernization credit plan, home owners may now improve their standards of living by modernizing and improving their homes with needed electrical wiring, fixtures, and built-in equipment.

Bolivia has two capitals: Sucre is the real and legal capital, but La Paz is so much more important commercially and more readily accessible that the national congress meets there.

Like water off a duck's back!
J-M Roof Coatings make old roofs absolutely water-shedding
WATER runs off a roof treated with Johns-Manville Roof Coating like water off a duck's back. Even leaky composition or metal roofs may become absolutely water-shedding when treated with J-M Roof Coating. Not a drop of rain, sleet or melted snow can seep through!
When the roof has cracks or small holes, use J-M Fibrous Enamel. Its heavy asbestos fibre content bridges gaps and forms a protective membrane over the entire roof area. Regal Roof Coating, a similar material, but without the asbestos, can be used when the roof is in better condition.
All J-M Roof Coatings can be applied with a large brush. A simple treatment—yet it will make your old roof good for many more years. Full directions on every container.

NEW BUILDING TOPS REPAIRS DURING MARCH

Residential Projects Soar, Labor Bureau Says In Its Report

Washington, D. C.—New residential construction took the lead over modernization during March for the first time since the Federal Housing Administration began to function, while building activity in general reached the highest figure for March within the past 4 years, the Administration has been informed by the Bureau of Labor Statistice, Department of Labor.

Reports from 770 cities to the Bureau of Labor Statistics show that permits for new residential construction in March totaled $20,350,706, while modernization work, exclusive of equipment installations, totaled $17,786,448.

Residential construction gained 103.2 percent last month over the preceding month, and 130.9 percent over the same month last year. Modernization work gained 40.2 percent over the preceding month and 48.0 percent over the same month last year.

Building Under Way

This is taken as conclusive evidence by the Administration that new residential construction under the better-housing program is getting well under way, as the increases in building activity for the past several months have depended largely on modernization alone.

South Atlantic States reported the amazing increase in new residential construction over the same month last year of 563.1 percent. Atlanta, Ga., led with permits totaling $2,156,877, against $9,075 for March 1934.

All other sections of the country showed gains in residential construction over the same month last year in the following percentages: New England, 20.2; Middle Atlantic, 129.6; East North Central, 133.4; West North Central, 75.6; East South Central, 269.1; West South Central, 48; Mountain 168.5; Pacific, 63.7.

Other Cities

In addition to Atlanta, five cities went over the half-million mark last month in the residential-construction field. New York, $1,424,300, against $293,250 for the same month last year; Washington, $883,410, against $298,775; Los Angeles, $862,813, against $515,543; Detroit, $536,080, against $165,800; Philadelphia $508,000, against $387,900.

Every section of the country also showed a gain over the same month last year in modernization work, exclusive of equipment installations. The percentages follow: New England 0.3; Middle Atlantic, 48.9; East North Central, 75.5; West North Central, 61.4; South Atlantic, 89.5; East South Central, 43.7; West East South Central, 43.7; West South Central, 47.9; Mountain, 34.4; Pacific, 36.5.

New York City was far in the lead in modernization work, including equipment, with $4,036,209; Los Angeles was second with $943,783, while Columbus, Ohio, leaped into third place with the surprising volume of $731,201. Washington, D. C., continued the tremendously accelerated pace of the past several months with $617,765.

CASH PRIZES FOR ESSAYS ON HOUSING

Industrial Committee Offers Awards And Medals In National Contest

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Cash prizes and eight gold medals for national winners, have been arranged by the Industries Award Committee of the National Educational Better Housing Contest open to all high school boys and girls in continental United States. All contestants will prepare and deliver an essay on the subject "Better Housing and the Home."

The contest, under the sponsorship of the Federal Housing Administration, has been launched to focus the attention of the youth of America on the better housing program.

The prizes:

To the national boy winner, $1,000 and a gold medal. To the national girl winner, $1,000 and a gold medal.

Second prize, $500 and a gold medal. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in each place to a boy and to a girl.

Third prize, $250 and a gold medal.

Fourth prize, $250 and a gold medal.

Scholarships

In localities where high school students are not allowed to accept cash awards, scholarships will supplant the money prizes.

Silver medals will be awarded to winners of state contests, including the District of Columbia. Certificates of merit will be awarded by the Federal Housing Administration to the boy and the girl winner in each high school participating. In many sections of the country local better housing committee chairmen and women's division chairmen are arranging for additional local awards.

Announcement of the prizes was made by Ernest T. Trigg, chairman of the Industries Award Committee and president of the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer Association. Every major industrial group in the nation is represented on the award committee.

6-Minute Limit

The contest will be based on an essay written in such form that it will not require more than 6 minutes to deliver orally. Subject matter, literary quality and effective delivery will be taken into consideration by the judges.

Eliminations will be made by districts. Two students, a boy and a girl, will be selected in each school contest. These in turn will compete in district eliminations. State finalists will be determined from district winners in each state. Eliminations for the national finals will follow.

Detailed rules and regulations have been sent to all better housing committee headquarters. Chairmen have been instructed to cooperate with high schools in their respective localities in conducting the contests for school, district, and state winners.

O'NEAL WILL PREACH DOWNSVILLE SERMON

DOWNSVILLE, La., May 11.—(Special)—Rev. Lloyd O'Neal, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Bastrop, will preach the baccalaureate sermon of the Downsville high school on Sunday, May 19, and Dr. Gustaf Freden, member of the Louisiana Tech faculty of Ruston, will address the graduates on the night of May 23, according to an announcement by R. H. Hardage, principal.

There are 13 in the graduating class as follows: Nellie Albritton, Reita Bayles, Elaine Daniel, Dorothy Pardue, Margie Roberson, Irene Roberson, Evelyn Waggoner, Mary Martha Green, Mary John Hester, Shirley Futrell, Ernest Cartlidge, Willie Hicks and James McDaniel.

OLDEST MOTHER IN MONROE

Mrs. Sarah Shuster, who on May 28 will have reached the age of 97 years. Today she is recognized as the oldest mother in Monroe and perhaps in all northeast Louisiana.

Monroe's Oldest Mother Is Mrs. Sarah Shuster

"There is an enduring tenderness in the love of mother that transcends all other affections of the heart. It is neither to be chilled by selfishness, nor daunted by danger, nor weakened by worthlessness nor stifled by ingratitude. She will sacrifice every comfort for her child's convenience, she will surrender every pleasure to its enjoyment, she will glory in his fame. If disgrace settles upon his name she will still love and cherish him, and if all the world casts him off she will still be all the world to him."—Washington Irving.

Today the entire country is paying homage to motherhood in accordance with the custom established by Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia back in 1908 and which was later adopted by a congressional resolution May 10, 1913, whereby the second Sunday in May is set aside as Mother's day. A carnation is the emblem of the day, a white one in memory of the mother who has passed on, and a red one for a mother who still lives.

Naturally on a day like this one is interested in the oldest mother in the community. This honor goes to Mrs. Sarah Shuster, of 516 Hudson lane, who will on May 28 be 97 years of age. Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Shuster was in fairly good health until recently. For the past four weeks she has remained in bed due to weakness, but it is hoped that she will be up and around for her birthday anniversary.

She is typical of pioneer motherhood and today six surviving children of this worthy parent will pay filial tribute to a remarkable mother. Friends from all over the city will also remember in various ways this worthy woman whose life has been most eventful. She was born in Bavaria and at eight years came to America with her parents. Exactly 63 days were required for the trip from Antwerp to New Orleans.

Her first home in America was in Columbia, La., where she resided with an uncle and aunt until she was 15 years old. Then she went to Cincinnati, where her parents resided after their removal from Europe. At 18 she was married in Cincinnati to Isaac Shuster. The young couple spent the first year and a half of their married life in Galena, Ills., after which they removed to Shreveport.

In 1858, Shreveport was a very small village. Water, she recalls, was obtained from a privately-owned reservoir, and when it failed to rain this rain-fed storage tank went dry and water was secured from private wells for 10 cents a bucket, one having to wait ones turn.

Mrs. Shuster went from Shreveport to Memphis where she lived in Civil war days, her husband being in the southern army. By a strange twist of fate, a brother of this woman was in the northern army.

Mrs. Shuster still recalls the trip she made from Shreveport to Memphis with four children, the youngest a baby. A bad storm overtook them and they were quartered one night in a negro cabin on the banks of the Mississippi. Soldiers, both northern and southern, were nearby but she was allowed to go unmolested through the ranks and got a boat at Vidalia for Memphis.

The Shusters removed to Monroe in 1865 at the close of the war. Their first Monroe home was on the banks of the Ouachita, near where Peters funeral chapel now is located. The house was owned by Major Henry Bry, clerk of district court.

Mrs. Shuster recalls that she and Mrs. Robert Endom made the flannel shirts for the first Monroe fire department members. Monroe then was only a village and all territory north of the present Illinois Central tracks was a large cotton feld.

Later the Shusters removed to Farmerville where Mr. Shuster was postmaster for 37 years, serving under both Republican and Democratic presidents.

Ten children were born to Mrs. Shuster of whom six survive. These are Mrs. Nettie Wise of Chicago; Mrs. Eugene Stern of St. Louis; Joe Shuster of St. Louis; Mrs. Gilbert Rose of Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Tom Atkinson and Mrs. Hugh Bracey of Monroe. Mrs. Shuster has 16 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

For the past few years, since the death of her husband, Mrs. Shuster has resided with her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Bracey.

CARAVAN VISITS EROSION PROJECT

350 Men Make 30-Mile Tour Of Work In Lincoln Parish

RUSTON, May 11.—(Special)—A caravan of more than 50 trucks, "pick-up" cars, ordinary passenger cars and other modes of travel swept out of Ruston Friday morning, carrying 350 farmers, police jurymen, school board members, parish agents, agricultural teachers and business men for a 35-mile tour of project No. 15, better known as the Cypress creek project of the soil erosion work in Lincoln parish.

Heading the caravan were H. B. Martin, in charge of the Cypress creek area; Henry Mims, in charge of the Brushy and Cooley creek areas, Webster parish; Congressman Riley J. Wilson; Parish Agents Strahan, Hester, Mitchell, Singletary of L. S. U. extension service; Prof. W. R. Hendricks, L. S. U. agronomist; J. C. Hutchinson, agricultural engineer, L. S. U.; R. A. Wasson, agronomist, L. S. U.; N. B. Boddie, superintendent of the Caddo parish penal farm; Police Jurors L. E. Walker, C. D. Dickson and J. C. Powell, Caddo parish; R. J. McAdams, president of the Claiborne police jury, with B. W. White, W. B. Williams and R. D. McDonald, members of the Claiborne body, and others.

A noon-day stop, made at Unionville, was the occasion for a sumptuous "feed" in the form of barbecue followed by addresses setting forth the fundamentals of soil conservation, reforestation, the making of permanent pastures and other problems essential to successful farming in the "hill country" of north Louisiana.

The Cypress creek project covers approximately 450 farms, though probably not more than half that number has yet received the revitalizing touch of the erosion control service.

Expressions heard from many visitors indicate that there will be almost a state-wide demand for this type of farm assistance in the immediate future.

The 13 original states had a total area of 892,135 square miles in 1790; 24,155 square miles of this was under water. Today, these states have a total area of 326,378 square miles, other states having been formed within their boundaries.

'QUEEN OF THE MAY'

Lake Providence

Five speakers entertained the membership of the Carroll Woman's club at the meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. F. Bonner at Transylvania, with Miss Evelyn Fife and Mrs. J. P. Davis as co-hostesses. The first number was a report by Mrs. T. H. Estes of the district meeting recently held in Ferriday, followed by Dr. J. P. Davis on "Public Health," Mrs. J. E. Peeler on "The History of Mother's Day," Mrs. C. A. Rose's report on the international relations meeting held in Rayville, and Mrs. R. K. Howard's talk on the "Agricultural Exhibits and Federated Clubs' Institute," held in Baton Rouge during the diamond jubilee at L. S. U. After the business session and program the hostesses served a chicken salad to Mesdames J. E. Peeler, R. K. Howard, J. B. Erwin, J. G. Wyly, C. A. Rose, Arthur Crump, E. E. Erwin, Shin and mother, Mrs. Taylor, and Misses Jamie Haller and Eunyce Howard.

Three arias, one in French, from the opera "Carmen," were sung by Mrs. Mark H. Brown in observance of National Music week by the Civic club at the May meeting held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Guenard with Mrs. Bert Haller and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh as hostesses. Featured on the same program was a paper by Mrs. Ashley W. Warlick entitled "What Is An Opera," and a review of the opera "Carmen" which was interspersed with the vocal selections.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh and Mr. Earl E. Evans were hosts Wednesday evening at a barbecue supper served at the "Bloody Bucket" in honor of the 53rd birthday of Sheriff John C. Bass. More than 25 guests enjoyed the evening of pleasure and joined the citizenry in extending him wishes for many happy returns.

Lake Providence was the meeting place for the May meeting of the Tri-Parish Medical association, which was presided over by the president, Dr. B. L. Bailey, of Oak Grove. Dr. J. A. K. Birchett of Vicksburg was the guest speaker and Dr. R. A. Street of Vicksburg, was an additional guest for the meeting. Members present were Dr. G. W. Gaines and Dr. Provine of Tallulah, Dr. Joseph Whitaker and Dr. J. G. Norris of St. Joseph, Dr. Dan Kelly and Dr. E. D. Butler of Oak Grove, and from Lake Providence there were Drs. W. K. Evans, W. H. Hamley, J. P. Davis and G. S. Hopkins.

BABY SHOW WILL BE STAGED AT TALLULAH

TALLULAH, La., May 11.—(Special)—A baby show for the parishes of East Carroll, Madison and Tensas, sponsored by the Tallulah Book club and under the direction of Mrs. E. O. Edgerton, will be the feature of the Mothers' Day observance in Tallulah at the book club building. Children from three months to five years who are entered will be given a physical examination by the physicians, dentists and nurses of Tallulah, and fifteen cash prizes donated by bachelors will be awarded.

Child Health Clinic Is Held At Tallu...

TALLULAH, La., May 11.—(Speci...—A successful health clinic, known ... the "Summer Roundup," for children who will enter school next session, which was sponsored by the Tallulah Parent-Teacher association, was held at the high school building here. The Madison parish health unit, local Red Cross and American Legion auxiliary cooperated in the project, in which 62 children from all sections of Madison parish except the Mounds area were given complete physical examinations and immunizations against diphtheria and smallpox where needed.

Doctors G. W. Gaines, A. T. Palmer, W. P. Yerger, E. S. Freeman, L. Stevens, E. O. Edgerton, George C. Purvis and S. J. Lombardo, assisted by nurses Mrs. L. Z. Naylor, of Tallulah, Miss Elnora K. Richard, of Rayville and Miss Mattie B. Harper, of Morehouse parish and a number of mothers examined the children and distributed health literature. A similar clinic will be conducted at the Mounds school May 16.

Church membership has multiplied four times as fast as the population of this country since 1800. It has been estimated that there are now 55,000,000 church members in the United States.

H. Hardage, principal.

OLDEST MOTHER IN MONROE

Mrs. Sarah Shuster, who on May 28 will have reached the age of 97 years. Today she is recognized as the oldest mother in Monroe and perhaps in all northeast Louisiana.

Monroe's Oldest Mother Is Mrs. Sarah Shuster

"There is an enduring tenderness in the love of mother that transcends all other affections of the heart. It is neither to be chilled by selfishness, nor daunted by danger, nor weakened by worthlessness nor stifled by ingratitude. She will sacrifice every comfort for her child's convenience, she will surrender every pleasure to its enjoyment, she will glory in his fame. If disgrace settles upon his name she will still love and cherish him, and if all the world casts him off she will still be all the world to him."—Washington Irving.

Today the entire country is paying homage to motherhood in accordance with the custom established by Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia back in 1908 and which was later adopted by a congressional resolution May 10, 1913, whereby the second Sunday in May is set aside as Mother's day. A carnation is the emblem of the day, a white one in memory of the mother who has passed on, and a red one for a mother who still lives.

Naturally on a day like this one is interested in the oldest mother in the community. This honor goes to Mrs. Sarah Shuster, of 516 Hudson lane, who will on May 28 be 97 years of age. Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Shuster was in fairly good health until recently. For the past four weeks she has remained in bed due to weakness, but it is hoped that she will be up and around for her birthday anniversary.

She is typical of pioneer motherhood and today six surviving children of this worthy parent will pay filial tribute to a remarkable mother. Friends from all over the city will also remember in various ways this worthy woman whose life has been most eventful. She was born in Bavaria and at eight years came to America with her parents. Exactly 63 days were required for the trip from Antwerp to New Orleans.

Her first home in America was in Columbia, La., where she resided with an uncle and aunt until she was 15 years old. Then she went to Cincinnati, where her parents resided after their removal from Europe. At 18 she was married in Cincinnati to Isaac Shuster. The young couple spent the first year and a half of their married life in Galena, Ills., after which they removed to Shreveport.

In 1858, Shreveport was a very small village. Water, she recalls, was obtained from a privately-owned reservoir, and when it failed to rain this rain-fed storage tank went dry and water was secured from private wells for 10 cents a bucket, one having to wait ones turn.

Mrs. Shuster went from Shreveport to Memphis where she lived in Civil war days, her husband being in the southern army. By a strange twist of fate, a brother of this woman was in the northern army.

Mrs. Shuster still recalls the trip she made from Shreveport to Memphis with four children, the youngest a baby. A bad storm overtook them and they were quartered one night in a negro cabin on the banks of the Mississippi. Soldiers, both northern and southern, were nearby but she was allowed to go unmolested through the ranks and got a boat at Vidalia for Memphis.

The Shusters removed to Monroe in 1865 at the close of the war. Their first Monroe home was on the banks of the Quachita, near where Peters funeral chapel now is located. The house was owned by Major Henry Bry, clerk of district court.

Mrs. Shuster recalls that she and Mrs. Robert Endom made the flannel shirts for the first Monroe fire department members. Monroe then was only a village and all territory north of the present Illinois Central tracks was a large cotton feld.

Later the Shusters removed to Farmerville where Mr. Shuster was postmaster for 37 years, serving under both Republican and Democratic presidents.

Ten children were born to Mrs. Shuster of whom six survive. These are Mrs. Nettie Wise of Chicago; Mrs. Eugene Stern of St. Louis; Joe Shuster of St. Louis; Mrs. Gilbert Rose of Asheville, N. C.; Mrs. Tom Atkinson and Mrs. Hugh Bracey of Monroe. Mrs. Shuster has 16 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

For the past few years, since the death of her husband, Mrs. Shuster has resided with her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Bracey.

CARAVAN VISITS EROSION PROJECT

350 Men Make 30-Mile Tour Of Work In Lincoln Parish

RUSTON, May 11.—(Special)—A caravan of more than 50 trucks, "pick-up" cars, ordinary passenger cars and other modes of travel swept out of Ruston Friday morning, carrying 350 farmers, police jurymen, school board members, parish agents, agricultural teachers and business men for a 35-mile tour of project No. 15, better known as the Cypress creek project of the soil erosion work in Lincoln parish.

Heading the caravan were H. B. Martin, in charge of the Cypress creek area; Henry Mims, in charge of the Brushy and Cooley creek areas, Webster parish; Congressman Riley J. Wilson; Parish Agents Strahan, Hester, Mitchell, Singletary of L. S. U. extension service; Prof. W. R. Hendricks, L. S. U. agronomist; J. C. Hutchinson, agricultural engineer, L. S. U.; R. A. Wasson, agronomist, L. S. U.; N. B. Boddie, superintendent of the Caddo parish penal farm; Police Jurors L. E. Walker, C. D. Dickson and J. C. Powell, Caddo parish; R. J. McAdams, president of the Claiborne police jury, with B. W. White, W. B. Williams and R. D. McDonald, members of the Claiborne body, and others.

A noon-day stop, made at Unionville, was the occasion for a sumptuous "feed" in the form of barbecue followed by addresses setting forth the fundamentals of soil conservation, reforestation, the making of permanent pastures and other problems essential to successful farming in the "hill country" of north Louisiana.

The Cypress creek project covers approximately 450 farms, though probably not more than half that number has yet received the revitalizing touch of the erosion control service.

Expressions heard from many visitors indicate that there will be almost a state-wide demand for this type of farm assistance in the immediate future.

The 13 original states had a total area of 892,135 square miles in 1790; 24,155 square miles of this was under water. Today, these states have a total area of 326,378 square miles, other states having been formed within their boundaries.

'QUEEN OF THE MAY'

Little Elizabeth Siegle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Siegle, who presided over the "May Day Health Pageant," sponsored by the Sherrouse Parent-Teacher association at Sherrouse public school on Wednesday, May 1.

Lake Providence

Five speakers entertained the membership of the Carroll Woman's club at the meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. F. Bonner at Transylvania, with Miss Evelyn Fife and Mrs. J. P. Davis as co-hostesses. The first number was a report by Mrs. T. H. Estes of the district meeting recently held in Ferriday, followed by Dr. J. P. Davis on "Public Health," Mrs. J. E. Peeler on "The History of Mother's Day," Mrs. C. A. Rose's report on the international relations meeting held in Rayville, and Mrs. R. K. Howard's talk on the "Agricultural Exhibits and Federated Clubs' Institute," held in Baton Rouge during the diamond jubilee at L. S. U. After the business session and program the hostesses served a chicken salad to Mesdames J. E. Peeler, R. K. Howard, J. B. Erwin, J. G. Wyly, C. A. Rose, Arthur Crump, E. E. Erwin, Shin and mother, Mrs. Taylor, and Misses Jamie Haller and Eunyce Howard.

Three arias, one in French, from the opera "Carmen," were sung by Mrs. Mark H. Brown in observance of National Music week by the Civic club at the May meeting held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Guenard with Mrs. Bert Haller and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh as hostesses. Featured on the same program was a paper by Mrs. Ashley W. Warlick entitled "What Is An Opera," and a review of the opera "Carmen" which was interspersed with the vocal selections.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Van Valkenburgh and Mr. Earl E. Evans were hosts Wednesday evening at a barbecue supper served at the "Bloody Bucket" in honor of the 53rd birthday of Sheriff John C. Bass. More than 25 guests enjoyed the evening of pleasure and joined the citizenry in extending him wishes for many happy returns.

Lake Providence was the meeting place for the May meeting of the Tri-Parish Medical association, which was presided over by the president, Dr. B. L. Bailey, of Oak Grove. Dr. J. A. K. Birchett of Vicksburg was the guest speaker and Dr. R. A. Street of Vicksburg, was an additional guest for the meeting. Members present were Dr. G. W. Gaines and Dr. Provine of Tallulah, Dr. Joseph Whitaker and Dr. J. G. Norris of St. Joseph, Dr. Dan Kelly and Dr. E. D. Butler of Oak Grove, and from Lake Providence there were Drs. W. K. Evans, W. H. Hamley, J. P. Davis and G. S. Hopkins.

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

THE MONSTER

SYBIL CRIED OUT IN TERROR AS THE POWERFUL APE, DRIVEN MAD BY FEAR AND HUNGER, CLUTCHED HER THROAT.

BUT TARZAN SWOOPED DOWN AND LOCKED A STEEL-THEWED ARM AROUND THE THICK NECK OF THE BEAST. "LET GO!" HE COMMANDED.

AS BOHGDU SLOWLY RELEASED HIS GRIP, TARZAN, TOO, EASED HIS HOLD.

THEN WITH A SUDDEN WRENCH, BOHGDU BROKE AWAY AND WHIRLED TO THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE RAFT. THERE HE STOOD BEATING HIS CHEST AND SNARLING FIERCELY. TARZAN ADDRESSED HIM: "WOULD YOU HARM ME, YOUR MASTER?"

BOHGDU GLARED BLANKLY. HIS MADNESS HAD EMPTIED HIS MIND OF EVERYTHING EXCEPT HIS OVERPOWERING SENSE OF HUNGER

"KILL HIM!" PLEADED THE TERRIFIED GIRL; "OR HE WILL KILL US." TARZAN SHOOK HIS HEAD SADLY.

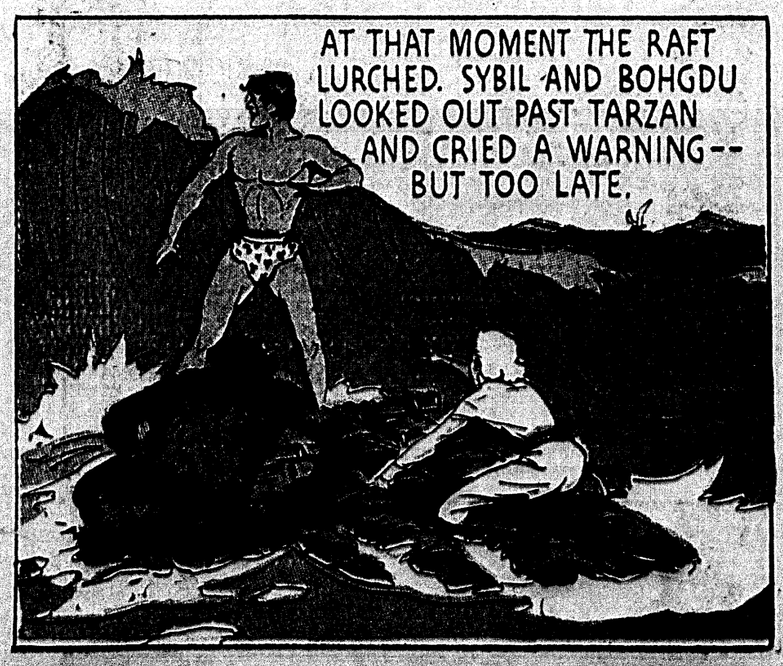

"NO! THE MADNESS OF HUNGER DRIVES MEN TO HORRIBLE DEEDS. MUST WE EXPECT MORE OF THIS POOR BEAST? PERHAPS I CAN CALM HIM."

AS THE APE CROUCHED OMINOUSLY, TARZAN CONTINUED: "DIVIDE THE FOOD INTO TWO SHARES. YOU KEEP ONE; THE OTHER I SHALL GIVE TO BOHGDU."

AT THAT MOMENT THE RAFT LURCHED. SYBIL AND BOHGDU LOOKED OUT PAST TARZAN AND CRIED A WARNING-- BUT TOO LATE.

A GREAT WAVE, STIRRED BY A FREAK OF THE WIND, WASHED SUDDENLY OVER THE RAFT AND SWEPT THE APE-MAN INTO THE SEA.

DICK TRACY

OPENING THE FIRST CAVE DOOR, DICK TRACY OBSERVES THE TWO WILDCATS GUARDING THE REAR ROOM OF THE CAVE WHERE BORIS AND ZORA ARSON AND "CUTIE" DIAMOND ARE IN HIDING - BUT BEFORE HE CAN PLAN ANY ACTION, "CUTIE" SPRINGS TO THE INNER DOOR OF THE CAVE AND FIRES A MACHINE GUN AT THE DETECTIVE.....

ONLY BY HURLING HIMSELF SUDDENLY BACKWARD AND PULLING THE DOOR CLOSED, DOES TRACY AVOID DEATH. "CUTIE" CONTINUES TO FIRE THROUGH THE OUTER DOOR, HOWEVER AT REGULAR INTERVALS SO THAT TRACY AND HIS MEN DARE NOT ATTEMPT ENTRANCE TO THE CAVE. BUT AT LAST A PLAN HAS BEEN WORKED UP TO DRIVE THE CRIMINALS OUT..

EVERYTHING'S READY, TRACY.

OKAY - QUIET NOW! "CUTIE"! BORIS! WE'RE GOING TO FORCE YOU TO COME OUT..WE'RE GOING TO DRIVE YOU OUT WITH CARBON MONOXIDE GAS!

WE'VE BACKED OUR CAR UP TO THE SIDE OF THE CAVE OUT OF YOUR LINE OF FIRE, AND DRILLED A HOLE IN THE CAVE WALL. THEN WE PUT AN EXTENSION ON THE EXHAUST PIPE, AND RAN IT THROUGH THE HOLE.

NOW YOU'LL EITHER WALK OUT ALIVE WITH YOUR HANDS UP OR WE'LL DRAG YOU AND YOUR WILDCATS OUT IN ABOUT AN HOUR, DEAD. FROM CARBON MONOXIDE FUMES!

RACE THE ENGINE, PAT!

BUT-BUT-THEY CAN'T DO THAT..THEY-..WHY THE~~!~~!

CARBON MONOXIDE GAS IS ONE OF THE DEADLIEST GASES KNOWN.. WE'LL... WE'LL BE SUFFOCATED!

IT - IT WON'T WORK! THEY CAN'T GET ENOUGH GAS FUMES IN HERE- - - - - -

THEY CAN'T, EH? WHY, I CAN SMELL THEM NOW!

THROW THE THROTTLE WIDE OPEN, PAT!

WELL, MY FRIENDS! HOW IS THE ATMOSPHERE IN THERE BY NOW? EH? HA-HA-HA!

THEY'VE GOT US.

I WANT TO GET OUT OF HERE! I'M CHOKING TO DEATH.. LET ME OUT OF HERE!

SHUT UP, ZORA!

OKAY..I'LL PUSH THE RUNWAY OUT, AND WE'LL GO OUT. THEY ASKED FOR IT, AND THEY'RE GOING TO GET IT!

THEY'RE COMING OUT! QUICK, YELLOWPONY-BEHIND THAT TREE! PAT, GET DOWN BEHIND THAT ROCK...I'LL GET BACK OF THE CAR.

CAPTAIN EASY

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

by ROY CRANE

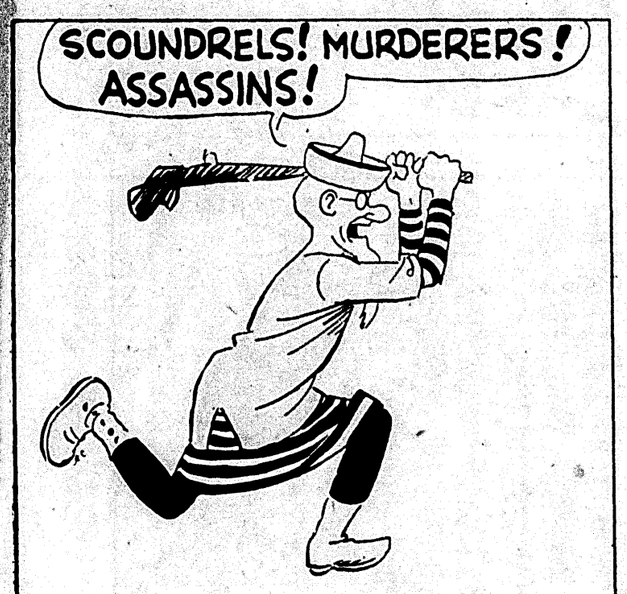

LEAVING EASY AND PIPPY TIED TO A TREE, THE PIRATES WADDLE OFF TO UNEARTH EASY'S TREASURE.

THEN MORNING. AND A FUNNY, OLD MAN, WITH A BEARD LIKE A BILLY-GOAT, HEARS THEIR SHOUTING.

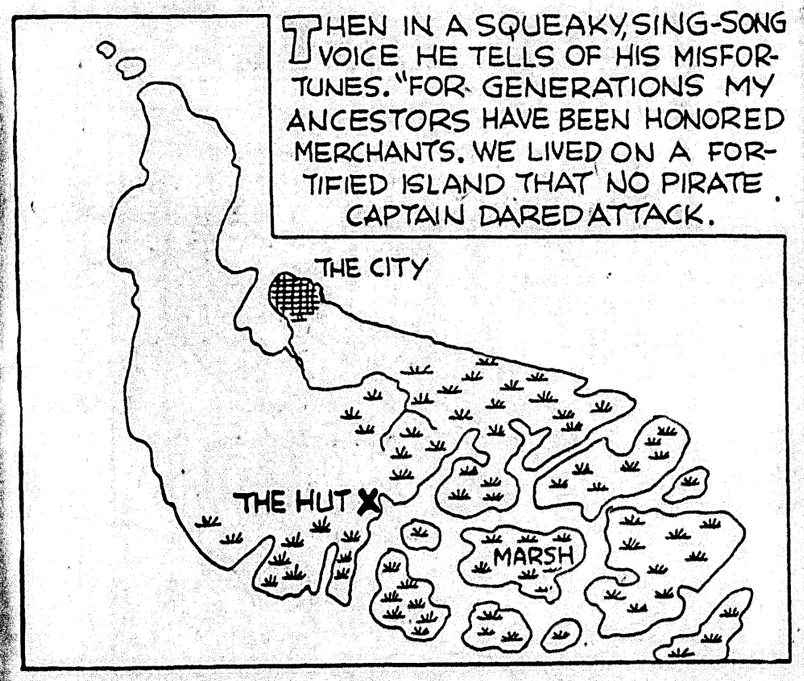

THINKING THAT THEY ARE PIRATES, HE IS ABOUT TO SLAY THEM....

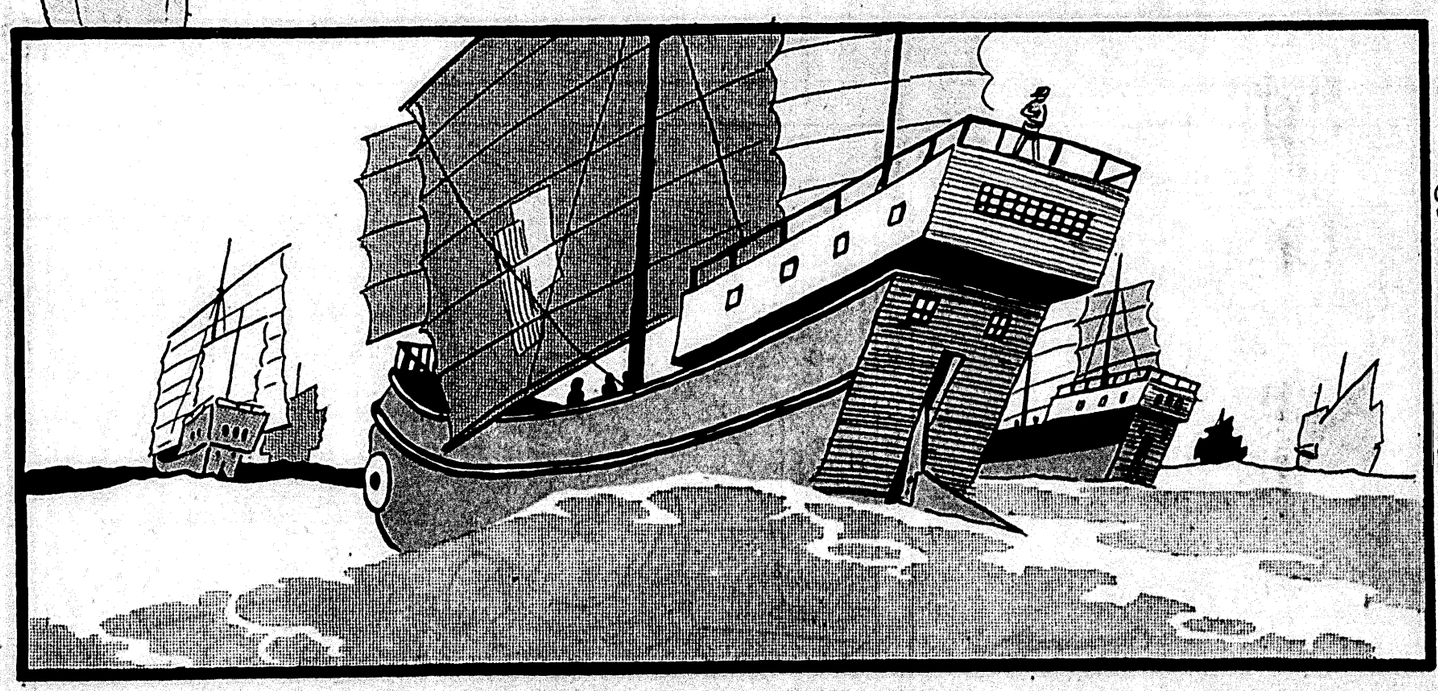

.....WHEN A GIRL CRIES OUT.

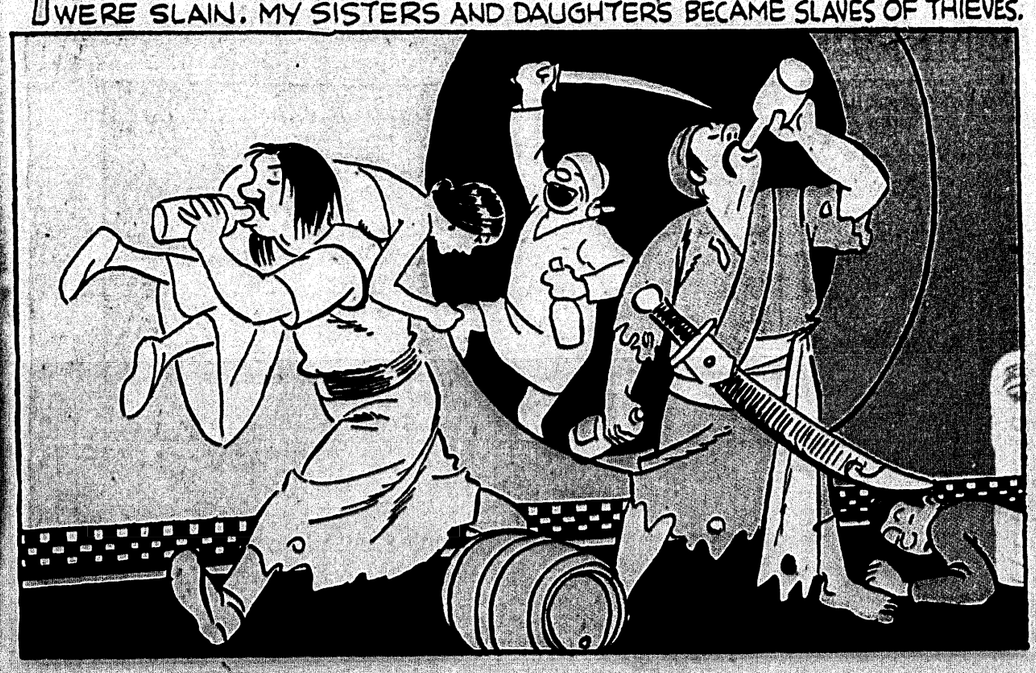

FROM THAT MOMENT, NOTHING IS TOO GOOD FOR EASY AND PIPPY. THE OLD MAN, GUM CHEW, CUTS THEIR BONDS AND LEADS THEM TO A DILAPIDATED HUT.

"BUT, LAST WEEK," HE CONTINUES, "FIVE OF THE DOGS JOINED FORCES WITH 16 JUNKS OF WAR, THEY ATTACKED OUR CITY. THEY WERE VICTORIOUS.

"THE LOOTING LASTED 4 DAYS AND NIGHTS. MY SONS AND BROTHERS WERE SLAIN. MY SISTERS AND DAUGHTERS BECAME SLAVES OF THIEVES.

ONLY LARK SONG, MY YOUNGEST DAUGHTER, AND I ESCAPED. WE LIVE AMONG CROCODILES, ON THE EDGE OF A MARSH. NEXT WEEK WE SHALL STARVE, FOR THE LAST OF OUR RICE WILL BE GONE"

BUT EASY ISN'T LISTENING TO THE OLD MAN'S HARANGUE. INSTEAD, HE'S THINKING WHAT A LOVELY COMPLEXION LARK SONG HAS.

"Actually Earns $14.00 a Month Says Mrs. Julius Cahn—

"My Stewart-Warner is actually earning $14.00 a month. It has paid for itself in one year by saving an ice bill of $8.00 a month and $6.00 a month more on groceries, my household expenses are at least $14.00 a month less than they would be if I didn't have my Stewart-Warner. It is wonderful."

YOU CAN'T BE A RADIO STAR ON A "SISSY BREAKFAST"

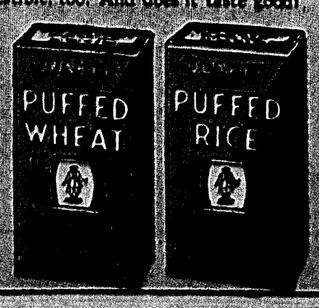

Warm weather is no excuse for careless, skimpy, "Sissy Breakfasts"—not when QUAKER PUFFED WHEAT gives you the cereal energy you need, in delightful confection form. These crisp, toasty, puffed grains are made of whole wheat. "Shot from guns," every wheat kernel becomes a golden honeycombed puff that instantly absorbs the digestive juices—releasing the food-energy of the grain in double-quick time.

QUAKER PUFFED RICE is quickly digestible, too. And does it taste good! Children eat it like candy.
